

FRIENDSHIP

Laughter, class projects, and ten-minute breaks were woven into the friendships of each student. Classwork, pop tests, and afternoon meetings brought new threads of learning and growing to each day, and friends were always there to give encouraging smiles or to help with some forgotten homework. The patterned lives of busy students formed binding friendships that were impossible to unravel.

