Cruisin'

We get around

"Cruisin' is taking us away to where we wanna be," is the revised version of a famous song that applied to many of W.H.S.'s driving students. However, some weren't crusin' to where they wanted to be, but rather to where they had to be, such as school.

In a small town such as Walterboro, cruisin' was just about the only thing students had to do on weekends and after school. They cruised to friends' houses, to school, and uptown. They cruised up and down Jefferies Boulevard, the main drag, and cut Sonic on every go-around. In short, cruisin' made our days and nights a first class time.

Main Street Walterboro, is one of the routes used to cruise.
