Cheerleaders Get It Together

The Varsity Cheerleaders this year were some of the most spirited and dedicated cheerleaders Walterboro High has had in many years.

An experimental method of choosing cheerleaders was used. This year, the cheerleader positions were open not only to senior girls, but to sophomores and juniors as well. Selection was made on the basis of ability rather than popularity. This method was used primarily to bring the two schools, Colleton High and Walterboro High, together as one school. It has proved to be a great success.

The cheerleaders worked five days a week this summer to prepare for the 1973-74 season. Under the leadership of Captain Pat Dawson, the squad painted signs, worked out cheers, and prepared pep rallies.

Senior Heidi Moyer transferred to Walterboro from the state of Washington. She brought new cheering ideas. Senior Ann Burch contributed enthusiasm and ingenuity, while the fourth senior, Genny Skardon, furnished the optimism necessary for maintaining the squad's vitality and spirit.

The squad was a team effort and the contributions of Juniors Delphia Taylor and Wanda Griffin, and the Sophomores Donna Balish, Mary Barnes, Jean Bishop, Jayne Mulligan, Sandy Socha, and Diane Tracy, Co-captain, added greatly to the squad's success.
