

Social Studies

It is often said that history repeats itself. The social studies department reveals the past to help students understand the present and prepare for the future. There are three phases of this department -- United States history, world history, and American government. All of these give the student appreciation of our heritage, knowledge of our governmental principles, and interests in current events.

Mr. Hampton points out the ten governmental depart-

Members of 8-A History trace the routes of explorers of early America.

