

Puttin' on the Ritz

A night long remembered

Girls spent weeks in the malls trying to find that extra-special dress, hours choosing the right hairstyle and months finding the perfect date. Some girls even went on fad diets to fit into skimpy gowns.

Guys had the responsibility of picking out a nice course and ordering a tuxedo that wouldn't be too small and matches his date's dress.

Students from Mrs. Zielke's

and Mr. Smoak's art classes and other volunteers decorated the gym. Blue streamers were draped and silver stars dangled from the ceiling, murals were hung on the walls, a bridge was set up and a fountain was constructed on the gym floor.

All of this planning made the prom a special event for juniors and seniors. "I thought the prom was terrific! The decorations were beautiful and the band was great," said Brian Moorer. Just being with that special person made the prom great for some. "I was pleased with the dance since my girl friend, Hanna, from Raleigh, NC was able to attend," said Benjy McCoy.

Students will remember the goldfish quietly dumped into the fountain, romantic slow dances and the long picture line.

A glass of punch between dances is all it takes to keep Walker Moore, Holly Craven, Joan Broach, William Stone, Diane Bell, Alan Floyd, Bernard Walker, and Teresa Smith smiling.
