

3rd Graders Improve Cursive Writing

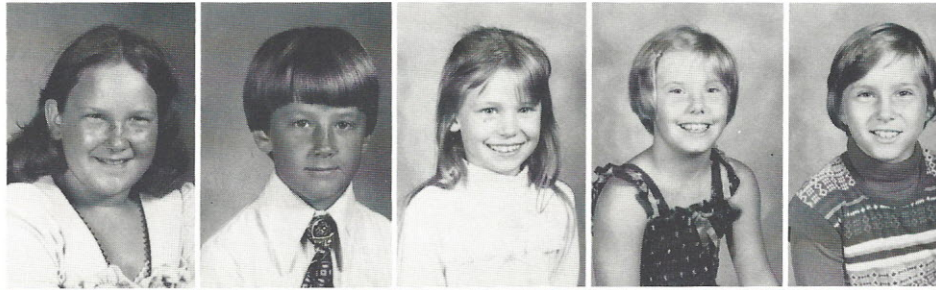

Third graders broadened their curriculum. They studied more science and social studies than previously. These courses were made more interesting by the use of occasional films and records. Individual projects were done by students to enrich their learning.

Students worked daily to improve their cursive writing.

Aided by patient teachers, this work soon perfected. Learning about multiplication and division was undertaken as well as a beginning study of South Carolina's history.

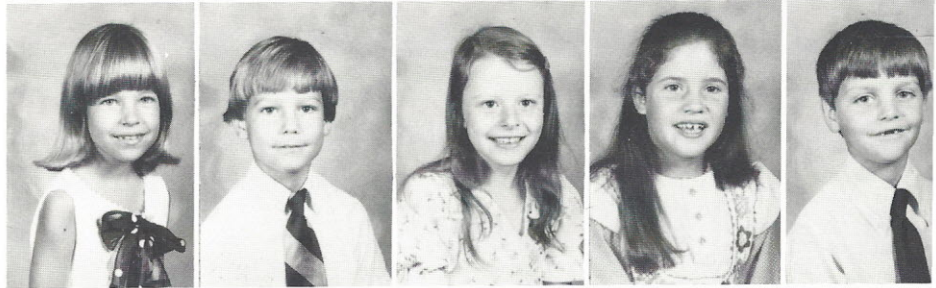

Liz Amaker
Tony Back
Michelle Bell
Shannon Boes
Angela Bonnette

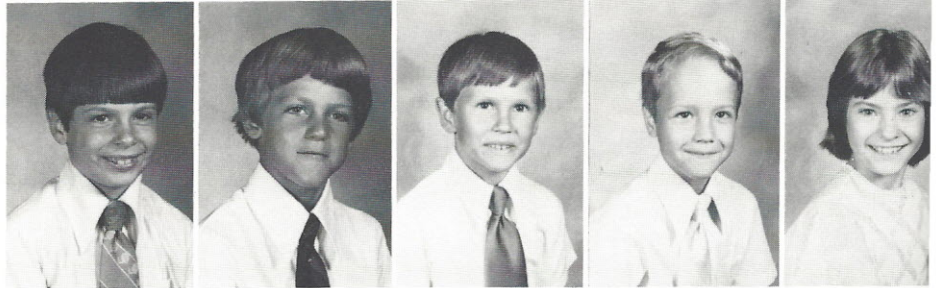

Tim Bonnette
Shannon Bozard
Teresa Brickle
Andrea Brooks
Jay Bruner

Amy Cayton
Walter Cherry
Stephanie Crawley
Karen Crider
Richard Croft

Jake Crook
Hamp Culler
Chad Dantzler
Andy Dean
Donna Dukes

Wayne Early
Marty Epps
Robin Fender
Babs Fickling
Caroline Fogle

