

How do you feel?

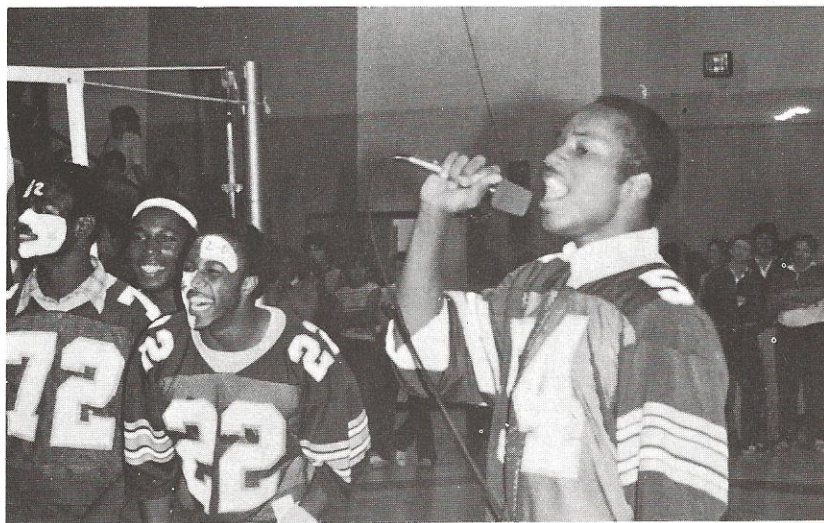

Fired up

Pep Rallies have always been a tradition here. As Monday rolls along most of our students can hardly wait until Friday afternoon at 2:35 to participate in the Pep Rally.

Unlike the Seniors who are accustomed to the Rallies, Freshmen seem to be a little shy and timid about "letting themselves go." They are not accustomed to the wild cheering and the rivalry involved between the different classes that goes on during these events. One Freshman, Tammy Coaxum said, "I was really surprised at the atmosphere of the rallies, but after figuring out what to do I soon played my part just right."

Pep Rallies are very important to our team. Gregory Teasdell, one of our football players, said "pep rallies are really a great boost for our team. If we can have all the support of the students, that really gives us more of a reason to go out and show our stuff!" So, as long as we have our Dogs, we will always have those sensational Pep Rallies that "make me feel proud of my school!" exclaims sophomore Theresa Washington.

Wylie Ellis sings to the crowd as his teammates look on.

Kicking the football season off to a great start, the Bulldog fans really show their spirit.
