

Talent Show

It came as no surprise when Angel Williams and Chris Crosby were chosen as Most Talented. Both seniors were All-State Band participants for several years in a row, and both were section leaders since their very first audition with the Band of Blue.

Angel played clarinet since her sixth grade year. In her senior year, she served as drum major. She was awarded the Director's Award for Excellence at the annual band banquet. Angel planned to take her talents to Syracuse University, where she would study law.

During the BETA Club induction ceremony, Angel Williams takes her oath. Angel also did the morning video announcements.

Chris Crosby plays the "the grumpy old man" at the band banquet. The seniors used a Saturday Nigh Live format for their show.

Chris was always, in some way, involved with music. His talents ranged from trombone to guitar, from voice to piano. He was awarded the John Philip Sousa Award, the highest honor a senior bandsman could achieve. Chris' plans included attending the Citadel to study electrical engineering.

"Both of them will be missed next year. Angel could always surprise her audiences with her great clarinet features. I'll never forget how Chris could play just about anything on any instrument. Both of them were amazing," said Shelissa Garrett, fellow senior band member.
