

Ancient Spartans were strong, participating in many activities to develop endurance, strength, cleverness, and the ability to think out difficult problems. In the twentieth century, CMA Spartan experiences demand many of those same capabilities. As an integral part of the school program, cadets participate in varied extra-curricular activity, promoting a sense of self-reliance and practical leadership.

ACTIVITIES