

Bee City

I really enjoyed our trip to Bee City. It was very educational and fun. They had tons of animals. There were bees, fallow and white tail deer (their antlers were off), ducks, rabbits, sheep, lambs, goats, ferrets, chickens, a lama whose front teeth were poking straight out, quail fish, iguanas, squirrels, turkeys, pigs, different kinds of birds, and a donkey. I liked the cute baby animals. They gave us free food to feed the animals. When we were feeding the animals some of them gave people kisses on their face. I liked the honey and the beeswax candles. It was fun getting to pick up the ferrets and feeding the goats. I got to pet the deer! Not many kids get to stand there and pet deer. We ate lunch at the Bee City Café. The food was excellent. The funniest part was when we were in the Fun House and almost everyone fell on the floor. The floors were going up and down. The floors were slanted sideways. We watched a video about Bee City. The bee's most important job is pollinating flowers so that people can survive by eating fruits, vegetables, and nuts. We went to the school room and learned about 3 kinds of bees. We tasted honey, and we learned about honey, beeswax, and beehives. The gift shop had lots of things about bees and made by bees. I saw candles, wax, honey, lip balm, soap, shirts, hats, and stuffed animals. Everything cost too much except the free samples. The only thing I could have asked for was to be there a little longer. I had a great time and would like to go there again. When the trip at Bee City was over we had to get on the bus and come back to school.
