SITTING FOR BUCKS

During the school year many students found that they did not have time to hold after school jobs but still needed some extra money. Therefore many students turned to babysitting. Some liked to babysit because they liked children while others did it just for the money. When asked why she liked to babysit, Beth Bryan answered, "I like to babysit because I love children, and it is a good way to pick up some extra money."

Babysitting also left many memories to students. After the children went to bed, the best way to pass the time was to call a friend and talk of the day's activities. Many sitters even took a friend along for company.

Whatever the reason, students found babysitting to be worthwhile and enjoyable.
