

Keith Green pulls down a jump ball against Beaufort.

Preparing For The Varsity

Some Sooner Than Others

The J.V.'s had a mediocre season this year. Their shooting was good and their height was good, but the boys only won a few games. But they had a better season than their record showed.

The Junior Varsity Boys' Basketball program is designed to prepare young basketball players for the Varsity Squad. Usually players spend two years on the J.V. Squad and two years on the Varsity, but this year things were a little different.

Under the terms of the governor's new education program, student athletes had to maintain a passing grade in all subjects. Many of the Varsity players failed to keep their grades up so they became ineligible. Many J.V. basketball players were moved up to the Varsity at mid-season. This left the Junior Varsity with a small roster.

One good thing that resulted from the transfer of players was that many young J.V. players got a lot of game time experience that they wouldn't ordinarily have had. The team finished the season with a losing record but they played good basketball, none the less.

Front Row: Walter Burns, James Williams, Coach Doug Bullock, Mark Malone, Kevin Chapman. Back Row: Nathaniel Pinckney, Keith Green, Johnny Williams, Willie Brown, and Marcus Townsead.

Walter Burns takes a long jumpshot from the outside.