

Valley Talk

Like, that's totally grody to the max, gag me with a spoon.

No, Valley Talk is not a foreign language or a secret code, but words and phrases used by a group of teenagers ranging from 14 to 17 years old. Vals had their own special style of dress, behavior and vocabulary.

We didn't have very many 100% Valley girls (or guys) around here. But of course every once in a while you'd see a mini skirt, ruffles or bows.

If one is really interested in Valley Talk, then these terms do not sound "far out" to you. Mega, monda, super, totally, to the max; all these mean very or extremely. A beatie is a loser; an airhead is a super dumb person; a jel is both dumb and weird. Groovy is something (or someone) that is really old. Grody expresses something as yucky, ugly or grotesque.

Vickie Hiers listening to a totally grody lecture.
