

Social Studies

An understanding of the past is a necessary component of the understanding of our present. With this in mind, in addition to textbook study, students learn from guest speakers, student speakers, and special current literature.

Social studies courses at WHS include world history, civics, and Problems of Democracy. These courses teach the student not only the history of our world and nation, but also how our government is organized and how its purpose is carried out.

The head of this department is Mrs. Nell Simmons.
