

Women's Lib Touches Basketball

The rules for girls' basketball have changed drastically this year. Instead of the former six players with the positions of two rovers, two guards, and two forwards, the girls now have five players with rules similar to boys' basketball. This has caused more rigorous practice for the girls and Coach Allen. In spite of this change, they have had a good season and we wish them more of the same.

