

Playing The Field

Sports . . . That is what school is all about to some students. Sports offer students a great experience. The students learn about responsibility, leadership, and determination. Students take great pride in representing their school by playing sports. It helps them to become more confident in their every day life. It teaches them about morals and reality. Sports may teach every student something different. Sports may seem to be something that you learn, but sports are very fun and exciting. Just ask anybody who plays a sport.

Raise your hand if you're sure! The softball team of girls were definitely sure of themselves in 1992.

Richard Moore grabs a rebound to help his other teammates to get down the court and score.
