

Superior Again

For the next month and a half, Friday nights and Saturdays were set aside for a good cause. On Friday nights the band was the center of attention at halftime performances. Saturdays were spent going to Furman to participate in the Music Bowl, to Camden to participate in their festival, to Columbia to defend our state championship, to the Citadel to play at halftime and back to Columbia to march at the Carolina vs. Navy game's halftime.

During October the band went to the State Fair. They came away with the coveted prize, The Governor's Cup.

Even though they placed fourth in the South Carolina Marching Band Championships, our band was first in all of our hearts.

Mr. Young summed up the season, "We knew this year would be a tough one, and I think we all felt the pressure. We knew that we had our school's support and the pride of our community behind us."

"We decided to go for it and passed up some easy music and marching for the most difficult we had ever attempted. As for State, I was disappointed that we lost but very proud of my band for their fine effort. As far as I was concerned, they were still the State Champions."

Stephen Stynchcomb intrigues the audience with his solo "Emerald Eyes".
