

Students Preparing for the Outside World

Taking the Future by the Hand

Want to be a millionaire? Computer jobs provided well paying jobs. Students looking for a job in the computer world could be offered a great experience with Future Business Leaders of America (FBLA). The class taught challenging computer skills and helped prepare teenagers for jobs in the real world.

"Advice that I would give to other students is to take part in the fun and preparation for the future," said junior Cathleen Goodwin.

Besides having fun and working with computers, FBLA members also had community service projects. The March of Dimes and Letters to Santa, two of their major projects showed kindness of the organization. The Letters to Santa went to needy children in every elementary school in the county.

"We all individually write the Letters to Santa. It's not easy and it's really time consuming," said senior Marietta Hefner.

The class had fun and exciting opportunities. FBLA participated in competitions and got chances to learn new computer skills and met new people. "I recommend that students take a part in FBLA and have some fun!" said junior Alicia Ford.

Future Business Leaders of America helped the members prepare for a better tomorrow.

-Lydia MaCollum

Just Hangin' around! Having a little fun, FBLA president senior Dustin Bursteiner and a guest at the induction ceremony take a quick picture before the ceremony began. He found FBLA to be a fun experience.

Party time! FBLA members discuss plans for the organization while eating cake and socializing. Food and drinks were provided during every meeting.