

THIS BOOK FOREWORD

Four years ago, when the Class of '29 were merely freshmen, the senior class of Walterboro High School put out the first annual in the history of the school. This live and ambitious class not only put out a creditable annual, but it fired the hearts of the underclassmen to reach the standard set for them.

Each succeeding class worked for another edition of the "Cedar Chest," but for one reason or another each one missed the mark until the freshmen class of that year became dignified seniors. The desire planted in their youthful hearts still burned brightly, and they too began working for an annual. Difficulties will arise, and this class had many to overcome. Finally this little book was begun. It does not aspire to the title of an annual, but it is simply a memory book to keep the memories of dear old W. H. S. green forever. It is so near our goal that the class of '29 is proud of it. May it accomplish its purpose so well that when in after years we look through its pages we can live over again the joys and sorrows of our high school days.

DEDICATION

To Mr. Ward, who has always sympathized with us in our high school ups and downs, encouraged us in our defeats, rejoiced with us in our victories, and inspired us at all times to live up to the very best that is in us, we fondly dedicate this booklet, hoping that it will show in some small degree our appreciation for all he has done for us.
