A couple of students discuss the latest news before the first bell for school.

"Was that the first bell?"
"I don't know. It may have been the tardy bell."

Thus the day began, as the last few students straggled to their homeroom class to finish writing last night's homework. First period, the teachers began their lectures just as they did every other day of the year. With the exception of occasional days when activity periods were held for the exciting pep rallies and special events, school days at John C. were fairly predictable.

Hurrying from class to class, students grabbed a few moments to talk to friends or to sneak a snack from their lunch. Then — on to another class. Between 11:30 and 1:00, students enjoyed relaxing on the picnic tables, eating their lunch. This time was spent making plans for weekends, catching up on gossip, and cramming for the "killer" test next period.

Could one of these be the new Miss J.C.C.A.? Unfortunately, it's only Ward Ulmer, Pat Harmon, and Jimmy Hiott dressed up for the pep rally.

A Day At J.C.C.A.

Everyone loves to dress up! And what a better time than for the Halloween Carnival at the school.

Ahh, who can forget the great memories of riding the fire truck for the first time your kindergarten year.

The kindergarteners take a short break to enjoy their milk and cookies for lunch.

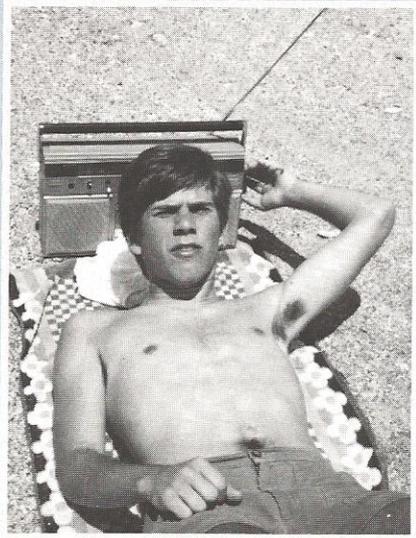

Swearing never to touch a bug again, Cindy Smith gladly turns in her insect collection.

Summer

During summer practice, Coach Orsini discusses the new football plays for the upcoming season.

Caroline Wertz, Kim Headden, and Sherrie Rizer prepare to leave for a hard week of studying at Girl's State.

For Danny Beach, this is the life; the sun, the water, the music, and No School!

At camp, Junior Varsity cheerleaders, Terri Hudson and Becky Stewart, practice their new routines for evaluation.

No, they aren't trying to fly, instead the Talon Staff tries to pose as the statue.

At basketball camp, Wendy Hiott fights with all her might, determined to get the ball.

Fever

Boy, what a change in appearance! Some of the Varsity cheerleaders dress up for talent night at cheerleader camp.

A world of homework, practices, and early mornings turned upside down when the final bell rang, May 31. Vacations, friends, and "bumming" took over students' time.

For many, 11 a.m. no longer signaled lunchtime, but instead time to get up. Yet while late sleepers snoozed away, sun worshippers found themselves at the pool.

Not everyone had time to spend in the sun. Football, basketball, and cheerleader camps were filled with John C. students who were preparing themselves for next year's season. Girl's State, Wofford's Enrichment programs, and Annual Staff Camp were attended over the summer.

Students took many different paths, but they all have very special memories of the summer that will last through their school year.

Fads, Fashions, Hot Spots

The 1985-86 school year brought with it changes in fashion, new musical favorites, new movies, and new weekend hot spots. These new trends could be seen everyday among J.C.C.A. students.

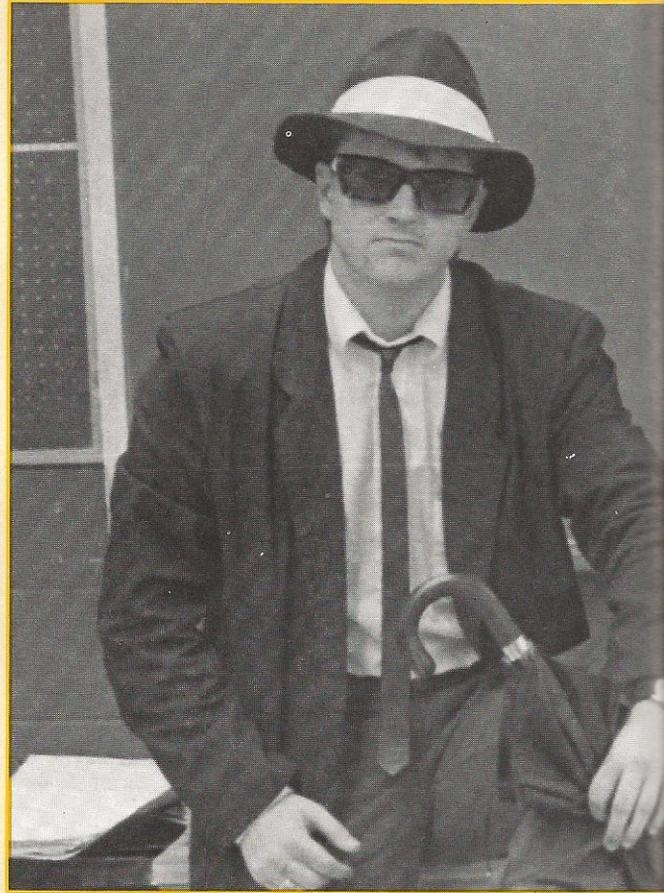

The new fashions hit John C. with a bang! Forenza, Swatch watches, Guess jeans, and Reebok shoes were a few of the trends acquired by students. Fashions weren't the only craze this year. RATT, Van Halen, and Bruce Springsteen were among musical favorites. Especially, Eddie Murphy, who hit the pop charts with the #1 song, "Party All the Time."

After a hard week of school work, students were ready for the weekend. On the weekends, they would drive uptown, find their friends and grab a bite to eat.

Yet, after a while, the new becomes old, and with the old, there is new again. So, the long cycle of fads, fashions, and hot spots was a ever-changing process.

Duke Hipp and Henry Hiott dress as their favorite actors in the movie The Blues Brothers.

Caroline Linder and Melody McGinnis stop to eat at "the fast food place," Burger King, for a Whopper and fries.

No, this is not the new fashion in clothes design, instead a few seniors dress up in costumes for Halloween.

During break, everyone gathers at the picnic tables for a bite to eat, time to study, and time to catch the latest gossip.

The biggest thing in fashion this year is to see how many different Swatches you can get.

Convertibles are definitely in this year, including Eric McGill's "banana."

The People

One big happy family," is a way to describe John C. Calhoun Academy. Though we may be small in size, we are big in heart. School is where most friendships begin and here at John C. the students have a very close relationship with one another.

Someone to share your secrets, good times and bad. Someone to talk on the phone with late at night til your parents force you to do your homework. Someone to take trips with up and down Jefferies on a Saturday night. Someone you trust. These are just some of the many things we depend upon as friends. But friends do not have to try to be friends — it just happens.

That We Call Friends

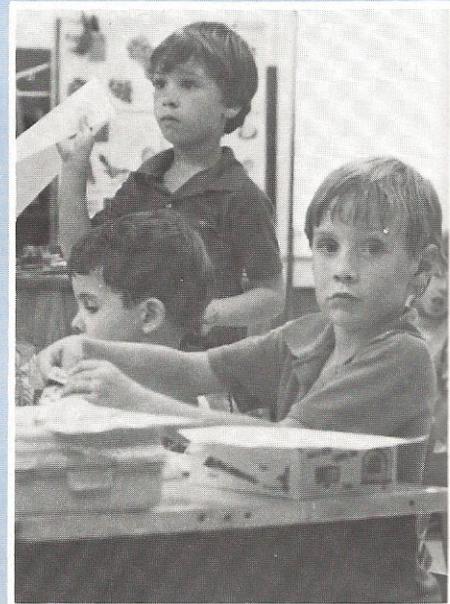

Some of the students stop to catch up on the latest gossip before school.

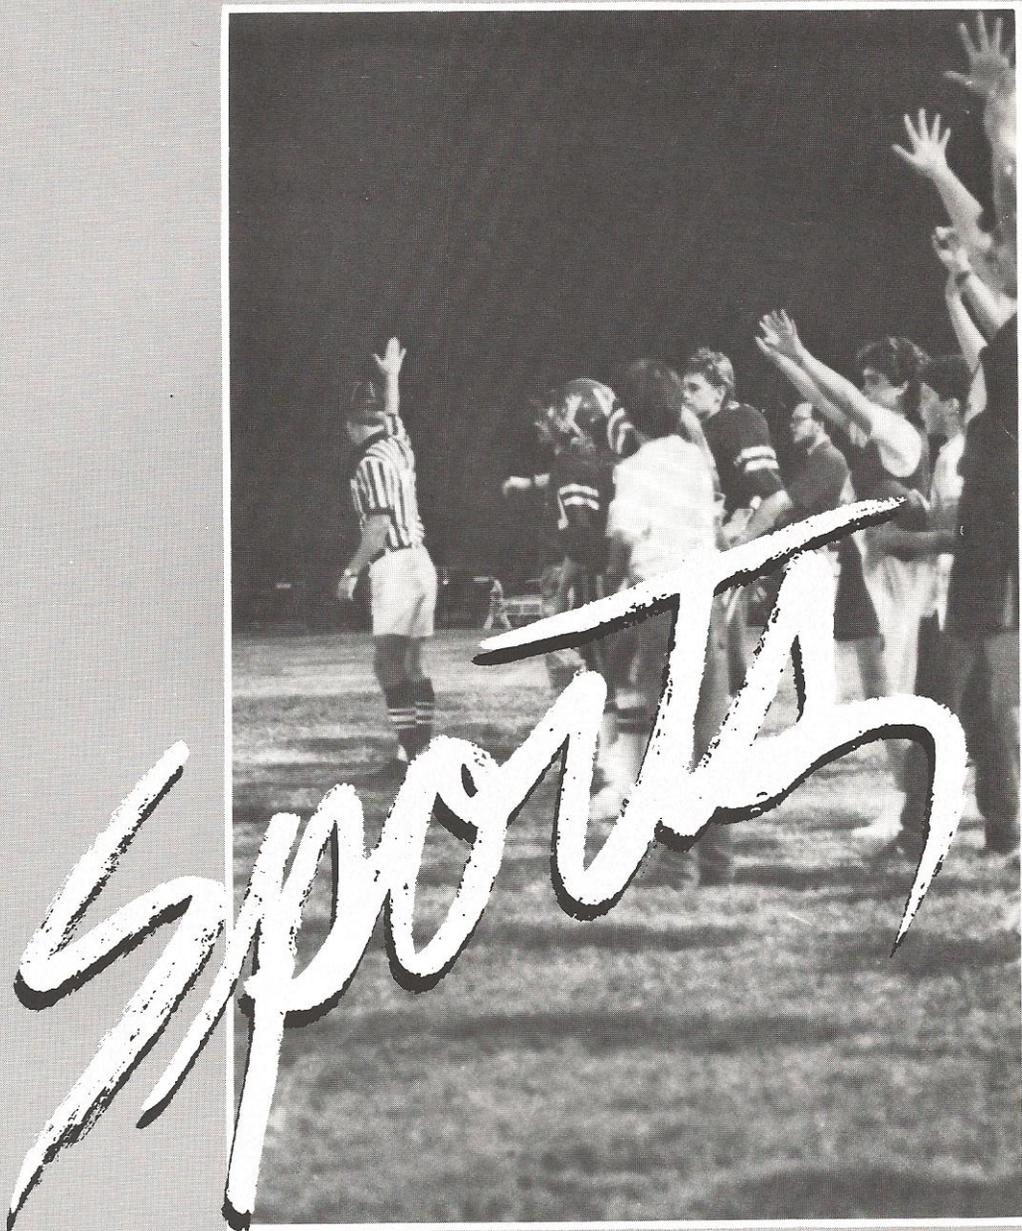

During break, the sophomore girls discuss their weekend plans.

What are friends for but to help with homework.

What a better time to begin a friendship then kindergarten.

OUT OF THE

Playing the hardest all of the time, getting paid nothing, not even a dime. Just for fun — that was the reason. Oh, what a finish, no matter what season.

We Will Always Remember."

Nothing Could Be Finer

The 1985 Varsity Football Team set records that had never before been set. Their feeling of closeness, determination to win, and hours of strenuous practice helped carry them to victory. They were coached by Tony Orsini who was in his second year as varsity football at John C. The teammates enjoyed getting involved in pep-rallies, receiving their secret-cheerleader treats, and helping other teammates out when a problem appeared. They were more than football players — they were a group of young men out to make their school, coaches, and parents proud of their accomplishments.

On October 4, the Hawks defeated Thomas Heyward Academy 20-6. This victory had only been accomplished once in JCCA history. They also won their Homecoming game 20-7 against Heathwood Hall and Parents' Night game 26-14 against Calhoun Academy.

The coaches complimented Jimmy Hiott for his strong arm, Eric McGill for his ability to receive the ball, and Scott Hiott for his numerous tackles.

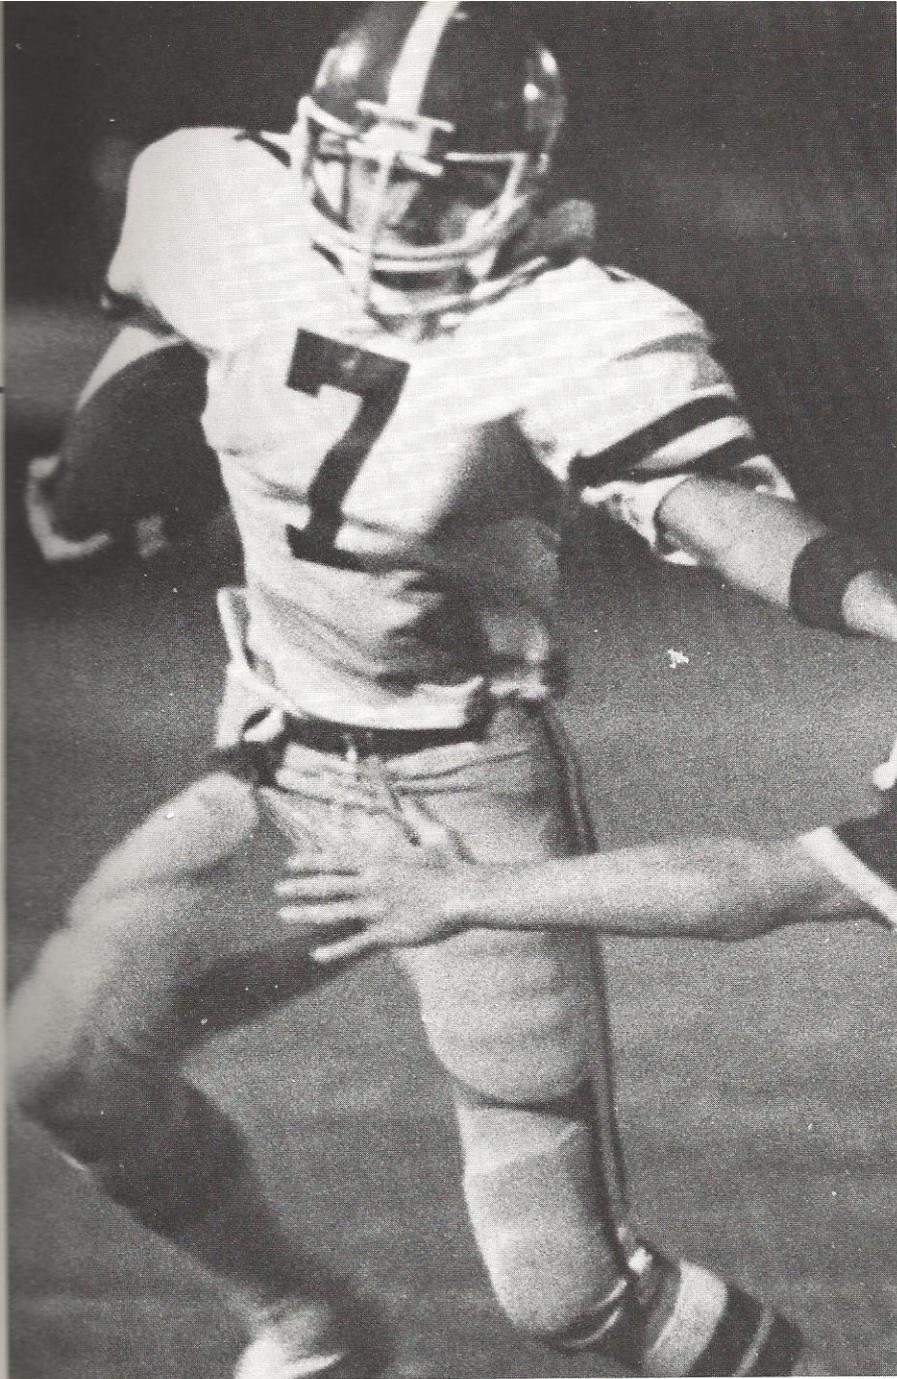

Thanks to David MacArthur, Jim Winslett, and "Doc" Lewis for all their sideline help. The victories this year could not have been accomplished without them.

Winners Take All

The Varsity Cheerleaders are happy after winning the trophies at UCA camp.

The 1985-86 Varsity Cheerleading Squad had a TERRIFIC year. They attended UCA Cheerleading Camp in June at Wingate College, N.C. where they won two championship trophies. At the annual Sertoma Jamboree in Orangeburg, they were announced as first-place winners — an accomplishment never before achieved by cheerleaders from JCCA. All the squad members agree that the hard work, dedication, and tears paid off well. They could not come as far as they did without the guidance of advisor, Deirdre Hawes.

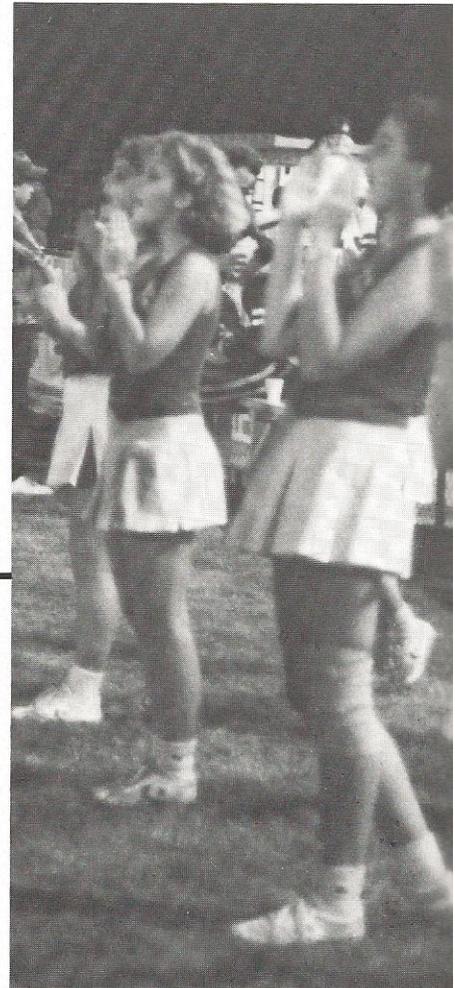

Most people do not realize all the hours put into a good cheerleading squad. This squad practiced until perfect, painted numerous posters, planned spirit-raising pep-rallies, and screamed their team on to victory. A sense of togetherness came over the squad that meant more to them than just being cheerleaders — they were friends.

This is a demonstration of a perfect, sturdy pyramid.

Gone With The Wins

The Junior Varsity Football Team had a very successful year. Thanks to the coaching of "Doc" Lewis and Jim Harmon, they were defeated only by Thomas Heyward and Porter Gaud.

This year's team was young but full of energy, pride, and determination. The urge to win often brought them the victory they wanted.

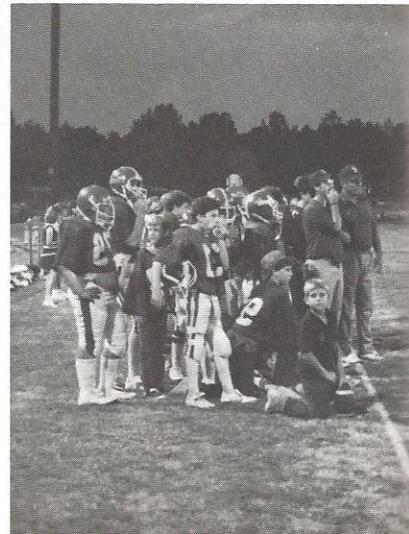

Several players were eligible to move up to varsity when their regular season ended. Coach Lewis praised eighth-grader Heath Jones for his strong defensive play and sophomore Scott Pellum for being the leading scorer on the J.V. team. David Strickland stepped in at Q.B. when Heath Jones was injured and led the team to victories against Lord Berkley and Dorchester. Other injuries during the season were Scott Craven, Cam Werntz, and Kevin Beach. The seven Freshmen added a great deal of leadership and strength throughout the season to bring them to a record of 5 and 3. The coaches hope to have as good a team next year.

Cheering Yourself Blue

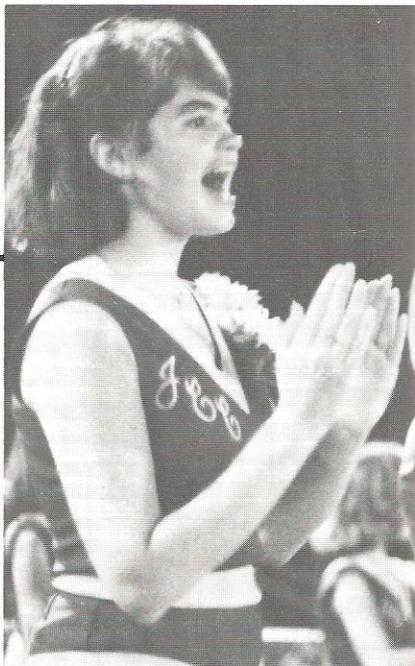

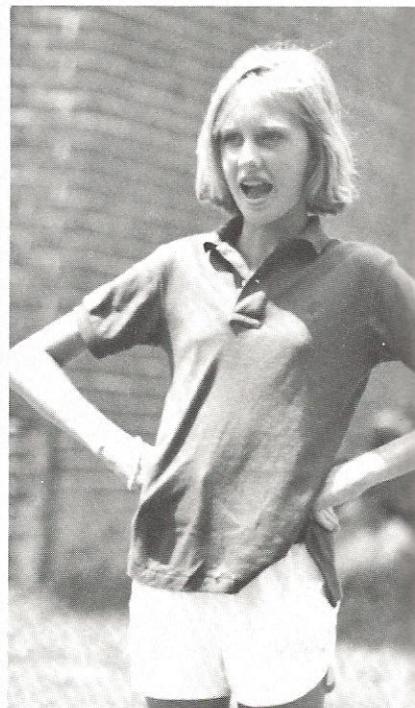

Keri Holmes enjoys her first year on the squad. The only thing she didn't like was the heat of the June sun at camp.

This year's J.V. Cheerleading Squad had a fun year. They certainly had all the qualities of a good squad — spirit, poise, determination. They spent many long hours practicing to make sure every thing was going to run smoothly.

During June, they also attended UCA cheerleading camp at Wingate College. They did well enough to compete in the final day's evaluation. Although they didn't win, they brought home the "Spirit Stick" and numerous ribbons for their achievements. The J.V.'s were supervised by Mrs.

Beth Warren who helped to make sure the cheering year was as well-organized as it should be.

The J.V.'s had other jobs besides cheering. They stapled programs, sold programs, helped with pep-rallies, and, of course; cheered for their team. Each cheerleader put forth 100% effort to do what was expected of her. At times they were tired but they never let their fans down. Some of these cheerleaders will move up to Varsity. They now have the experience and dedication that it takes.

"Let's Go All The Way"

The Varsity Boys Basketball Team had a very successful year. The team had a lot of height ranging from 5'8" to 6'4". This helped out as well as having nine experienced Seniors.

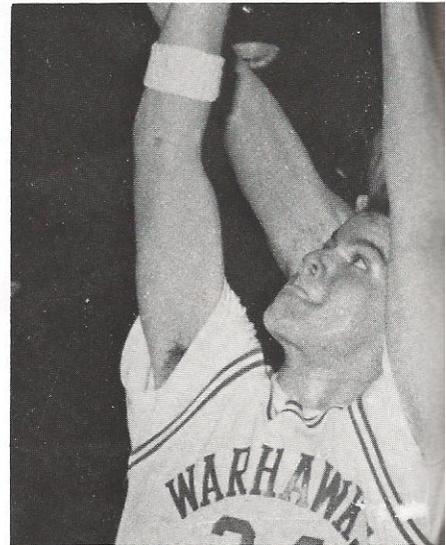

The year could not have run any smoother. The Hawks played very well, had breath-taking games, and went undefeated until January 24th when they lost their first game to Lord Berkeley. Some of their toughest games were battled out to the final seconds. Eric McGill, a sophomore, could often be depended upon to dunk that winning shot or Brian Strickland, a junior, would aim one of his famous outside shots toward the basket. Whatever the case, the Hawks usually came out on top.

Throughout the season the Hawks practiced long and hard hours, traveled to faraway towns on cold buses, and managed to overcome some of the toughest teams in the state. A lot is expected of a fine basketball player, and a lot came out of these twelve, hardworking individuals. Thanks to coaches Tony Orsini and veteran War Hawk, Chip Upchurch, whose strategies really helped the team's success. It takes everyone pulling together to have such a rewarding season. Congratulations for an outstanding year and look out for the State Tournament!

“You Can Do It!”

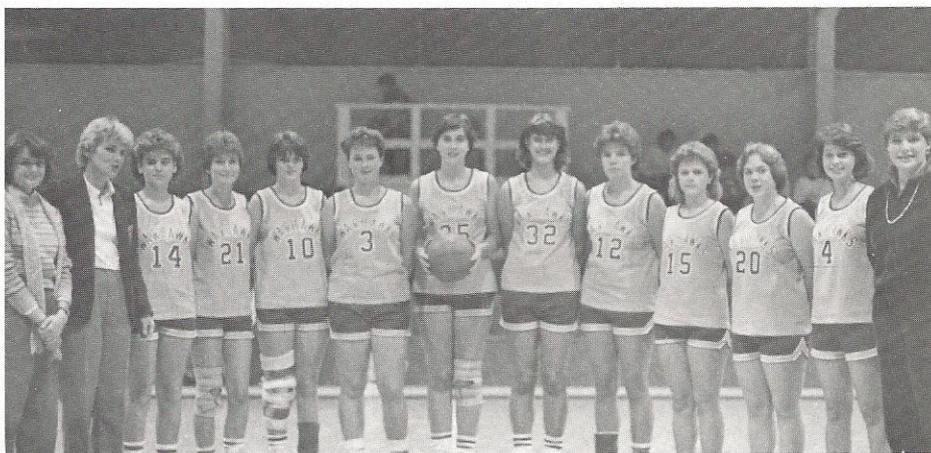

Perseverance and hard work — the 1985-86 Varsity Girls showed the students and parents of John C. what these words meant. Having faced a year with a full schedule, these girls really showed us how the game of basketball was played. The offense and defense won the games but teamwork played the most important part.

There were two Seniors on the team that had the leadership placed on them — Carole McCants and Connie Craven. The underclassmen, who proved to show great ability to play with the stamina it takes, will fill the roles of these Seniors in the future. This year the girls team hoped to surpass last year's season and win their first state championship.

Thanks goes to Coach Carole Meegan who is an expert at handling the girls and the plays that are performed on the court. Congrats on a very successful season!!

There's No Stopping Us

The Junior-Varsity Boys acquired a new coach this 1985-86 season. Coach "Doc" Lewis came to guide the young Hawks to many victories during the season. Under the hustling defense and sharp-shooting offense, the J.V. Hawks proved to be the dominating team of the conference. The young men played together to post win after win. Defensively the Hawks were quick on their feet, but offensively the shooting was tremendously professional. Although all of the school didn't have J.V. teams, the ones that did wished they didn't because of the determination of our team proved tough to beat.

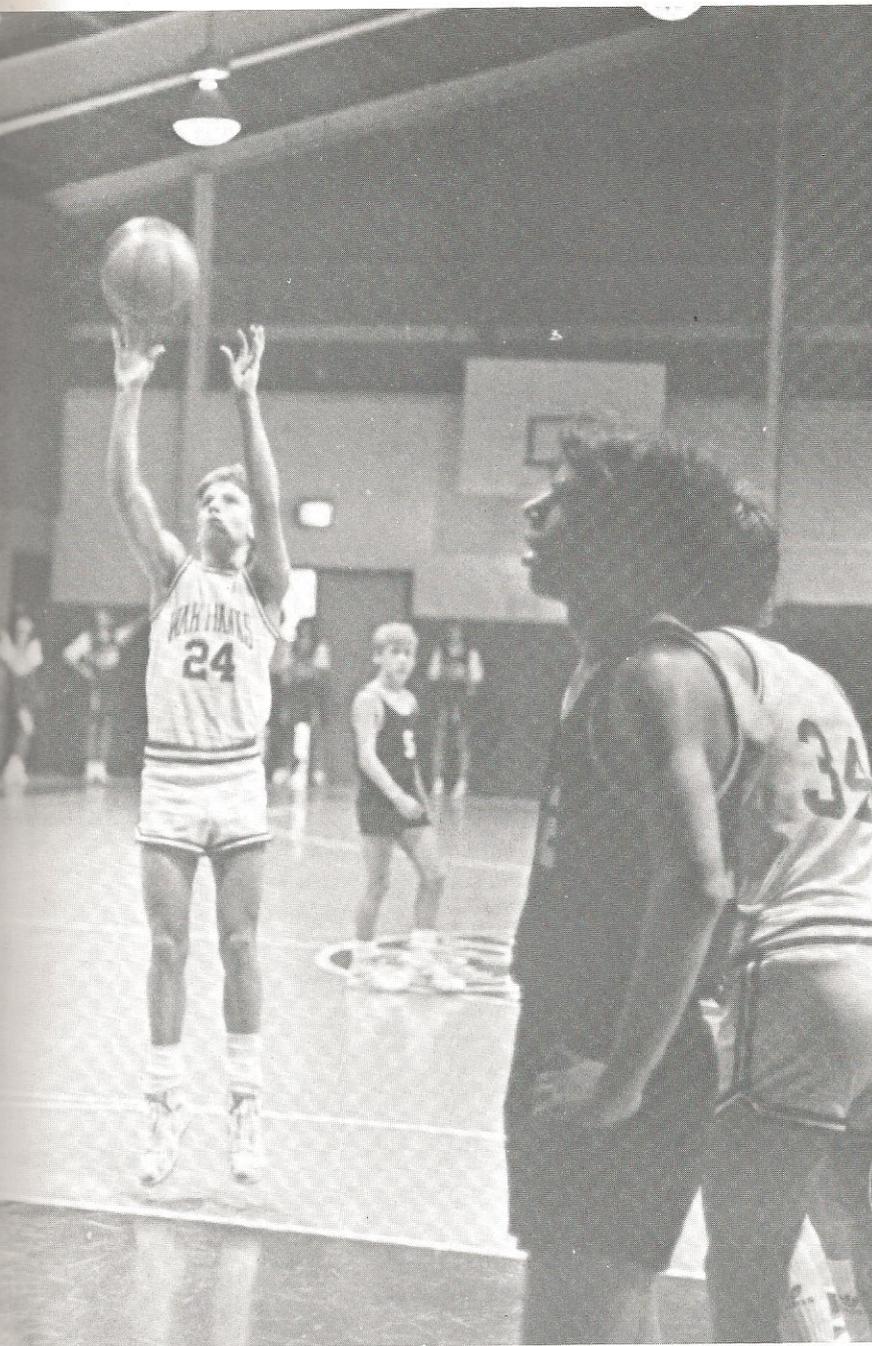

We look forward to having another great season next year because the experience of the talented athletes is now great. Congratulations to the J.V. boys for a job well done!

Young Girls Regain Respectability

Under excellent coaching of Carol Meegan, the "Little Lady Hawks" have done a great job this season. This year's squad showed great determination, perseverance, and the ability never to give up. If coming from behind or taking the lead, they never quit. The "Little Lady Hawks" have had a much better record than in past years. In future years we hope the team will continue to have victories and success on the court. Hopefully the Junior Varsity squad will continue to post a winning season for the 1985-86 year.

Coach Meegan is quick to compliment her girls on their speed and also, the height that this year's team had. Without all of the members pulling together, the victories accomplished this season would not have been possible. Tara Ulmer, Susan Zeigler, and Hope McGrady were tremendous assets to the team. Coach Meegan said that without these outstanding girls some of the games won this year may have been lost. Congratulations Junior Varsity girls on a job well done.

No Place Like Home

The Varsity Baseball Team of 1985 had a very victorious season this past year. They were under the coaching of Jim Winslett, Tony Orsini, and Brett Maddox. The team won many games which led them to the State Playoffs. It was disappointing to lose in the end, but all the teamwork surely paid off well.

The players really enjoyed being members of the team. Each one had to give up afternoons every day to come out and practice. Some even sacrificed a portion of their senior trip. Most were involved in other sports which helped contribute to the athletic abilities of the members. At the athletic awards banquet, the coaches recognized all of the players. Charles Cook and Shan Pye were noted as being the year's most valuable players. The teamwork, dedication, and determination of the players helped to record to be one of the best ever. Congratulations on a job well done and best of luck for the upcoming years! From the looks of things, it might just be a good one.

OUT OF THE

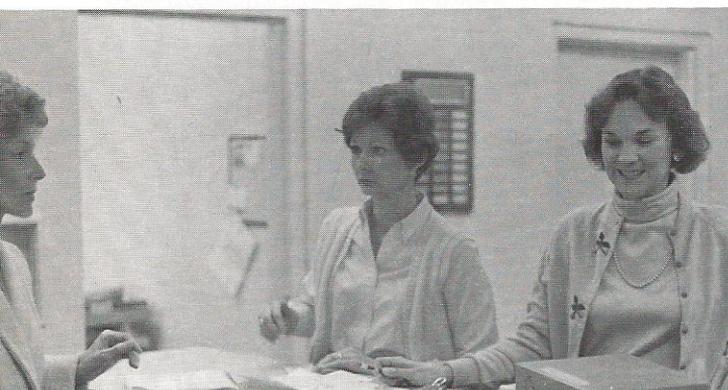

Test after test, class after class, day after day, just to pass. Homework, homework, where's the break? All these classes, is there some mistake?

Working on the computer provides Jodi Crosby, Johnny Rogers, and Henry Hiott with entertainment as well as valuable knowledge.

Nancy Beach has been at John C. for five years. Her position as administrative assistant includes more than answering phones and filing papers. She is also a nurse, a money collector, change-machine and handy man.

Bob Bennett has been at John C. for two years. He is a member of the Rotary Club. Each week he took a student from the Senior class to the meeting. He believes in afternoon detention for punishment.

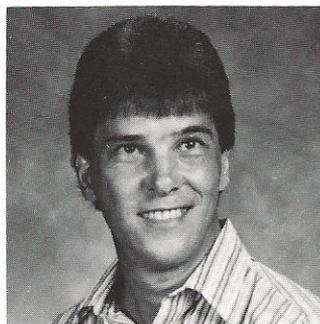

Mrs. Jane Litchfield is always there to help when someone has a problem. She is prepared to answer any question anyone has.

It is important for Wendy Henderson to learn about computers at an early age. It may be invaluable to her future career.

Betty Black has been at John C. for fourteen years. Her third grade class studied rocks and did drawings in science. The third-graders' favorite subject this year was South Carolina history. They had computer class on Fridays and music class on Tuesdays.

Gary Brightwell is John C.'s new librarian. She ordered new shelves and did many other things to improve the looks of the library. Many of her library classes compiled reading lists. From these lists, the students chose books on their grade level.

This was David Buchanan's second year at John C. as band director, but this year marked a first. He began a chorus. The lower and middle school grades had chorus once a week. The high school members gave up study hall to meet everyday.

A Key To The Future

This year John C. began offering a full-year computer course. The students had a wide variety of programs which they ran on the computer to learn how to use it. They also had games that taught them other skills.

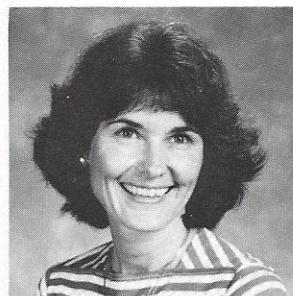

Computers are the key to the future. Once someone knows how to operate a computer he can get a job in almost any field. For example, today, many cars have computerized parts. Unless a mechanic knows how the computer works, he can't fix the car.

This is why it is important for high school graduates to have had a computer course. It is also necessary to take typing, because a computer is like a typewriter that prints on a screen instead of on paper.

The lower and middle school students also learned about computers and how they are used.

Having the ability to type well is important to Karen Nettles. In the future she may be involved with activities that require typing.

The students at John C. love to work on the computer. During their spare time, they play computer games with their friends.

This was Sharon Folk's first year at John C. She divided her time between her students at USC-Salkehatchie and at John C. She taught Spanish I and II and French II. She was sponsor of the Foreign Language Club. She has visited Europe.

This was Carol Free's first year at John C. She came from Allendale Academy and attended Clemson University. She taught sixth, seventh, and eighth grade math and twelfth grade pre-calculus. She taught her students on their level by using everyday examples.

Betty Goehring's first year at John C. was full of responsibilities. She taught composition and psychology and was advisor to the War Hawk. She was also involved with the development of alumni affairs. She graduated from Queens College.

Exciting New Challenges

This was Libba Griffin's first year at John C. Her fourth grade class consisted of only nineteen students and was the only section of fourth grade. She graduated from Columbia College with a BA in social studies.

This was Helen Griffith's first year at John C. She taught eleventh grade chemistry and lab, tenth grade biology, and eighth grade earth science. She received her degree in biology from Winthrop College.

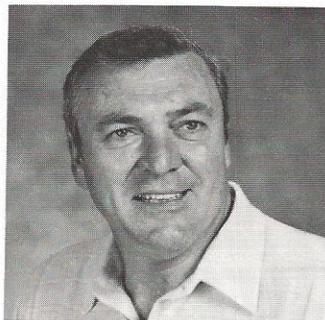

This year John C. formed a chorus. It consisted of kindergarten through eighth grade and the high school students that wanted to participate. The lower school sang many songs. "Randolph the Six Gun Cowboy" was one of the more popular tunes. The middle school chorus sang "Silent Night" and "Pork-n-Beans" among others. The high school chorus sang "Fame", "Good Christian Men Rejoice", and "That's What Friends Are For".

The chorus gave a Christmas Program and the high school section rode on a float in the Christmas parade.

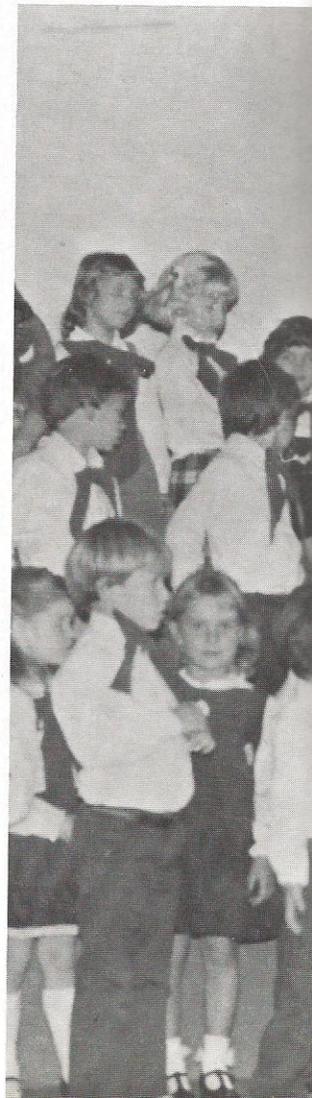

Another new addition is the excitement Mrs. Sharon Folk brought to the French and Spanish classes. Every Friday was "Play Day". On "Play Day", the students took part in activities that increased their knowledge of culture. The Spanish classes made flags and pinatas and ate tacos. The French class made road signs, played French board games, and played French hangman on the computers. The French and Spanish class had parties on holidays.

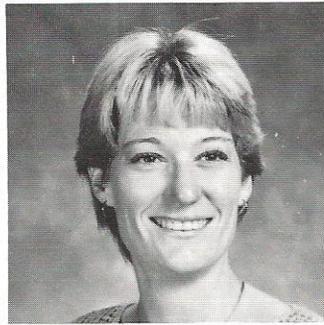

In Spanish class, Bert Reeves is carrying on a conversation in Spanish. This helps him to improve his speaking skills.

Jim Harmon has been at John C. for two years. He was head of maintenance and was in charge of the canteen. He also helped coach J.V. football and baseball and occasionally took over a study hall. Carmella, his wife, volunteered her time by working in the canteen.

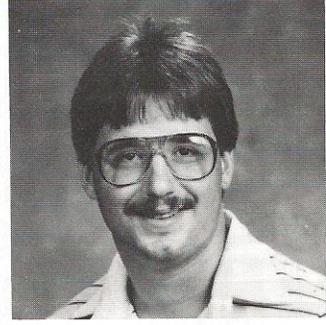

In Spanish class, Sharon Folk explains the importance of religion to the beliefs of the Spanish people.

This was Deirdre Hawes' fourth year at John C. She taught sixth grade science, seventh grade science, ninth grade physical science. "Teaching middle school science has taught me to see the subject through 'younger' eyes."

Hannah Herndon has been at John C. for one year. She has one group of twenty-eight second graders. Her class was very interested in computers. They did posters on life under water for science and displayed them on the wall.

Marion "Doc" Lewis came to John C. from Chester High School. He taught P.E. to the boys in the sixth through the tenth grades. He also taught seventh and eighth grade literature. He helped enrich his literature classes with movies.

Betty Linder has been at John C. since it opened. She taught tenth and twelfth grade English and eleventh grade typing. She was the Senior class sponsor and the National Honor Society sponsor. She was also in charge of the third annual Academic Bowl and Academic Bowl team.

The chorus enjoys showing off their singing skills as they give a Christmas program on December 9th.

This was Jane Litchfield's fourth year at John C. She worked part-time as assistant bookkeeper. She also worked part-time at her husband's stockyard. She enjoys playing softball, reading, and cross-stitching in her spare time.

Places Of Action

This past year the library was full of activities. Students learned how to use the card catalog and participated in the Birthday Book of the Month Club and poster contests dealing with library rules.

Another active place was the gym. During third period, the ninth and tenth grade took P.E. The first six weeks, the girls played volleyball and the boys played touch football. The second six weeks, the boys played volleyball and the girls played soccer. For the rest of the year, the girls occasionally played kickball, but mostly both the boys and the girls played line basketball. The lower and middle school play pin dodge ball, indoor soccer, kickball, and volleyball.

In P.E., Coach Meegan and Coach Lewis build the students' stamina and coordination.

P.E. is enjoyable to these tenth graders because it gives them a chance to work with their friends.

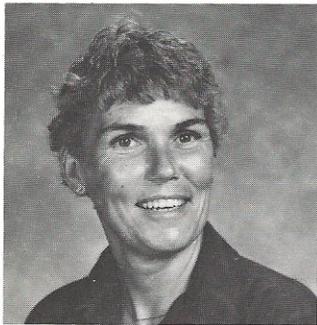

The students aren't the only ones who clown around and have fun. Coach Meegan enjoys it just as much as they do.

This was Suzanne Martin's first year at John C. Her first grade class loved computers, art, P.E., and recess. Every day, the first graders colored pictures which they displayed in the hall. Each Monday and Thursday, they looked forward to P.E. class.

This was David McArthur's second year at John C. He taught physics, Algebra I and II, and computer science. He is a computer science major who is originally from Mississippi. He is also the boy's tennis coach and the football trainer.

This was Carol Meegan's second year at John C. She received her degree from Ithaca College. She taught P.E. to kindergarten through tenth grade. She was the softball and varsity, J.V., and B-team girls' basketball coach.

This was Tony Orsini's second year at John C. He taught geometry and Algebra II. He was the Athletic Director, head varsity football coach, and varsity boys basketball coach. He also helped with golf and started a track club for students who wanted increased stamina.

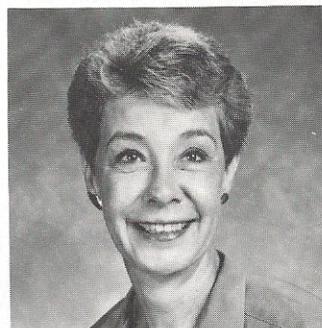

The staff that works in the canteen is greatly appreciated. They cook the food and keep the canteen clean.

Eve Richardson has been a teacher at John C. for four years. She taught first grade. Her class went to Charlestown Landing in the spring. The subject she enjoys teaching the most is reading, especially to young children.

Helen Riddle has been at John C. for fourteen years. She taught sixth grade social studies, seventh grade S.C. history and has a high school study hall. She requires her students to do such projects as maps and oral reports. They also watch movies.

Peggy Smoak taught eighth grade American history, ninth grade geography and civics, and eleventh grade American history. This was the first year the ninth grade had been taught geography. She was glad to teach it because she feels everyone needs to be familiar with his world.

The class listens while Mrs. Brightwell reads a story aloud to them. The students also learn library rules.

Coach Meegan manages to make a game of almost anything.

Tomorrow's Scientists

Kaye Spears taught sixth and seventh grade English and literature. In the fall, she took the sixth grade to Middleton Place to learn about the culture and history of the low country. She was in charge of putting the Shrieker together.

The seventh grade science class did many experiments this year. They checked soil temperature, looked at pond water, grew bacteria and bean seeds, and collected moss and ferns. They also learned how to use the microscope when they observed different kinds of cells.

The eighth grade science class learned basic laboratory skills such as how to use a balance and graduated cylinders. They also did experiments on density.

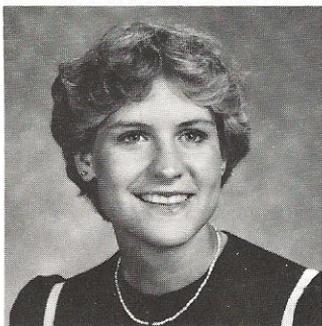

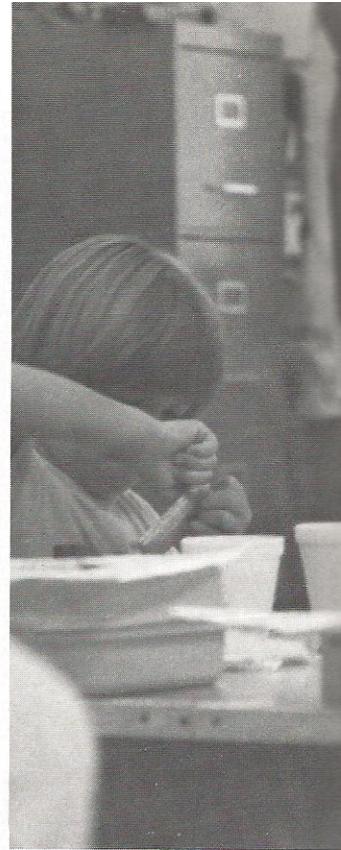

The tenth grade biology classes did bug collections and constructed the skeleton of a chicken. They also prepared labs on circulation in fish and did other projects such as posters and reports.

The eleventh grade chemistry class learned laboratory procedures such as titration and separatory techniques.

Mrs. Hawes said, "I try to do as many experiments as possible because hands on experience teaches more."

These kindergarteners are learning basic skills that will form a basis for building up their knowledge.

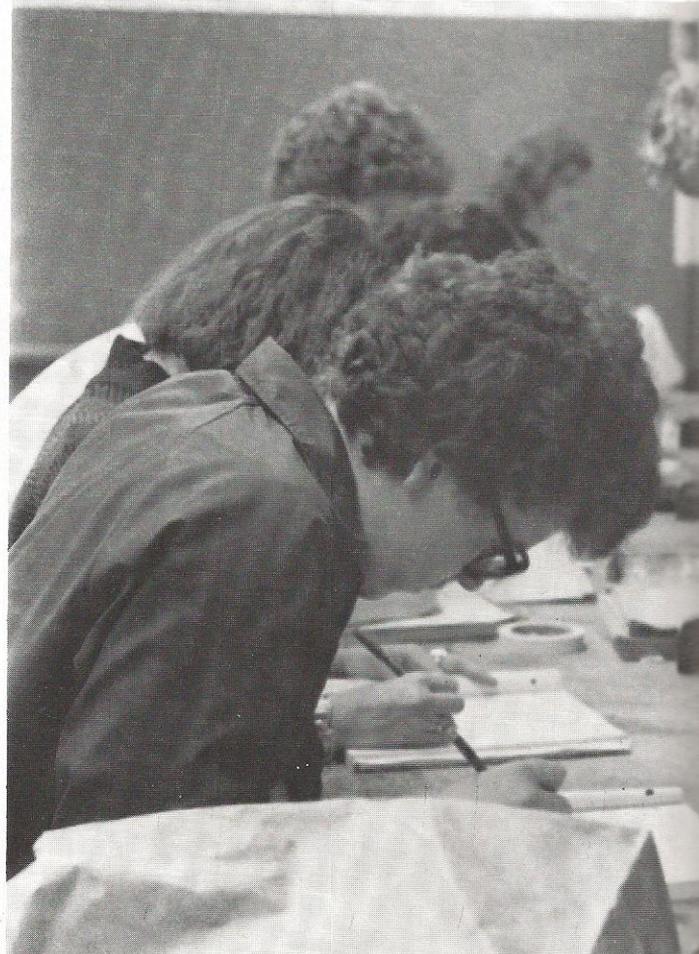

The juniors have been working hard at their chemistry labs. Madison Farrell is working diligently to finish on time.

This was Laura Spears' first year at John C. She graduated from East Tennessee State University. For parent's night, her third grade class made "dummies" of themselves. She said, "All my students are little geniuses."

This was Barbara Steele's first year at John C. Her kindergarten class learned about fire trucks and went on a field trip to a tree farm to cut their Christmas tree. Mrs. Steele enjoys watching the students mature from "babies" to independent little boys and girls.

These kindergarteners learn that doing well in school requires that they know how to get along well with others.

and good luck
Mrs. Warren*

This was Dawn Vinson's first year at John C. She came from Lincoln High School. She taught eighth, ninth, and eleventh grade English and literature. She made literature more interesting by having students act out plays.

This was Beth Warren's first year at John C. She taught fifth grade. Her favorite subject to teach is language. She helped Mrs. Hawes with the J.V. cheerleaders. She received her BS degree from East Tennessee State University.

Sylvia Warren has been at John C. for thirteen years and has taught kindergarten for twelve years. Her most remembered accomplishment was learning to use the slicing machine. She organized a visit from Winnie the Pooh and Santa Claus.

Joann Wimberly has been at John C. for fourteen years. She sponsored the Student Council and taught computer classes. Also, as a guidance counselor, she helped students prepare for the SAT, decide on college, get scholarships, and straighten schedule problems.

This was Jim Winslett's second year at John C. He taught ninth grade civics, tenth grade world history, and twelfth grade government. He is the varsity baseball coach and defensive coordinator and offensive backs coach for varsity football. He graduated from Tennessee Tech.

In science class, Jeanette Mixson has been doing experiments in the lab and learning how to use the microscope.

While at recess, Cristy Priester is learning how to cooperate to achieve a goal. She is see-sawing with an unknown friend.

A Special Friend

Warm, caring, patient, and understanding are words that describe teachers at John C. Calhoun Academy. A teacher fitting more than this description is Mrs. Peggy Smoak. Mrs. Smoak has dedicated over eight years of her life teaching; never regretting one moment. In addition to being a teacher, loving mother, and devoted wife, she is also the sponsor of the Junior Class. As the sponsor, she helps in magazine and doughnut sales to raise money, sets up projects such as the Homecoming Dance and Haunted House, and organizes the plans for the JuniorSenior Prom. In her extra time she enjoys movies, bottle collecting, reading, and cross-stitch.

When asked their opinion of Mrs. Smoak, students felt she was more than just another teacher, but a very special friend who can relate to the students. With much love and appreciation, the annual staff proudly dedicates the 1986 Talon to Mrs. Peggy Smoak.

During break, Mrs. Smoak takes time to socialize with her fellow teachers before returning to class.

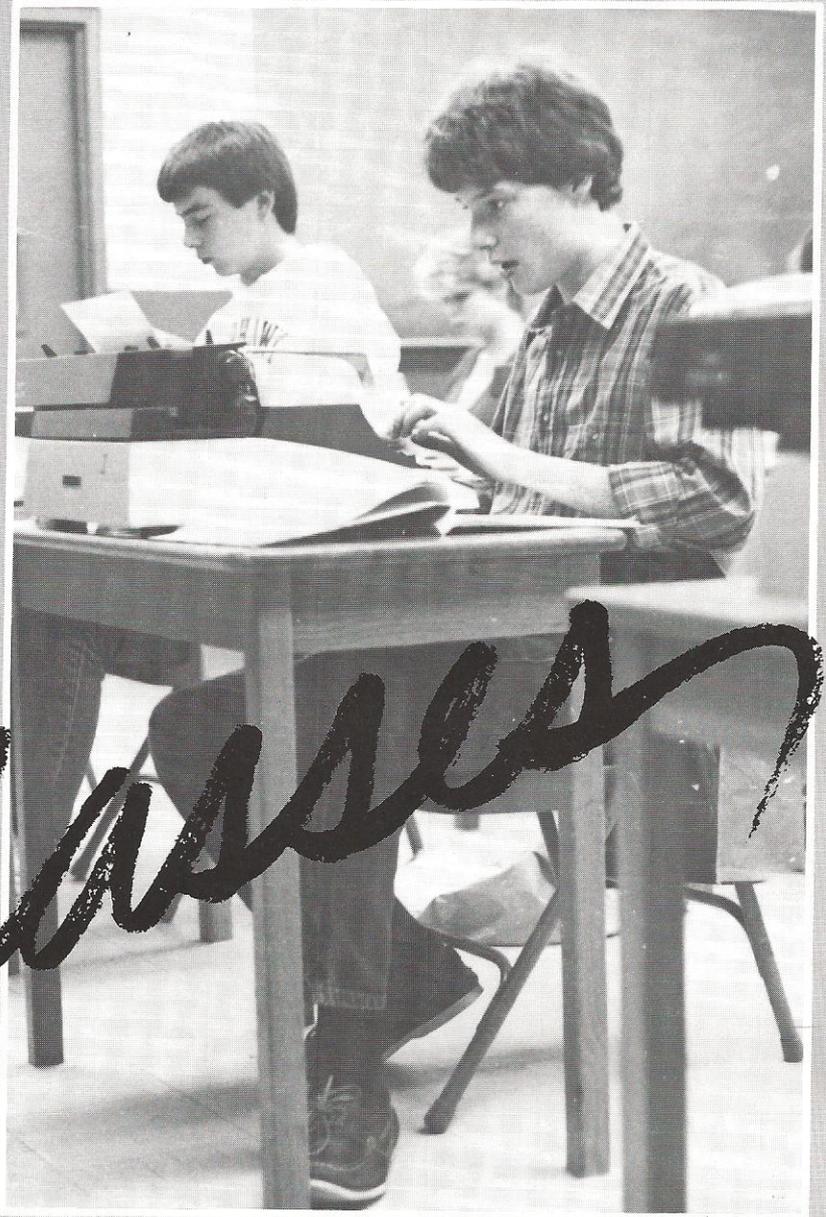

Even at home Mrs. Smoak doesn't have a moment to spare.

Can you tell which one's the teacher? To the seniors, Mrs. Smoak is just one of the gang.

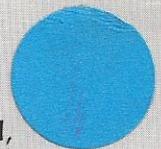

Marc Warren and Mrs. Smoak pick out the prizes for the magazine sale.

Take A Look At Yourself

The Class of 1986 looks back on the school year and remembers. It's been said "The best way to predict the future is to remember the past." Remember trying to adjust to three minute bells between class and enforcement of the dress code. Who could forget the Seniors going to Savannah, not to mention looking like crazy people on Halloween.

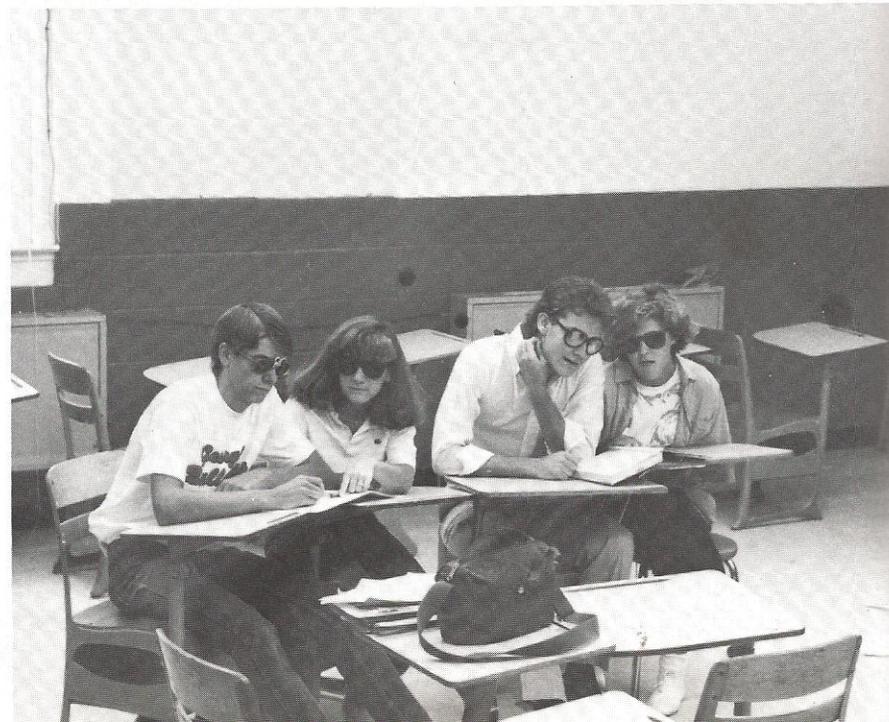

Ah, looking back through time it has all gone so fast. The fun experiences that made this last year a special year. This section is dedicated to the Seniors not just for remembrance, but it is looking to the future.

Moving Up And Out

Realizing that their high school years were almost over, the Seniors tried to remember every event. This brought the class closer than ever before. As seniors they were thought of as a whole, a group, but now they are thirty-seven individuals, each striving for happiness and success in life. The Class of 1986 was moving up and out.

With so much to do, Jimmy Hiott can't decide what to do next.

The Way We Were

The past years at John C. Calhoun have been fun-filled and exciting times. Everyone remembers the first day of school, field trips, class projects, raising money, class rings, Jr.-Sr., SAT and many other fun experiences. Now that we have gotten to know each other through the years, we have developed long-lasting friendships. Everyone agreed that they could not have made it without special friends. We remember the experiences that happened at John C. Calhoun Academy, The way we were.

Senior

MOST ATHLETIC

Danny Beach and Connie Craven were chosen for this superlative due to their ability to excel in the many sports that they participated in at John C. Whether it be football, basketball, baseball, softball, or powderpuff football, Danny and Connie gave 150% for their team and school. Their involvement in athletics showed their pride in their school.

MOST SCHOOL SPIRIT

Ward Ulmer and Kim Headden were elected by the Senior class as the students who displayed the most school spirit. If they weren't participating in a sport or cheering on the sidelines, they were found in the stands urging their team to victory. Ward was always there to encourage his fellow teammates before a game. As for Kim, being the head of the Pep Club and also a Varsity cheerleader there was no time for her not to show her spirit.

MISS DAR

The Daughters of the American Revolution awarded Carole McCants the honor of being chosen Miss DAR. She received this award for her outstanding character, and citizenship.

MOST VERSATILE

Although many students participated in sports at school, there were also academic functions and other activities that kept students busy. Two such students were Danny Beach and Carole McCants. They were active academically and athletically and still maintained above average grades.

MR. AND MS. WARHAWK

Ward Ulmer and Sherrie Rizer had the honors of being chosen as Mr. and Ms. Warhawk. The school faculty selected these students base on their previous activities, involvement, and accomplishments they received during their school years. Dependability and school loyalty, are a few qualities that stood out from the other students. Throughout Sherrie's school years, she has been captain of the Varsity cheerleaders, sports editor of the Talon and Warhawk Staff, and member of the Broadcast Club and NHS. Ward has participated in many sports such as football, basketball, and baseball. He was also a member of the Warhawk Staff and Pres. of the Student Council. For the future, Sherrie hopes to attend University of S.C. and Ward plans to go to Francis Marion.

MOST DEPENDABLE

Kipp Hooker and Carole McCants were chosen as most conscientious. Whenever there was a job to be done or a deadline to be met, the students and teachers knew they could depend on Kipp and Carole. Kip was the band co-captain and Carole was the girl's varsity basketball team co-captain. These positions obviously required dependable character.

WITTIEST

Duke Hipp and Jill Griffin were chosen as wittiest by the Seniors. They always had a joke or a friendly smile to cheer people up. No matter what the situation, these two were able to make the best of it.

MOST CONGENIAL

Whenever a student needed someone to talk to either, Henry Hiott or Michelle Morris was the one to turn to. They were selected as the friendliest people of their class. Their cheerful smiles gave the students a sense of warmth and trust.

Looking To The Future

Class officers: President — Scott Moody, Vice Pres. — Marc Warren, Secretary/Treasurer — Melody McGinnis, Business Manager — Johnnie Neal, Class representative — Madison Farrell.

This year, the Class of '87 enjoyed the activities involved with being Junior. They stayed busy selling magazines and preparing the Haunted House at the Halloween carnival. The class sponsored the Homecoming Dance and worked on the Junior-Senior Dance. SAT scores and colleges of choice were frequent topics of conversation as the students looked forward to their future.

Sports: The Favorite Choice

Earth Science keeps these eighth graders interested and allows them to learn about their environment.

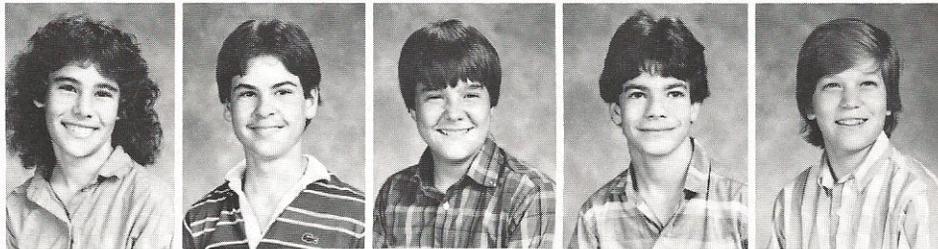

Sports were a major part of the year for these active eighth graders. They enjoyed football, basketball, baseball, and cheerleading. They also participated in band and other clubs. Still, these versatile students found time to study for Algebra, English, American History, and Earth Science.

Gone But Not Forgotten

On May thirty-first the 1985 Commencement took place. After the traditional Processional, the Rev. Steven A. Miller gave the Invocation and later, the Benediction. Marsha McGinnis, Salutorian, gave the welcome. Mr. Bennett introduced Ted Turner, president of Turner Broadcasting Systems, who was to give the address. Then Charles E. Griffith presented the Diplomas to thirty-three anxious Seniors. Keith Warren presented the class gift and Ward Ulmer accepted the position of Student Council President for '85-'86. A tearful farewell was said by Lara Craven, Valedictorian. After the Benediction and Recessional, the ceremony came to an end. The Class of '85 will be gone but never forgotten.

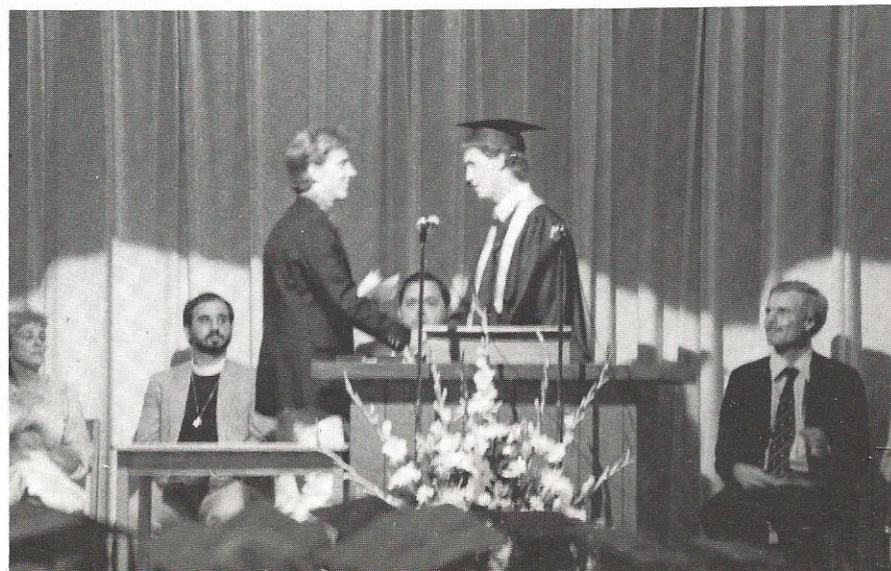

The Class of '85 remains standing until the Processional is finished.

Ted Turner speaks to the class on how to be successful in life.

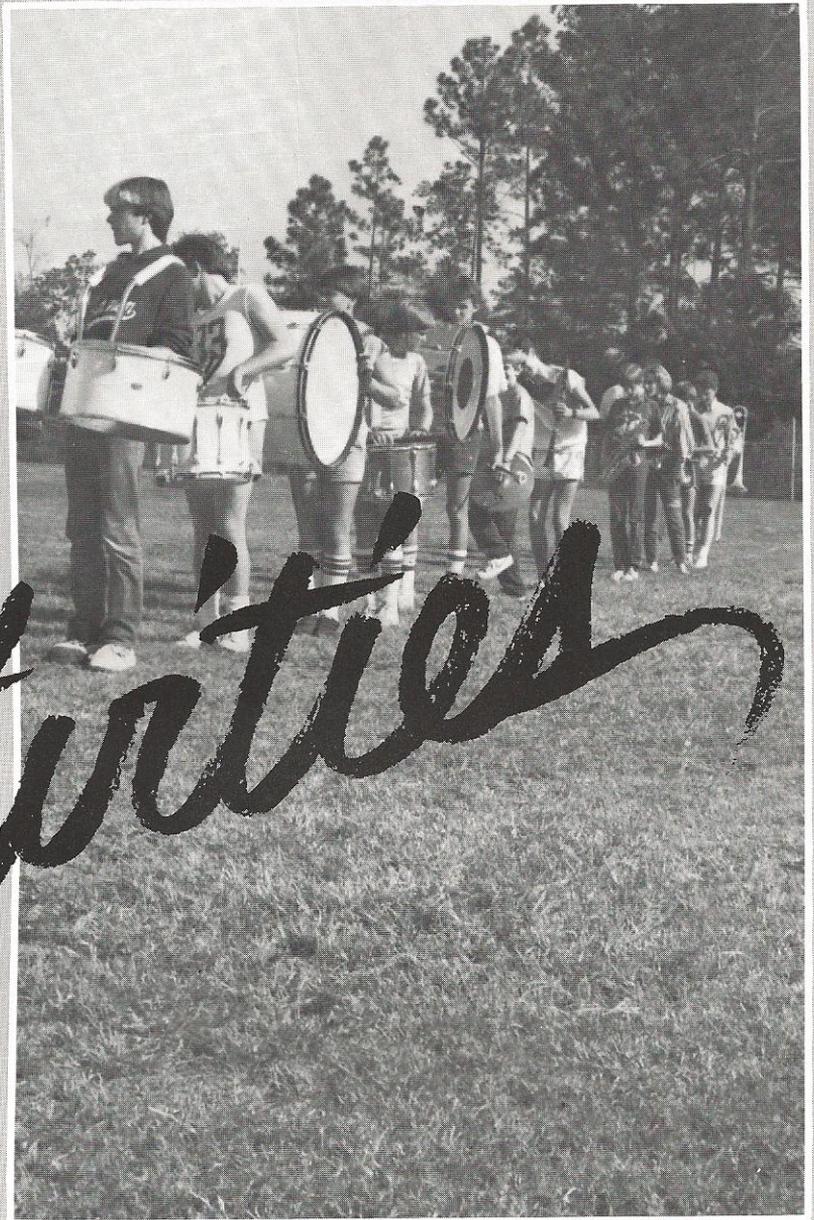

Marsha McGinnis, Salutorian, gives the welcome to friends and family.

Keith Warren presents the class gift to Ward Ulmer, Student Council President.

Activities

OUT OF THE

After school, stick around, something to do can always be found. So many clubs, activities and such. To balance them all is asking too much.

Quality In Leadership

The Student Council was devoted to making John C. the best it could be. The officers and representatives were elected by the students. The officers were President Ward Ulmer, Vice President Brian Strickland, and Secretary-Treasurer Wendy Litchfield. Each class was represented by the class president and a representative.

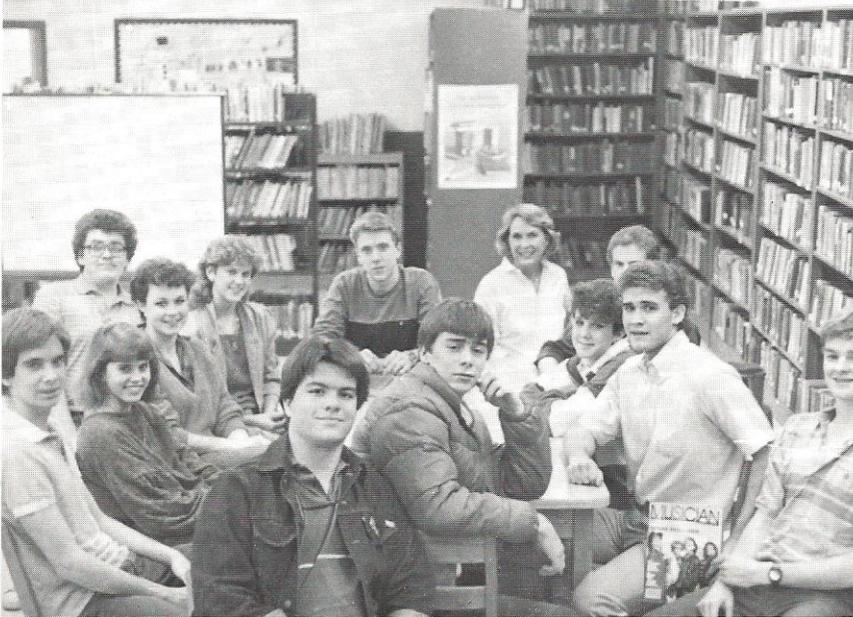

The Student Council tried to involve the students in every way possible, from the Hart-to-Hart Compatibility list to giving to the needy at Thanksgiving and Christmas. They promoted school spirit by organizing the Homecoming activities.

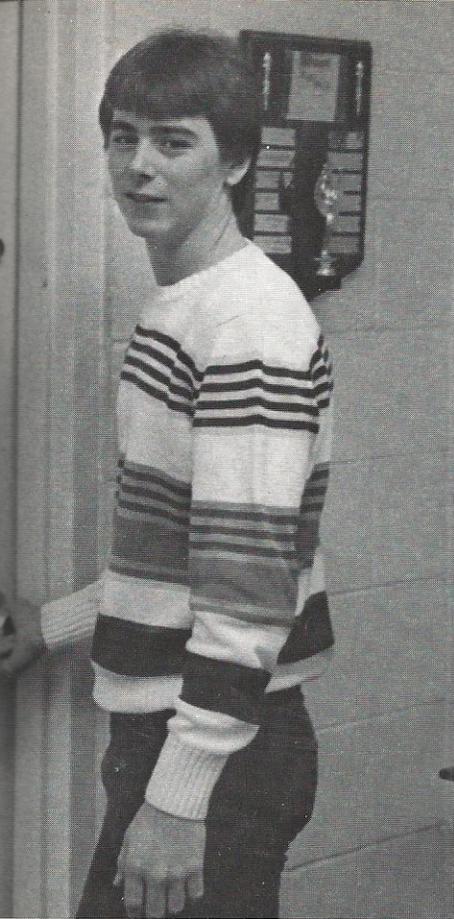

The Student Council is made of elected representatives from each class in the high school.

The '85-'86 officers are Ward Ulmer, Brian Strickland, and Wendy Litchfield.

Trivia Anyone?

Any bit of trivia you had ever wanted to know could be found at one of the Academic Team's practices. This group of students not only knew academic information — they knew trivia. The team consisted of juniors and seniors. Every Tuesday and Thursday they met after school to practice. Mrs. Linder and Mrs. Werntz acted as sponsors, calling questions out and keeping the score.

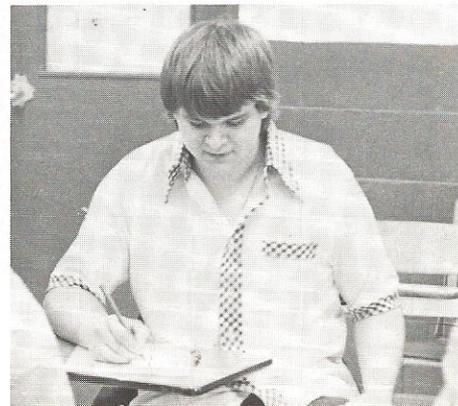

Jan Ulmer, David Ritter, Kevin Hinton, and Joey Craven make up the 1985 Academic team.

Everyone is hard at work trying to solve a math problem they have been given.

Shan Pye and Mary Kate Dean laugh at a question that was asked.

Joey Craven works to solve a problem before anyone else does.

Brilliance Bowl

The Annual Academic Bowl was held at John C. in the spring of '85. Once again John C. came away as the overall winner. The questions for the bowl were submitted by the twenty schools that participated. John C.'s teachers had to type and edit all the questions before they were ready to be used. The National Honor Society helped with the registration of the teams.

John C. was represented by five outstanding students, four of whom made it to the finals: Kevin Hinton, Caroline Werntz, Robbie Hogan, Bud Williams, and Kevin Beach.

Robbie Hogan seems happy after answering a question correctly in the final round of the sophomore contest.

Bud Williams talks with another contestant before the finals for freshmen begin.

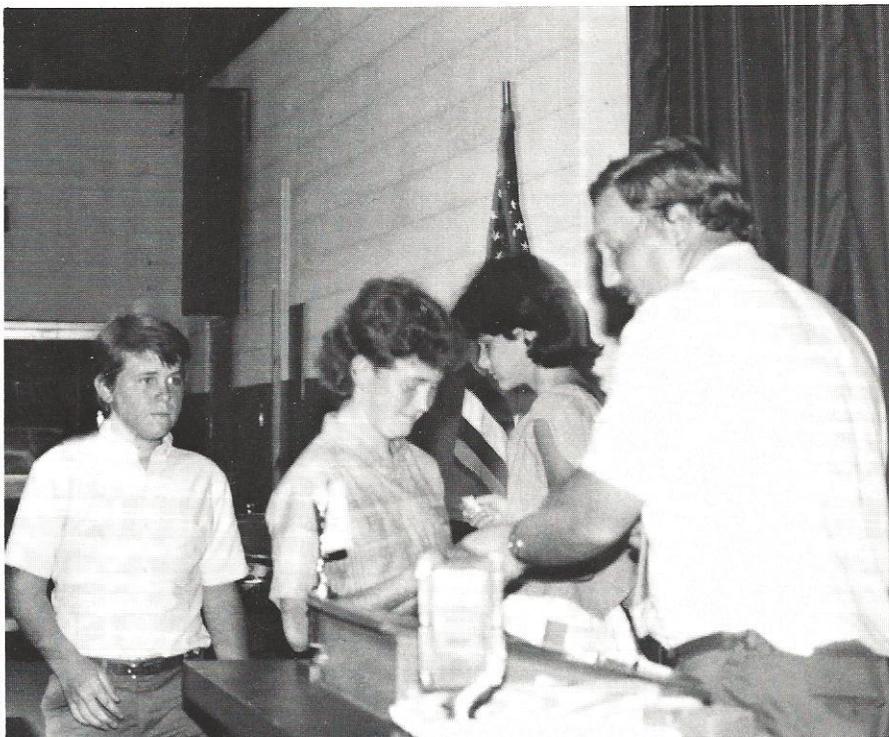

What a showing! John C. excels in both academics and athletics.

The 1985 Academic Bowl Team proved to be great by winning the overall award.

Hard Work Does Pay Off

In May of 1985, the high school held its annual Awards Night. Teachers presented pins and certificates to those students who had proven themselves during the year. Special awards such as Talon and War Hawk were presented at this time.

Mr. Tony Orsini presents Pre-Algebra awards to Allison Nettles, Kim Fennell and Steve Smyly.

Mrs. Peggy Smoak presents Kip Hooper with the U.S. History award.

Mrs. Wimberley presents awards from state colleges to Mary Kate Dean and Cindy Kinard.

Sponsor Mrs. Betty Linder discusses the plans for the candlelight service used for induction.

The 1986 members consists of four seniors and eight juniors who have met all requirements.

The reception allows the families of the new members to talk with teachers about school activities.

Seniors Kip Hooker and Tonya McClure help stack the shelves in the library with books.

Service . . . Our Middle Name

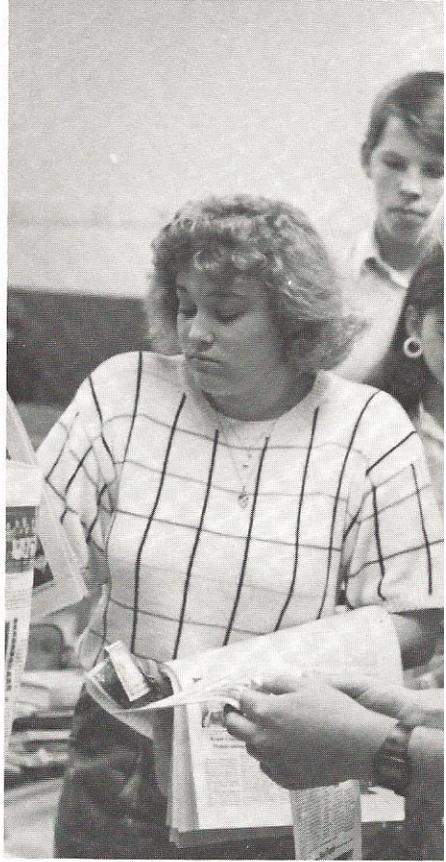

In February of 1986 new members were inducted into the National Honor Society. These new members were juniors and seniors who maintained an average of 90 or better through out high school. The induction was followed by refreshments for the new members and their families.

The new members for 1986 included 4 seniors and 8 juniors. The officers for the year were Caroline Werntz, president; and Carole McCants, secretary.

The Society's members were active helpers in the library. They moved books, helped stack them and played a major role in the changes that took place in the library during the year.

Business Manager Mary Kate Dean sells the War Hawk to students in the high school.

The sophomore class spends homeroom reading the latest news in the paper.

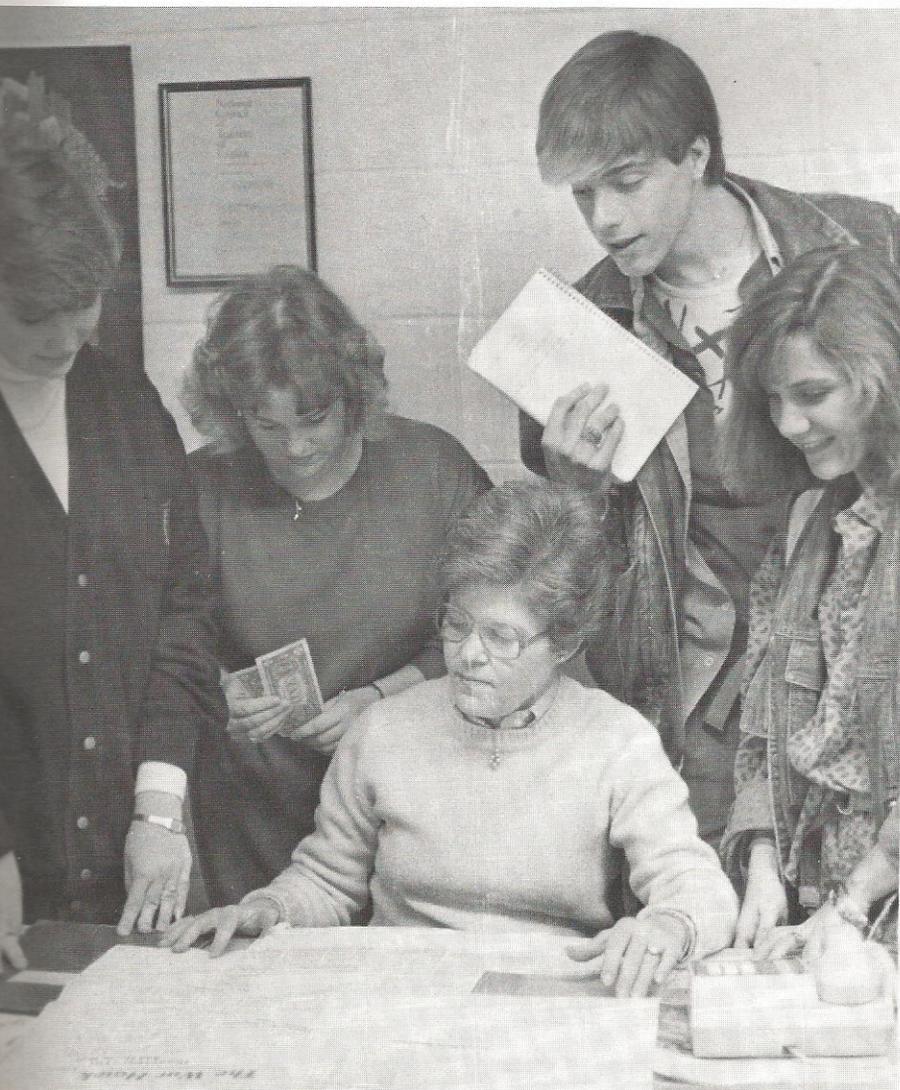

The staff consists of seniors, juniors, and sophomores who are interested in writing.

Senior Ward Ulmer types his article into the computer for printing.

The assistant editors play an important role in the writing of articles.

Stop The Press . . . Never!

The War Hawk took a new meaning this year. Under the leadership of Mrs. Betty Goehring, who had previous experience with advertising, the staff turned over a new leaf.

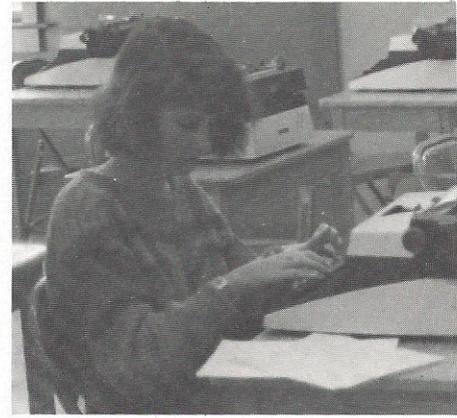

The staff consisted of seniors, juniors, and sophomores. There were 4 editors and 8 assistant editors. Each member was assigned to a section and worked there all year.

The War Hawk was printed several times during the year. The December issue featured the Seniors' Letters to Santa, a special Valentine's issue featured personal ads, and the May issue had in it the Seniors' Last Will and Testaments.

The senior editors and Mrs. Goehring check the latest edition for errors in printing.

Michael Ritter finds the latest edition of the War Hawk interesting and exciting.

Lisa Hudson, a senior, spends her study hall typing her assignments.

Photographers Matt Addison, Jamie Gahagan, and Sandy Sanders check the negatives before printing them.

Mrs. Goehring and sports editor Sherrie Rizer discuss plans for the up-coming edition.

Publication Geniuses?

Hard work, dedication, and desire to be their best describes this year's Talon staff. The six editors and several staff members, along with Mrs. Hawes spent a work-filled week at Converse College this summer. The camp, sponsored by Josten's left very little time to have fun, but the hard work and long hours were well worth the effort. The staff came away with great ideas and several awards.

This year's editors are Editor-in-Chief Melody McGinnis, Sports Editor Sherrie Rizer, Activities Editor Debbie Powers, Classes Editor Kristi Connelly, Faculty Editor Kim Carter and Ads Editor Caroline Werntz. Mary Kate Dean serves as business manager.

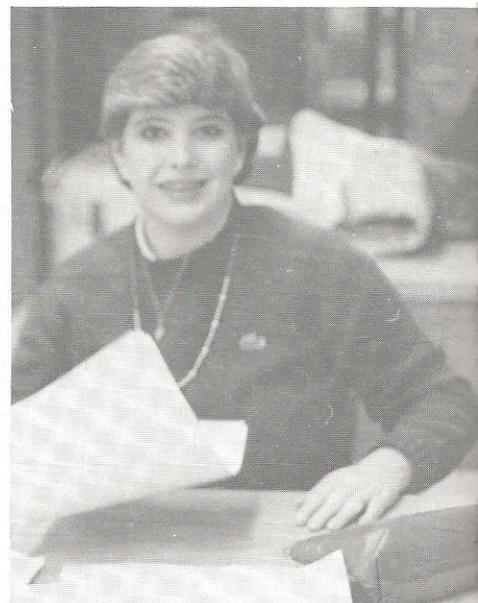

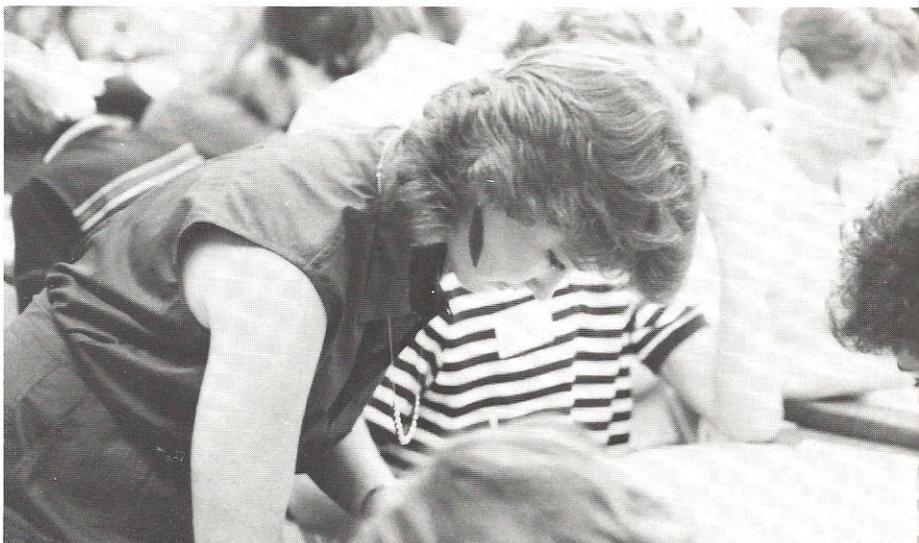

Editor-in-Chief Melody McGinnis, spent a quiet moment thinking about cover design.

Debbie Powers draws part of her section design and assignment at camp.

Melody McGinnis is hard at work on layouts for the opening section.

Kim Headden who helped out all the editors is busy again!

A happy face! Caroline Werntz smiles when she finishes her assignment.

Sherrie Rizer, Sports Editor, corrects mistakes that she has made in typing her copy.

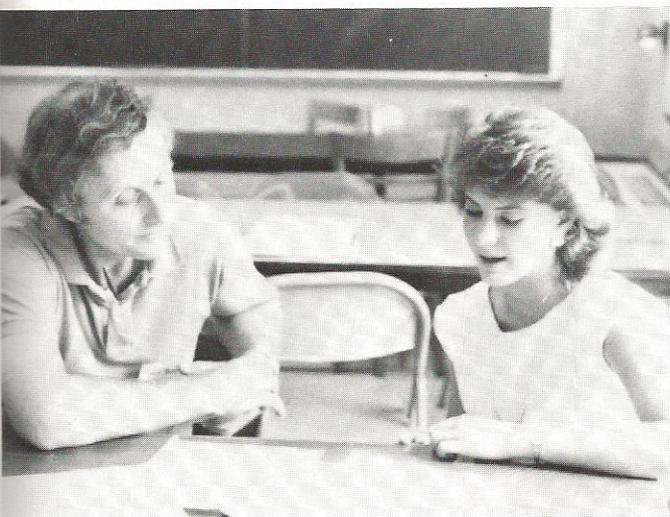

Hard at work, Kristi Connelly concentrates on her layout for the classes section.

The Talon Staff proudly shows off its awards from camp this summer.

Melody McGinnis gets some needed help from Josten's representative Jack Young.

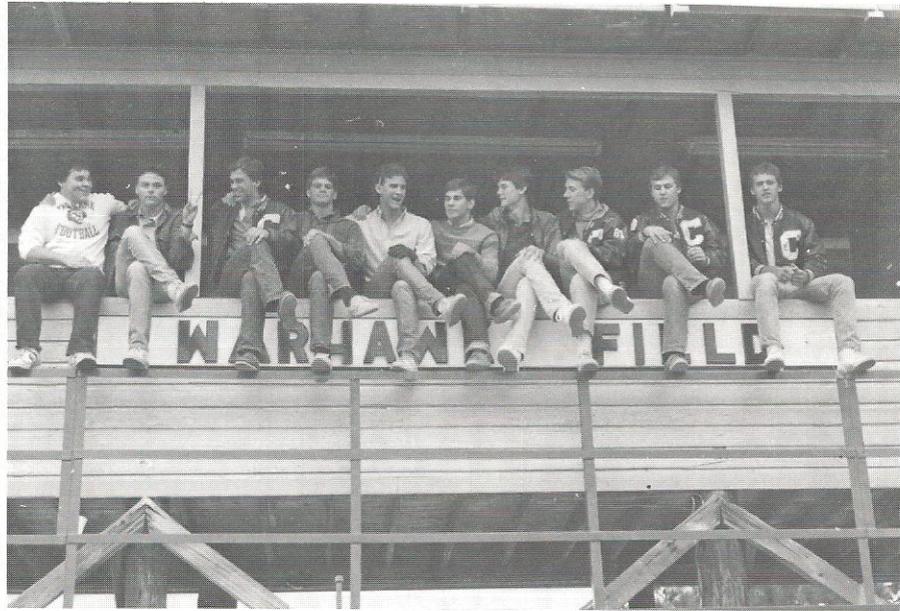

In addition to the Section Editors, there were many people active behind the scenes. The Talon staff handles such chores as selling ads during the summer, yearbook sales in the fall, and distribution of books in the spring.

The 1985-86 staff consisted of Kim Headden, Jo-Lynn Bennett, Tracy Ulmer, Allyson Haynes, Wendy Hiott, Wendy Litchfield, Allison Nettles, Christy Steele, Kim Fennell, Emily Warren, and Amy Gentry.

The other group of unsung heroes were the "shutter-snappers" — Amy Geehring, Matt Addison, Jamie Gahagan, and Holly Roberts.

Le Cream de la Crop!

John C. Calhoun has always had many special students, whether it be academics, athletics, or outside of school. Many of our students participated in activities, but no one knows about them. We have candy strippers, television "stars", award winners, and those who break one thousand on the S.A.T. Keep up the good work!

This year our football team has many all-Conference players. Congratulations!

Ed Oswald receives the Mark Clark Award from the Citadel's Summer Boys' Camp.

Give up Study Hall? These teacher and library aids do all the time.

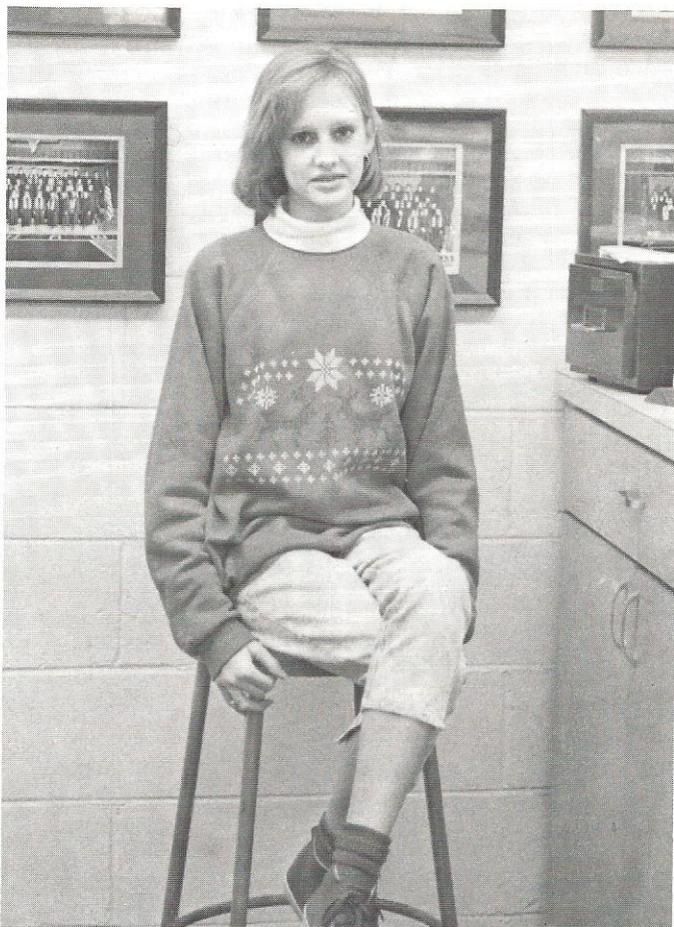

A high reading level is always a characteristic of those who break one thousand on the S.A.T.

Holly Roberts spends her free time at the hospital working as a volunteer.

Keri Holmes has been seen on "Kids' World" nationally as a host.

The Wofford Summer Enrichment Program offers these students two weeks of fun and learning.

The girls' and boys' basketball B-team consists of 6th, 7th, and 8th grade students.

Added Support

When the cheerleaders and teams thought of added support, they thought of the Pep Club. Sponsored by Mrs. Wimberley, the Pep Club took part in the pep rallies and games. Each member had a special button to identify him as a member of this school-spirited club.

Pep Club officers include Kevin Beach, Emily Warren, Kim Headden, and Caroline Werntz.

What a spirited group! The Pep Club consists of 5th-12th grade students.

Sponsor, Mrs. Wimberley, has to keep track of the club's many activities.

The Future Looks Bright

Under the leadership of Mrs. Folk, the Foreign Language Club has learned much about Spanish and French culture. The club has had parties with the food of these cultures and played the games that they play. As for what is to come for the Foreign Language Club, the future surely looks bright.

Elizabeth Biggers places a Christmas present in the shoe of J.J. Evans.

French II has an unique way of exchanging gifts at Christmas time.

The Spanish Club is just one part of the Foreign Language Club.

The French Club joins the Spanish Club to make the Foreign Language Club.

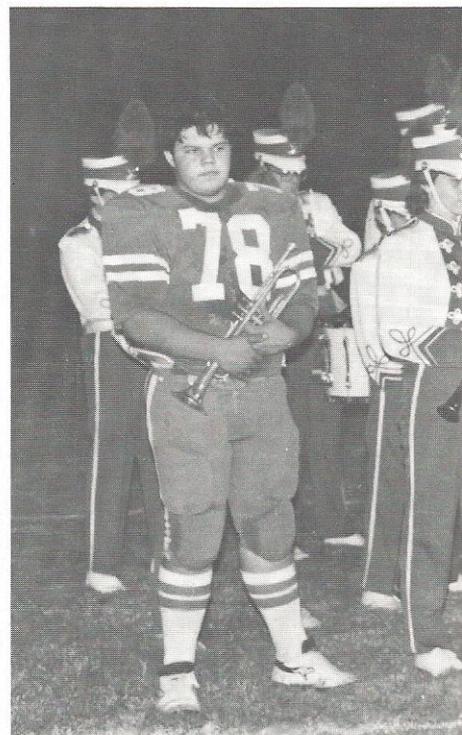

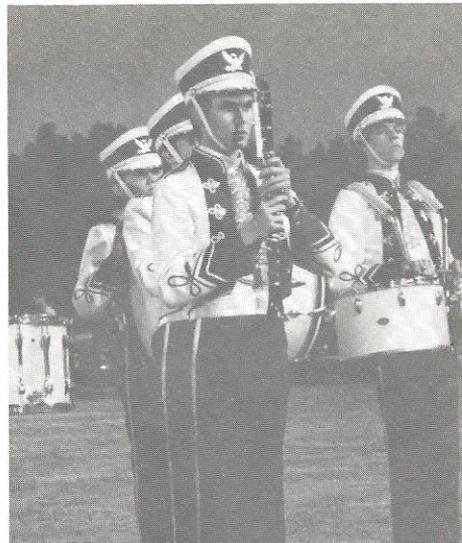

Michael Ritter takes a swing at the pinata, but misses as others await their turn.

The Foreign Language Club officers include Toby Hinton, Renee Dennis, Chad Brightwell, and Allyson Haynes. Mrs. Folk is the sponsor.

Practice makes perfect. Mr. Buchanan tells Duke Hipp about the formation.

Senior, Henry Hiott, stands at attention before the start of the game.

The 1985 Marching Band. Although they are small in number, they are large at heart.

Waiting for instructions, the band stands at attention on the football field.

A member of both the football team and the band, J.J. Evans joins the band to play the "National Anthem".

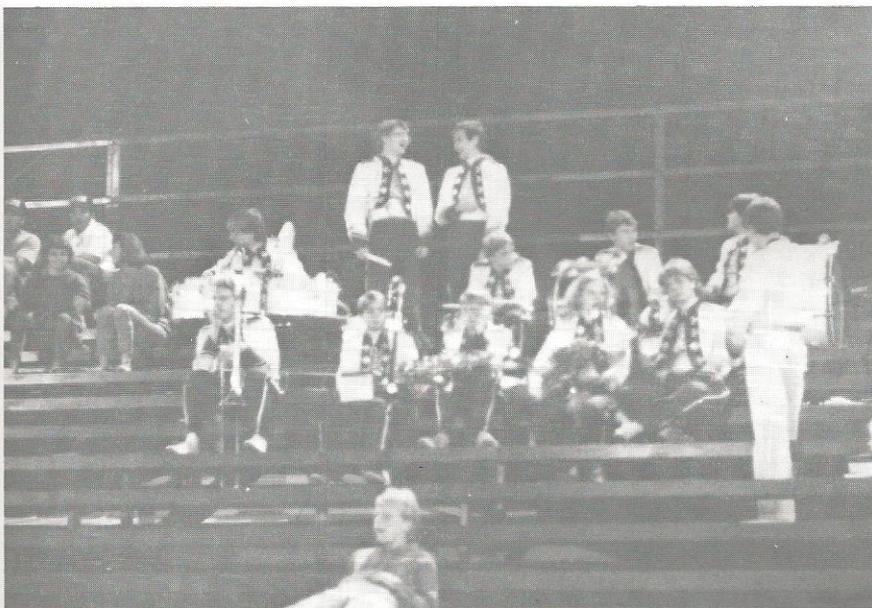

The Beat Goes On ... And On

Senior drum major Johnny Rodgers gives instructions to the band.

The band adds a lot of spirit to the football games as they play the fight song.

Directed by Mr. David Buchanan, the 1985-86 Marching Band has reached new heights. Although small, the band has proven their true spirit. They performed at most home football games and traveled to many of the away games. In their new uniforms, they represent John C. Calhoun very well. Keep the beat going!

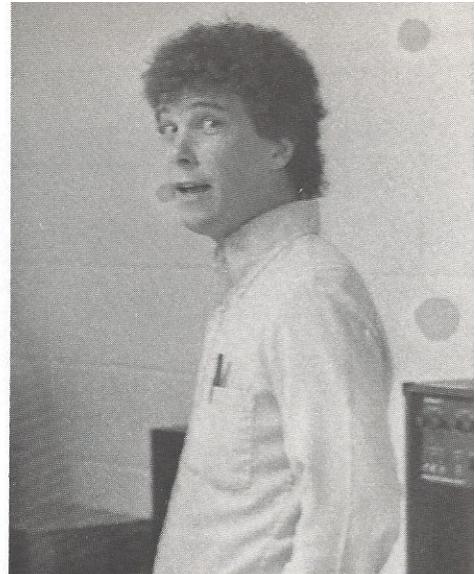

The band begins to leave the field for the start of the football game.

The Sound Of Music

Michelle Headden studies the music so she will not miss a note.

Director David Buchanan seems to think the chorus sounds pretty good.

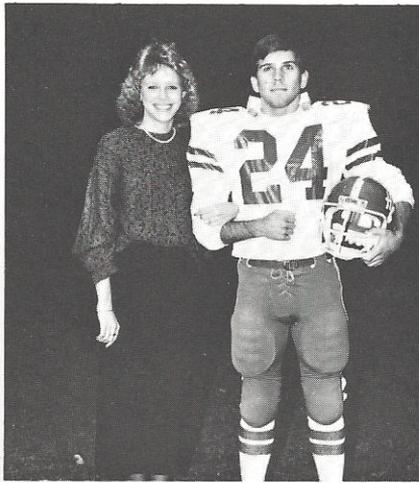

Debbie Powers, Wendy Litchfield, Johnny Rodgers, and Jill Griffin practice for the spring tour.

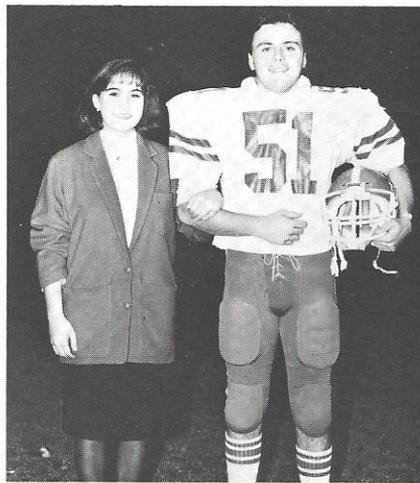

The 1985-'86 Chorus.

The sound of voices can be heard coming from the band room every afternoon. Those voices belong to the members of the high school chorus. Under the direction of Mr. Buchanan, the chorus is made of 10th, 11th, and 12th grade students. They have performed in the Christmas concert, the Christmas Parade, and plan to tour in the spring.

Honored Ladies

Every year the senior football players pick some honored ladies to sponsor them. Before the Homecoming game, they are introduced to their parents and friends. Thanks for all the great memories, Seniors!

Drum Roll, Please!

Kim Moody, Homecoming Queen of 1984, would crown only one. The three candidates knew that, and each had her own dreams. When the moment came, Kim placed the coveted crown on the head of Kristi Connelly. After hugs from friends, Kristi sat down to enjoy another half of exciting Hawk football.

The three candidates await the time to get out of the car.

Kim Moody presents the crown and roses to the new queen, Kristi Connelly.

Candidate Jill Griffin is escorted from the car by her father.

Spirit Of '85

Spirit Week was one filled with exciting activities. Each day had a different activity to raise and promote school spirit. At the pep rally, the Junior Class was chosen by the teachers as showing the most school spirit.

Billy Howell and Ashley Hudson eat away at chocolate pudding while Ward Ulmer shouts encouragement.

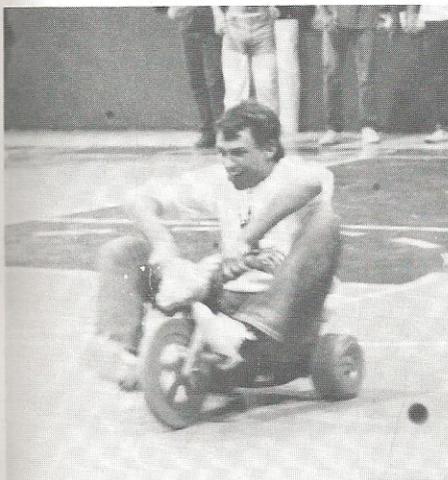

Scott Hiott was voted Mr. Irresistible by the girls in the high school.

The Juniors do have fever — true blue War Hawk fever and pride!

Senior Jimmy Hiott regresses to his childhood by riding a Big Wheel during the pep rally.

After a long wait, the big game is almost under way as the Hawks come through the tunnel.

Witches, Goblins, And Ghosts

October 31st brought out all the creatures at John C. Calhoun. The P.T.O. sponsored a Halloween Carnival in the gym which included booths for young and old alike. A costume contest, along with a pumpkin carving contest was held. Prizes were awarded for the best in both contests.

Mayor Elton Culpepper and family joins in the fun at the carnival.

Balloons are always fun, especially at a carnival at Halloween.

Grandmothers get into the excitement this year with a booth of their own.

Dressed for the evening, these two young girls get into the spirit of Halloween.

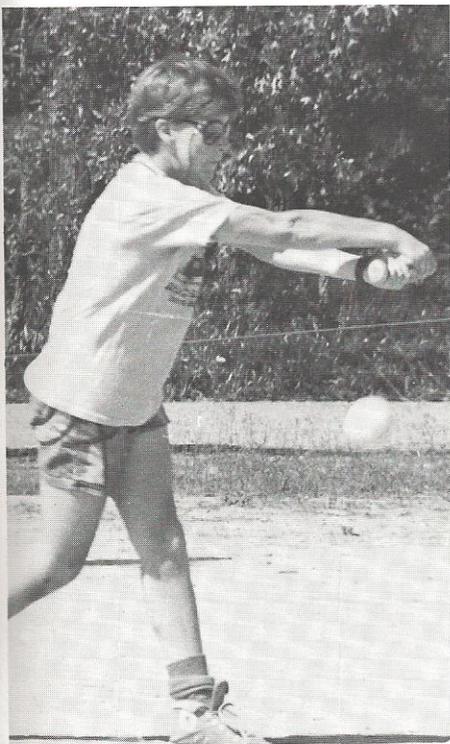

The Thrill Of Victory

In May of 1985, the lower and middle school had a field day. Each class made banners and marched around the football field with them. Relay races, a softball game, and three-legged races filled the day. Prizes were awarded and everyone enjoyed themselves.

The lower school is ready for the march around the field with their banners.

Matt Free swings and misses during a softball game during the day.

Craig White and Patrick Padgett are off to the races in the 40-yard dash.

This group just makes it to the finish line before they fall.

Keri Holmes and Becky Stewart seem to have no competition in the sack race.

Gatsby's Proudly Presents . . .

In the Spring of '85, the Juniors gave the 1986 graduating class a night to remember. The night was spent enjoying time with friends and dancing the time away to the music of Stratus.

The Junior Class spent many long hours trying to agree on a theme and when they had, it took much hard work and time to develop it. With wine glass candles, miniature top hats and canes, and the ushers dressed in black tails and white gloves, who could ask for more? The gym had been transformed into a 1930's night club called Gatsby's in a short two weeks.

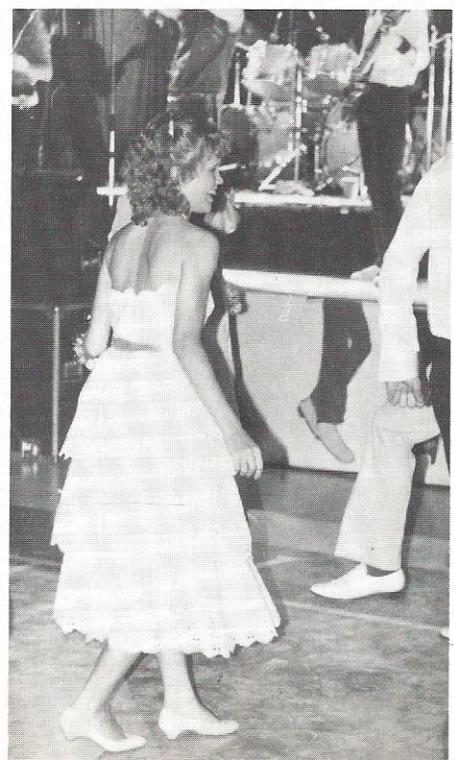

The 1985 Jr.-Sr. was certainly one filled with many great memories of friends and fun.

The girls break away from their dates for a dance of their own.

The ushers are ready for a soft shoe dance or anything else that is thrown their way.

Sara Gustin seems to enjoy the challenge of keeping in step with her dance partner.

The Juniors and Seniors get into "the rhythm of the night."

Wendy Litchfield, a sophomore, gets wind of the music.

What is a friend? Someone who will share a dance with you.

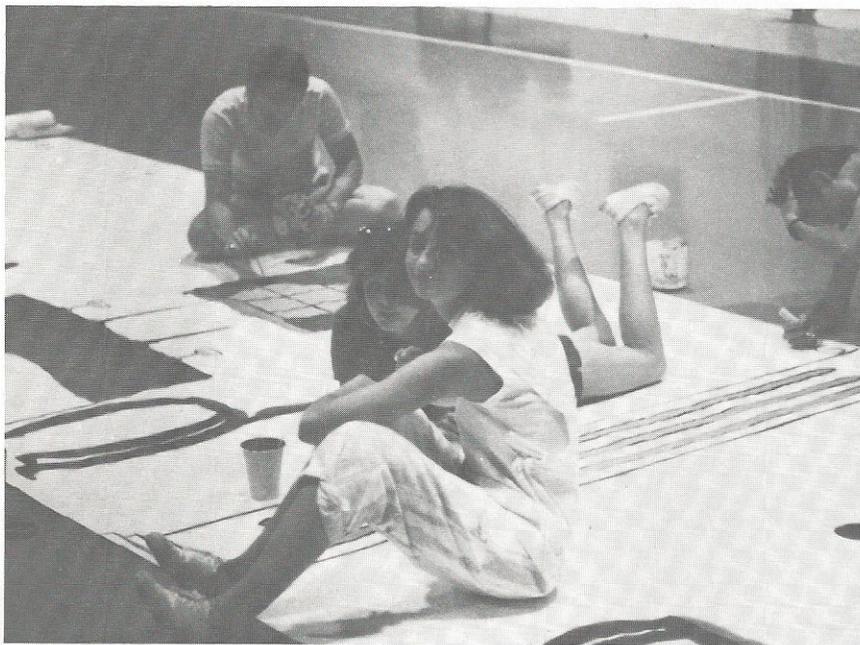

As senior Lisa Hudson enjoys a dance with Thomas Rowe, she glances at a friend.

A Night To Remember

For the 1985 Jr.-Sr., Gatsby's proudly presents "Stratus."

Beauties

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Caroll E. Griffin, Jill Griffin has been selected by the Senior Class to represent them as Miss Talon. Jill is a member of the Chorus, War Hawk staff, and the Student Council. Out of school, she participates in "Variety", including this year's "Music Man". In the little amount of spare time she has, Jill enjoys eating, singing, and going out with her friends. When asked who she admired the most, she said Queen Elizabeth I. Her favorite memory of school is her entire junior year because working together on Jr.-Sr. allowed her to become good friends with all her classmates. She plans to attend either College of Charleston or Columbia College.

Miss Senior, Michelle Morris, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.P. Morris. When she is not busy with school work, she enjoys shopping in the mall, listening to new music, and playing bass guitar. She admires Mel Gibson, Patrick Swayze, and James Dean "for obvious reasons". Michele's best school memory was coming to school dressed as a bunny. Creative Writing is her favorite subject because writing comes easier to her than subjects dealing with math. When she graduates in May, Michelle will attend Columbia College, but is undecided about her major.

Melody McGinnis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Billy McGinnis, has been chosen to represent the Junior Class. Her many activities include editor-in-chief of the yearbook staff, co-captain of the varsity cheerleaders, member of the War Hawk staff and secretary of her class. Though these keep her very busy, in her spare time she enjoys drawing, going out with her friends, and watching television. She admires her father because she feels she can talk to him about anything. Algebra is her favorite subject because it is a great accomplishment to work out a hard problem. After high school Melody plans to enter the medical field.

Caroline Linder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Linder, is Miss Sophomore. She is a member of the varsity cheerleading squad, the French Club, and the War Hawk staff. Out of school, she enjoys riding horses and watching "Guiding Light". Caroline admires her parents the most because they are understanding and fun to be with. She finds French very interesting because learning a new language is fun and Mrs. Folk makes it exciting. Undecided about a college, Caroline wants to be a lawyer.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W.P. Morris, Mary Morris was selected by the Freshman Class to represent them as class beauty. Mary plays J.V. girls basketball, and is a member of the Pep Club and the Spanish Club. Out of school, she enjoys skiing, shopping, and being with her friends. Literature is her favorite subject. After high school, Mary is undecided about what college she wants to attend or what her major will be. She is following in the footsteps of her older sister Michelle, who is Miss Senior.

Mr. and Mrs. James Bernard Gahagan, III are the parents of Heather Gahagan, Miss 8th Grade. Heather is a member of the junior varsity cheerleading squad. Making this squad is her best memory of school thus far. When she is not cheering the Hawks to victory, she enjoys ballet and jazz dancing and playing the piano. Her hobbies include drawing, talking on the phone, and listening to the radio. Heather's favorite subject is Literature because it offers a variety of reading materials. She hasn't decided on a college or a major yet but she has time to think about it.

Looking Back

Time is a strange thing. There is no way of sensing it, hearing it, feeling it, touching it, tasting it, or smelling it. Yet, it is one of the most binding forces in our lives. Consequently, it is sometimes hard to keep track of time. The past and future often congeal into one big blur. "Did I go to Myrtle Beach last year or the year before?" and "When is my orthodontist appointment?" were a few questions that kept us all bewildered. However unclear the past and future may be, there is always today to calm the disorder and restore sanity. Today is the intersection of the past and future. Everyday is unique. What always has been, still is and probably always will be.

Everything that happens to us is a once-in-a-lifetime experience. So remember that this day — whenever it may be — is unique. Don't let it pass without giving it special consideration.

Winnie the Pooh stops to visit the lower school right before the Christmas holidays.

A couple of students take time to catch up on the latest news during study hall.

Kritsy Godley, Paige Fletcher, and Rebecca Speaks show their determination to win the sack race.

During field day, the kindergarteners support their white team by displaying banners.

Deanne Jones, Cindy Kinard, Jodi Crosby, and Laurette Hinton are never too busy for a picture.

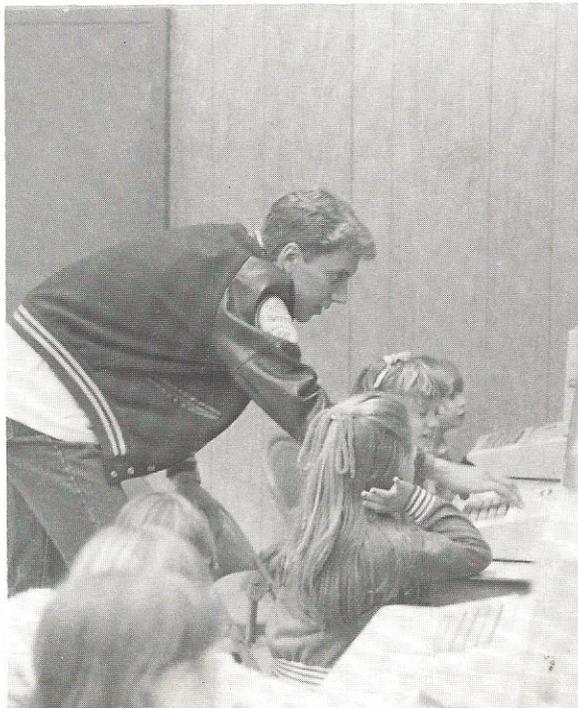

Not Just Another Year

Another year at the same old school, but was it really just another year? Of course not! This year had something new for everyone. When making the change from kindergarten to lower school, the students took the first steps toward maturity. For the middle school, the biggest difference was changing classes. The most exciting thing about upper school was knowing that you are on the downhill side. It was a year full of new classes, new friends, new faculty members and having a winning football and basketball team. Some were good; some were not so good, but in retrospect, not many people can say that 1985-'86 was not a great year for John C. Calhoun Academy.

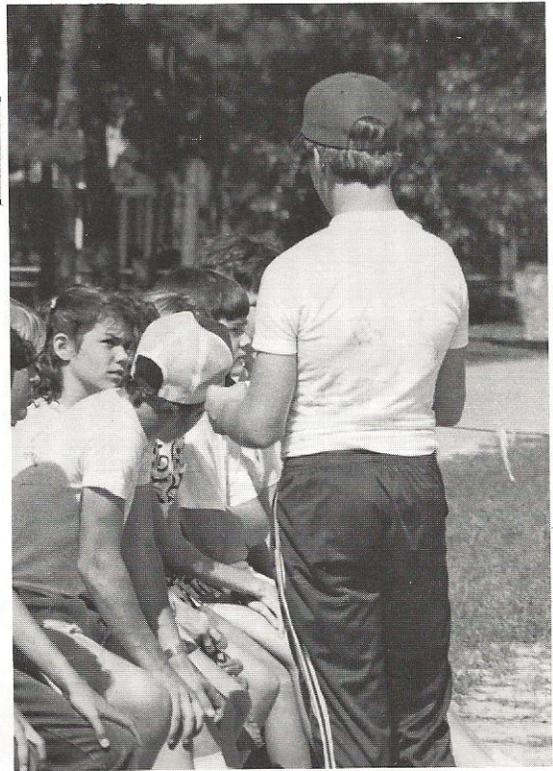

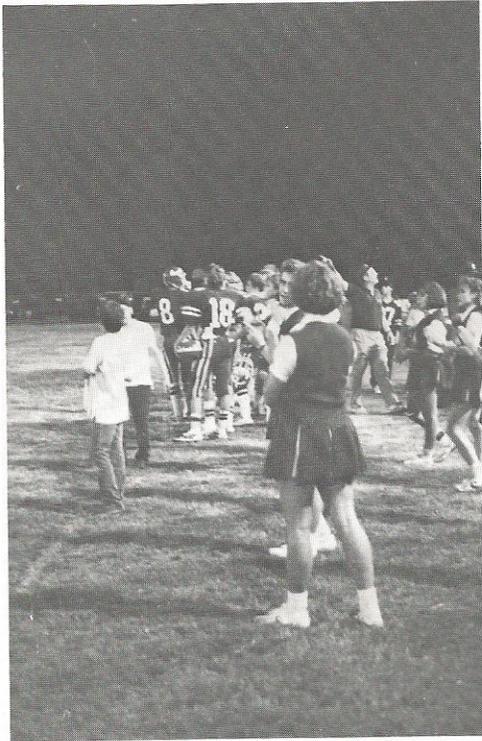

Ward Ulmer is never too busy to help out around the school.

For the Juniors, selling doughnuts may be easy, but delivering them is another story.

Everyone on the sidelines are amazed by the outstanding touchdown.

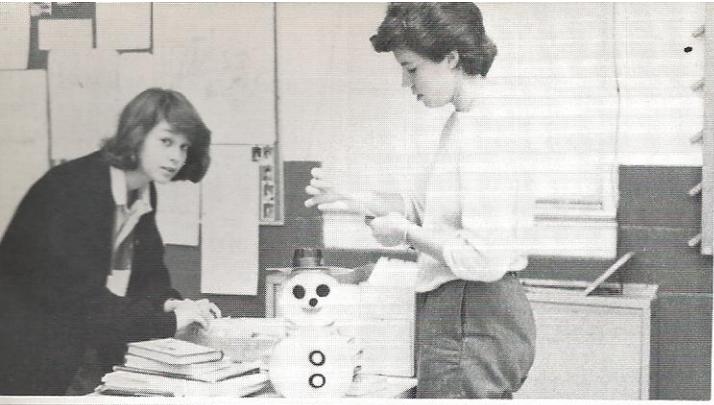

A few of the seventh graders stop for a break from the field day activities.

One of our new courses, chorus, has definitely caught the eighth graders attention.

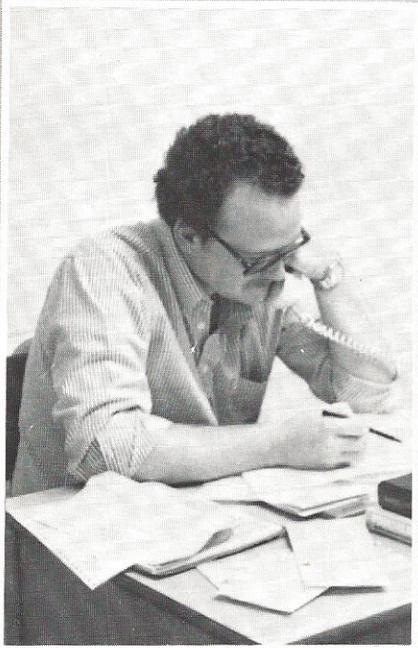

The fifth graders show their originality for Blue and White Day at the pep rally.

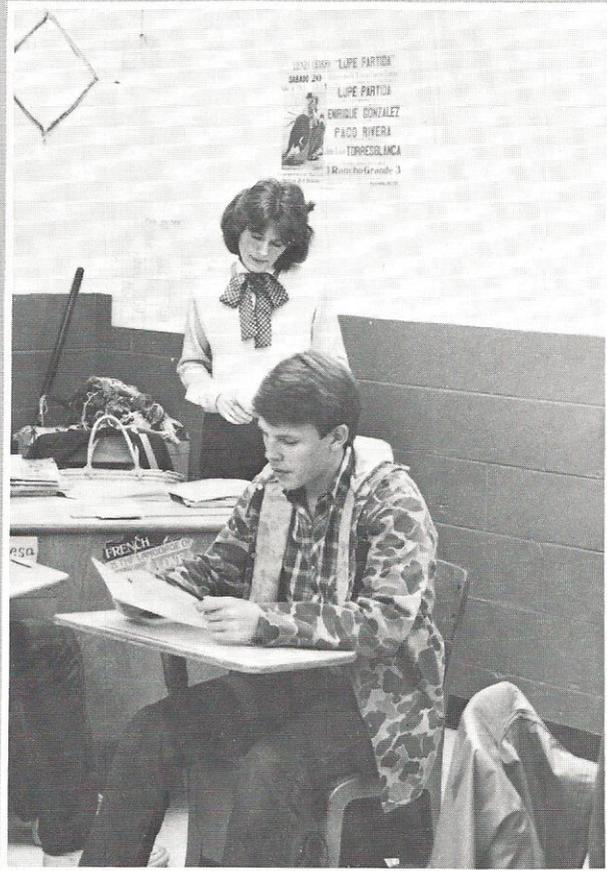

In their spare time, Carole McCants and Connie Craven help out in the library.

Scott Craven diligently studies his notes for Mrs. Folks' Spanish test.

Taking time from his busy schedule, Mr. McArthur sets up the tennis matches.

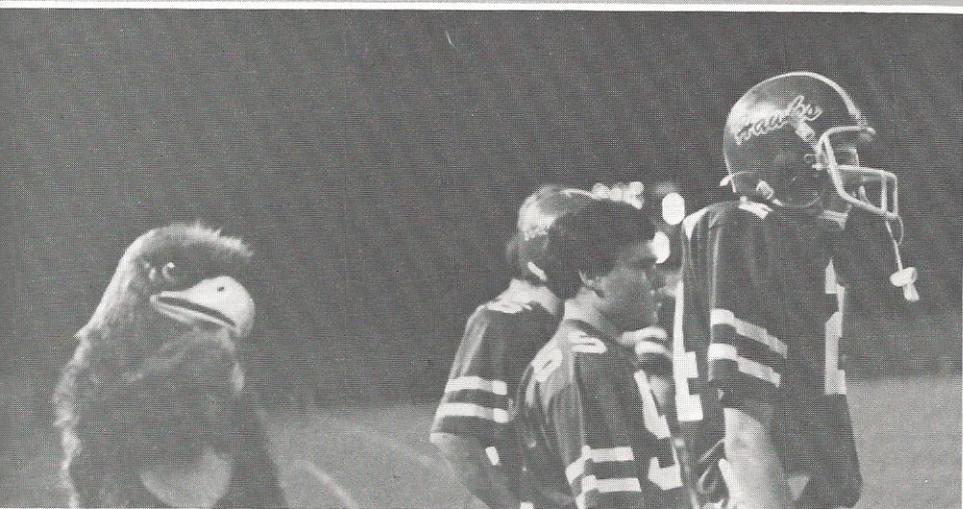

The lower school heads for the football field for the fun-filled field day.

The Final Countdown

Those exciting pep rallies in the gym, the lockers that would refuse to open, the hard working practices that seemed to last forever — These are a few things that run through our minds as the final days of school are counted down. But the twelve years of life spent on learning and growing also hold some of our most precious memories that will keep dear to us forever.

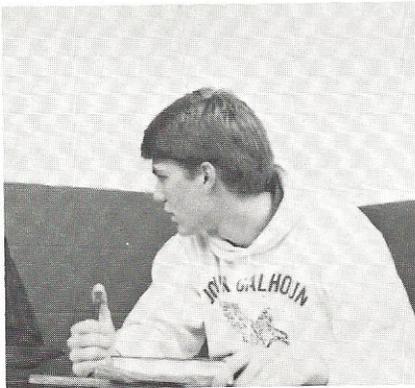

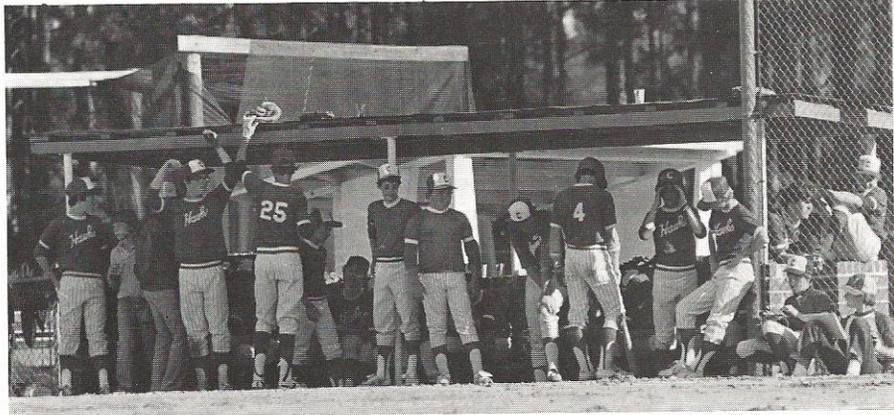

Looks like Mrs. Griffin needs a break!

The Warhawks anxiously wait for the game to start.

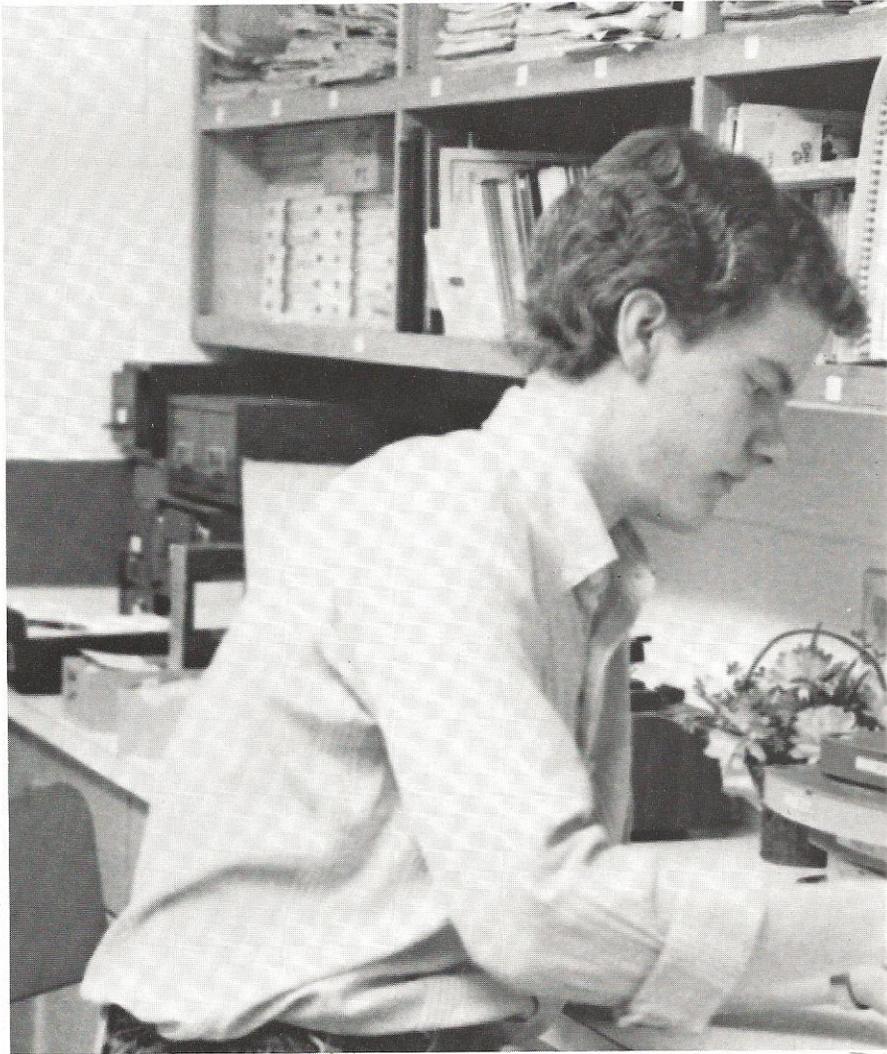

A Happy Ending

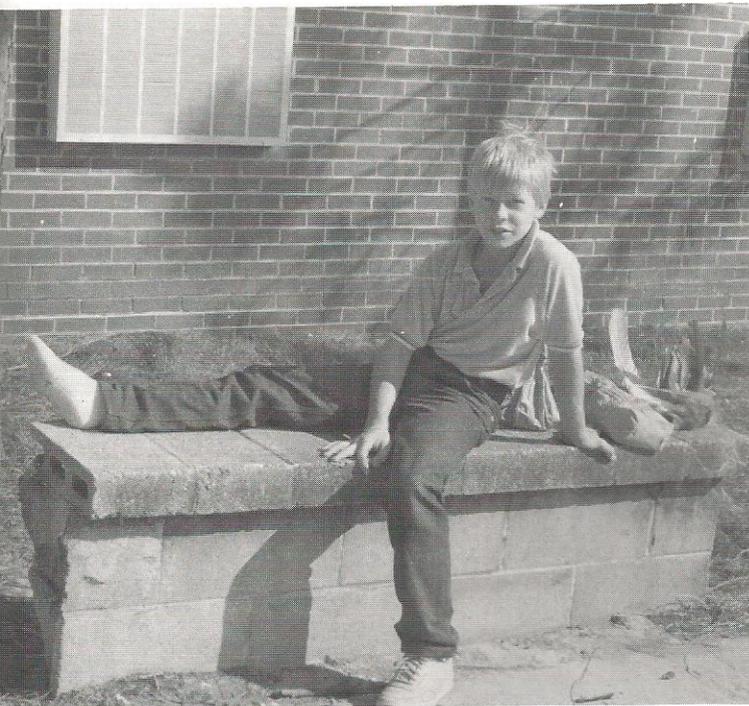

The baseball team awaits the challenge of the upcoming game.

Who said geometry was easy. Terry Jones looks for help to do his homework.

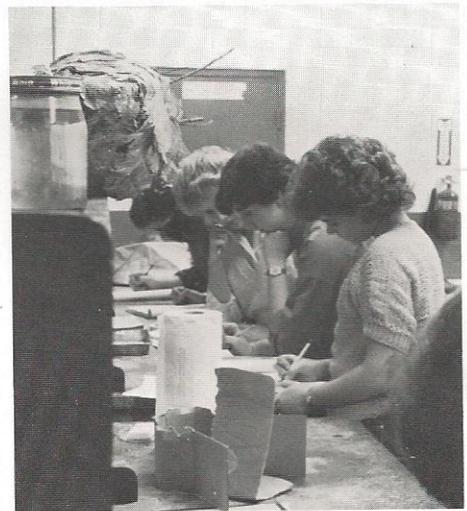

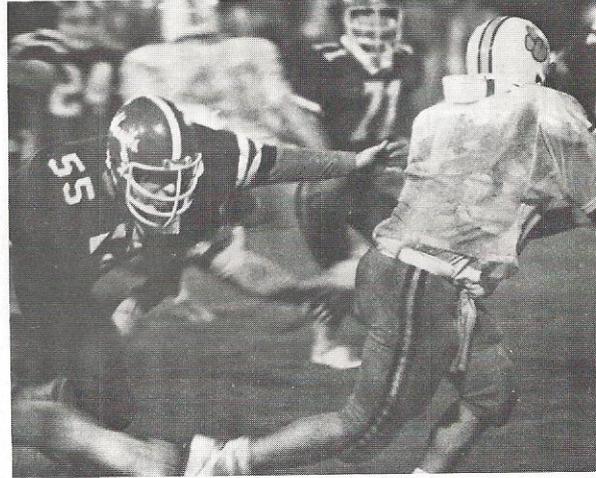

During lunch, Mrs. Warren stops by the office to make a brief call.

National Honor Society member, Kipp Hooker offers his help to the library.

Obviously, Wesley Jones hurt foot sidelines his break activities.

Scott Hiott is determined to get the ball from Lawrence Manning's quarterback.

Third period lab students try to figure out the laws of science.
