

They call that a nourishing lunch? We call it junk. This is one of the attempts of school dieticians to come up with a nutritious and well balanced lunch. Not even fancy names could save this one though. What horrible disaster led to this delight of indigestion is unimaginable. Even a dozen Alka-Seltzers and a gallon of Pepto Bismol could not help the poor innocent victims of this so-called lunch.

Are we really expected to eat that? It seems that we are, but many students feel it is safer to leave campus to find something better. Although this is forbidden, no one can blame us. Still, they wonder why we cut!

Rugged country describes the drive that runs in front of the school.

Didn't they condemn that place? The old band room presents a sorry sight in its terrible condition.
