

Variety '76 Creates Excitement

Variety '76 became the largest undertaking ever recorded in the history of Colleton County entertainment. Months were spent in planning by Charlie Tuna and the Walterboro-Colleton County Recreation Commission before any rehearsals began. Then another two months were spent in the actual rehearsing of the show.

When it was all put together, Variety '76 was a show Walterboro would never forget. It consisted of two and one half hours of singing and dancing that was as fine as any produced in larger cities. Variety '76 was an impossible dream, but with the dedication and hard work of everyone involved and, especially, the director Charlie Tuna, the impossible became reality.

"Does Anybody Really Know What Time It Is," sings Charlie Tuna in the opening song of Variety '76.

"This is fun," says Karen Jernigan and Steve Carnie in the number "Everything's Coming Up Roses."
