

Scrapbook

Kim Carter, cashier at Food Lion, rings up groceries. Benjie Crosby, Courtesy clerk at Bi-Lo, carries his customer's bags.

Unforgettable

Some students found summer a great time to earn money. Kim Carter, who worked at Food Lion, said "Sometimes I thought of quitting, like when I got mad at someone, but I never did." Benjie Crosby found his job at Bi-Lo convenient because he could have free time and earn some money. The job did have its drawbacks, however. "I split my pants. The second day of work the seam of my pants split straight down the middle when they got caught on the bag rack. I had to run to the break room and put an apron on 'cause they wouldn't let me go home."

RIDIN' HIGH! Summer is a great time for new experiences, and riding a camel was just one for Cindy Smith on her trip to Spain.