

Watch out Ford and Pinckney are on the loose!
Nick Pinckney goes for several yards as Raymond Ford makes his way possible.

What happened to the ball? Jerry Cochran wonders where the ball went. It was fumbled by Keenan.

Champion is a word that enchants us and Dynamite describes how our champs play. This was shown in full force in the Keenan game. Two defensive players stole the show and got the ball rolling at the same time. David Whay and Melvin Williamson turned the Raiders' errors into valuable points for his teammates. David Whay grabbed Danny McCaskill's fumble out of mid-air and flew into the end zone. David Whay's defensive playing caused a Raider to fumble the ball, throwing it up in the air. David Whay caught the ball and high-tailed it to the end zone. Stanley Mitchell blocked Brady Howe's attempt for conversion. As the game went on it looked as if Keenan was in control; but looks can be deceiving! We proved that in the beginning of the fourth quarter. Melvin Williamson put the action back on the right track. He grabbed a pass on our forty-fifth yardline herding it back to their thirty-four yardline. Nick Pinckney threw a quick pass return back to Keenan's thirty-four.

"The Juice," Raymond Ford ran four yards and on into the end zone. Brady Howe's after point left the score thirteen to seven in our favor with eleven minutes and six seconds on the clock.

Keenan tried to come back with a long pass from Mike Reed to Danny McCaskill, but Casey Price put a stop to that. He jumped up and grabbed the ball putting his teammates in possession of the ball, with just two minutes and twenty seconds in the game.

Time was against the raiders, so they surprised us with a gun formation on their fourteenth yardline. At this time Melvin Williamson took things into his own hands. He made his second interception of the night. He grabbed and returned the ball in the end zone. Victor Radcliffe ended the game by kicking the extra point.
