

HUGO

As the 20th Century drew to a close, on September 21-22, 1989, Hurricane Hugo devastated the lives, hope, and progress of the South Carolina Low country. It's forceful, speeding winds ripped roofs off houses, uprooted trees, broke powerlines, shattered windows, and completely destroyed many houses on the coast. Although other Hurricanes have taken more lives, Hugo was the most devastating storm ever.
