

Marching Warhawks

Unique. From the word "go," the Marching Warhawks are a unique band. It is the only independant school in South Carolina to compete in State Marching Competition. Featured are students from fifth grade up while the average band's youngest marchers are in the ninth grade. But the most unique things about the Marching Warhawks are the shows they put together each marching season. We have a reputation for "anything goes" and the fans love it. So through smiles, tears, wins, or losses the John C. Calhoun Marching Warhawks will be recognized for their individuality. As long as the band exists, the Warhawks will "march proud!"