

What do you thrive on?

Obsessions

Get away from me freak!!! What are you...obsessed?? Obsessions vary in all colors, shapes, and sizes. From football to cars, students thrived on many different items.

Varsity football player Keivy Rowses obsessed over the game. "It's awesome when you see all the fans, and you go to make a big play and hear them screaming. I've been playing football since I was little. This season I played for four weeks with a sprained ankle," said senior Keivy Rowses. The whole football team seemed to share this obsession.

Freshman Taylor Smith took a different approach on obsessions. "I like cars...everything about cars. They are very attractive." Taylor "handled" his obsession by subscribing to magazines. Taylor also said that an obsession "is something you turn to when you are bored."

Two-year band student Alicia Dowdy loved music. "I could name any song that one could sing." She handled her obsession by singing and dancing. "I love music because because it tells a story about how a person is feeling.

Different people had different ideas on how to handle an obsession. Although some obsessions were unhealthy, for others, the obsessions only filled daily life.

- Libbi Kinard

1 Football Fanatics! Many of senior Keivy Rowses' friends love to play football. Keivy called his love for football an obsession since he played for varsity for four weeks with a sprained ankle!

2 Boys will be boys! Almost every guy loves some sport. Many high school boys loved playing under the stadium lights every Friday night!

3 Too much fun? Football games are always fun. From left to right, sophomores JoBeth Banas, Meredith Dresher, Olivia Barnes, Lydia McCollum, and Julie McMillian were all obsessed with having a blast!