

"Truth'll Set You Free"

"You've got to be yourself, let yourself be best. For the truth will set you free." As both students and faculty set their routines with the music, they used their individuality in composing their own songs of the same pulsating rhythm; however, with unique expressions and unique blending of sounds, trying to harmonize with the world about them. Each song differed, but all of them contributed, adding a variety of tones and expressions to the composite melody, full of much harmony, much happiness.
