The Extra Terrestrial

They waited in line for an hour maybe two, to see it. In some areas, they spent up to $6.00 to see it. Tammy Adams even said, "It was the best!"

No, it wasn't a beauty contest, nor was it Homecoming, nor was it even a John Cougar concert. It was E.T.!

Though it didn't get to the Cook Theatre until early fall, people of all ages, races and sexes came to see the box office smash.

E.T., directed by Stephen Spielberg, grossed over 250 million dollars. "Though the prices for the movie went up while E.T. was here, I didn't mind paying it. The movie was definitely worth it," stated Lisa Andrews.

After the release of the popular picture, E.T. was seen everywhere: dolls, board games, Atari games, clothes and posters. Even though E.T. went home, his cute face will be remembered by all who watched, 'E.T. Go Home.'

E.T. and E.T.
