

The Beginning

Elementary students are just starting with their lives. They have a lot to learn and a lot to be taught. Kindergarten is the very beginning of the 13 years of school. After Kindergarten is over with, first grade seems to be important to the students. They are no longer in Kindergarten. Second grade challenges students and gives the students new experiences. Subjects get harder when the students reach the third grade and the fourth grade. They start learning more about math, reading, and writing. Fifth grade adds more responsibility to the students or more homework. Finally, sixth grade arrives. It is the midpoint of a student's school days, but also the beginning of a different world.
