

The Warhawk Staff consisted of juniors and seniors who showed an interest in journalism. The paper was an excellent means of communication among the entire student body. It gave the students a chance to voice their opinions through articles which appeared in the paper. Freedom of the press was sometimes taken for granted before, but students realized how important this personal freedom was. Being able to express one's own views gave students a feeling of pride. After seeing the finished products, members of the staff felt a sense of accomplishment.

Because of increased expenses, THE WARHAWK was published only twice this year — once each semester. To supplement these issues, THE SHRIEKER was printed every other month. THE SHRIEKER, printed on its famous blue paper, contained campus happenings, school news, and information. It was a condensed version of THE WARHAWK. Sponsors bought ads for the small issues of THE SHRIEKER.

Freedom Of The Press
