

Students are . . .

Doing The New Thing

If one ever wondered why he was being followed down the hall by a thick camera lens, he does not need to wonder anymore. Media Productions was one of two non-typical courses added to the curriculum last year. The idea of keeping memories through photographic film was passe. Advanced technology enabled the video team to capture the true personalities of the students. Such events as Graduation and Lunch were filmed for students to have their past brought back to life at the touch of a button.

Senior Ann Goff said, "As co-captain of the Video Crew, I have enjoyed filming students around the school at their funniest." Senior Lisa McCall admitted that "we got off to a slow start because we didn't know anything about videotaping events. However, after a lot of practice, we began to enjoy taping." Dylane Stephens, a senior, enjoyed the course "because we get to record those candid shots of our friends doing things that some people wouldn't imagine doing."

Like Media Productions, School Based Enterprise was a pilot course available to all who were interested. The main project of this course was to start a viable business in the community. And how did the students feel about having the responsibility of owning their own business? "It's not as easy as I thought to start a business," said Fred Reed, a senior and one of the owners of Total Chaos Record Store. Rachen Pinckney, a senior and one of the owners of Happy Daze Ice Cream Shop, agreed with his classmate's opinion. "I never thought I could become an entrepreneur at the age of seventeen."

Andrea Taylor & Patrice Gerideau

ACADEMICS

A-Z

IKE — I know everything

Jail — ISS

Seniors Rachen Pinckney, Craig McKelvey, and junior Kenneth Greenwell peeked through the windows of an empty lot located at the Wal-Mart Shopping Plaza. It was necessary for the students to observe various business locations in order to decide upon the best one.

