

With twelve years of friends, fun, and facts to their credit, the class of '85 awaits their cue to move on. Melissa Ammon, Richard Beach, and Laura Bell hold the necessary cards.

Handkerchief in hand, Jennie Padgett prepares for an expected rush of tears while Barry Strickland tries to convince her that "getting out" is nothing to cry about.

