

"Financial Wizards?" "No, but we could not have done it without the help of our sponsors Ms. Blue and Mrs. Skardon."

Many hours of hard work during and after class were spent on ads. Selling ads served as an over-all project of the entire annual staff.

Financial coordinator Mrs. James W. Skardon, who handled money transactions, stressed that total involvement was imperative in order to succeed financially.

Initially the staff was faced with many problems in selling ads. Among those were: business hours, transportation, inflation, time element, lack of sufficient materials and inexperience among the staff.

For the most these problems were resolved as indicated by ad sales which reached their peak with a total of two thousand seven hundred and eighty dollars after only four months of work. Now that's something to celebrate!
