

You Had To Be There

While we found it easy to boast about a new eight million dollar school and a #1 band, we added to the already impressive accomplishments a Lower State Football Championship and a higher academic standard. We began to care what happened, where it happened and with whom it was concerned. We got proud, loud, and involved and let our spirit take over.

"A second home with a spirited feeling where things happened and we wanted to be," was how Leslie Burgess defined 1220 Bulldog Ave. Another student stated that our school wasn't a building, a sign, or a name but people—people who worked, laughed, and learned together, people who wanted to be there.

The old cliché, 'practice makes perfect', was found to be true. As routines became familiar and faces no longer strange, WHS in the making was WHS made, and though a "First Class Act" was hard to follow we did our best, and landed on top, and deserved A Stamp of Approval.

"The School spirit that brought about the great football team and band we had deserved my Stamp of Approval."—Kelly Whittaker, Sophomore.

"The support that came not only from the school but also from the community stamped the year with approval"—Garrett Carter, Senior.
