

Community

Participating in the life of the community enlarged the students' world. Working for local merchants enabled students to gain business experience and earn extra money. By filling these jobs, the students provided services which aided the entire community. Neighborhood friendliness surrounded everyone and gave a feeling of security.

