

Not Just Another Year

Another year at the same old school, but was it really just another year? Of course not! This year had something new for everyone. When making the change from kindergarten to lower school, the students took the first steps toward maturity. For the middle school, the biggest difference was changing classes. The most exciting thing about upper school was knowing that you are on the downhill side. It was a year full of new classes, new friends, new faculty members and having a winning football and basketball team. Some were good; some were not so good, but in retrospect, not many people can say that 1985-'86 was not a great year for John C. Calhoun Academy.

Ward Ulmer is never too busy to help out around the school.
