

FALL-IN

The cadet corps assembles.

Just as each dress parade starts with fall-in of the cadet corps, every organization in society begins with, is organized by, and revolves around people. Each military review blends old and new in an unvarying sequence of events. The age-old spectacle is unique, as is every incoming cadet. He mixes with "old boys" to form the cadet battalion. As the formed-up troops mold together and perform the movements of a dress parade, so the corps of cadets fall-in and work together in unison, a constantly replenishing and blending of human resources.
