

MR. CHARLES AIKEN—Pre-Vocational.
MR. JAMES BOJISON—Drivers Education; Sportsmanlike Driving.
MR. DENNIS HALTIWANGER—Forestry, Vocational Agriculture; FFA.

MR. ARLISS JARVIS—Distributive Education; D. E. Club.
MR. HERMAN MINES—Diversified Occupations, Mechanical Drawing; T & I Club.
MR. CLYDE TOOMER—Pre-Vocational, Agriculture; FFA.

MR. RIDDICK TUTEN—Pre-Vocational; T & I Club.
MR. JACOB WILLIAMS—Pre-Vocational.

Vocational Classes Prepare Students for Life

"I now pronounce you man and wife." These words marked the ending of a mock wedding ceremony performed during a class of Family Living of the Home Economics department.

Sewing classes helped with the economic situation by teaching the young women how to sew their own clothes and to avoid high store prices.

The cooking classes made up their own recipes, sometimes by accident, and presented each other with their finished meals.

With a change in life styles, boys got a chance to sew, cook, and care for children.

Walking through the hall of the Vocational Building the clicking sounds grew louder and louder until finally you realized you were outside the typing class, where the students were nimbly stroking the keys as they strove for speed and accuracy in their work.

Also you saw students diligently working on their bookkeeping and shorthand, which they hoped would lead to jobs in the business world after graduation.

Salesmanship, learning the use of a cash register and the best selling techniques were basic skills learned in the D.E. classes.

Walterboro students in mechanical drawing learned how to draw any shape or object you could imagine. The FFA Chapter went to the State Fair in Columbia and competed in the cattle show where they won the Reserved Grand Champion Bull and to the Carolina Fair in Charleston where they competed in the Hog Show and won the Reserved Grand Champion and the Grand Champion Awards in the Guild Division.