

We Have Arrived!

Seventh Grade

L-R: Holly, Angela, Mindy, Ginnie, Amanda D., Katie. Mrs. Evelyn, Ricky, Amanda I., Shaun, Richard, Kimberly, Al, and Scotty.

The seventh grade, which is made up of 13 people, was asked to answer the question, "What is your most hated school rule?" Ginnie, Richard and Mindy all felt the same way. They hate not being able to show any affection. Shaun, Holly, Amanda I think that the rule about the length of shorts could be changed.

When asked about high school there were many pros and cons.

For example, the pros were: the different teachers, study hall and changing classes. The cons were: all the school work and that everybody runs over you like you were not there.

The role models of the seventh graders range from superstars, teachers and upperclassmen. Al's role model is Michael Jordan while the girls' role model is Mrs. Evelyn. Ginnie's role model is Woody! Go figure!!

Then when it comes to causing the most trouble, everybody agrees that it is definitely Scotty, Al and Richard. They especially like to shoot spitballs and draw on jerseys.

Believe it or not they do have favorite teachers. Mrs. Flail, Mrs. Webb and Mrs. Evelyn all fit this category.

Even though everybody likes AJA like it is, if they could change something it would be the rules and paint it a different color.

Once in a lifetime, Richard is actually doing his classwork.

Even though Amanda D. is in pain, she continues to keep a smile on her face.
