Authority Means Much

Two students, Terry Jones and Walker Moore, had unusual afterschool jobs. They directed traffic for the city. They acquired these jobs by applying at City Hall. Walker has directed traffic in front of Hampton Street Elementary School for four years. Rookie Terry Jones directed traffic in front of Colleton Middle School Campus B.

They directed traffic from 7:30-8:00 a.m. and from 3:30-4:00 p.m.

They enjoyed the job because the hours were short and the pay was good. Terry said, "I love the job because the pay is great, and I have a feeling of authority."

Traffic control is the responsible job belonging to Terry Jones.
