

Cheerleaders and Band Collaborate

The J.V. team gets their share of pep rallies, too. Here the J.V. cheerleaders get ready to do a cheer at one of the pep rallies. They are: Susie Nettles, Mickie Eadie, Cynthia Hoats, Barbara Graham, Gayle Dulaney, Derelle Williams, Paula Jackson, Glenda Manigo and Karen Haskell.

As is the custom at Walterboro High School, pep rallies are almost always held at the end of each day when there is a home football game that night. This was so again this year and our Homecoming Pep Rally was quite an exciting event.

At this year's Homecoming pep rally the cheerleaders organized "The Homecoming Hearings." The event was a real masterpiece, too, with Judge Diane Tracy presiding and the rest of the cheerleaders all frocked out in robes playing the part of the jury. Diane "The hanging judge" Tracy heard evidence presented by the world's most famous detectives. Ironside, Columbo, Cleopatra Jones, Kojak, Shaft and even the Mod Squad were all there presenting their evidence. All this was done in order to convict the Bulldogs of various crimes. Among these were charges of killing the Gators, throwing Rocks, plus many individual players were charged with misdemeanors.

Halfway through the "Trial" a break was held in which Mike Duck modelled a pair of exquisite hosiery and Elvis Presley (played by Gordon Clark) sang a medley of his greatest.

The trial was continued and, as was expected, Defense Attorney Rochelle Newton lost and Prosecuting Attorney Kenny Savage won his case and the Dogs were found guilty. They were sentenced to one night of victory or to run extra wind sprints. Case closed!

(Left) The Walterboro High School Band, probably the greatest addition to any pep rally, is led by Mr. Bill Young.
