

First Class Act

Class came in several forms and was not segregated to a certain race, sex, creed, club or group.

Class was seen by nearly everyone in the things done by our students; things such as helping underprivileged children have a merrier Christmas or helping very special students in becoming athletes. Students also provided free tutoring services to students before exams.

Showing class did not always come easy. Losing gracefully or at least trying to look graceful when an important game was lost was harder than one thought.

In every way, students showed caring compassion. Love and sharing all made the year a First Class Act!
