

Candace Goodwin, senior member of the National Honor Society, believes being a member "makes one feel as if he is receiving recognition for making good grades."

(Top left), Getting all the wrinkles out of the ceremony requires preparation.

(Above), Old members Walter Hiott and Mark Socha do their part to make the reception a success.

(Above), Michelle Beach presents her part of the program, a speech on leadership.