Cadet Ashley J. Saulnier steps off at the command, "Forward, MARCH!"

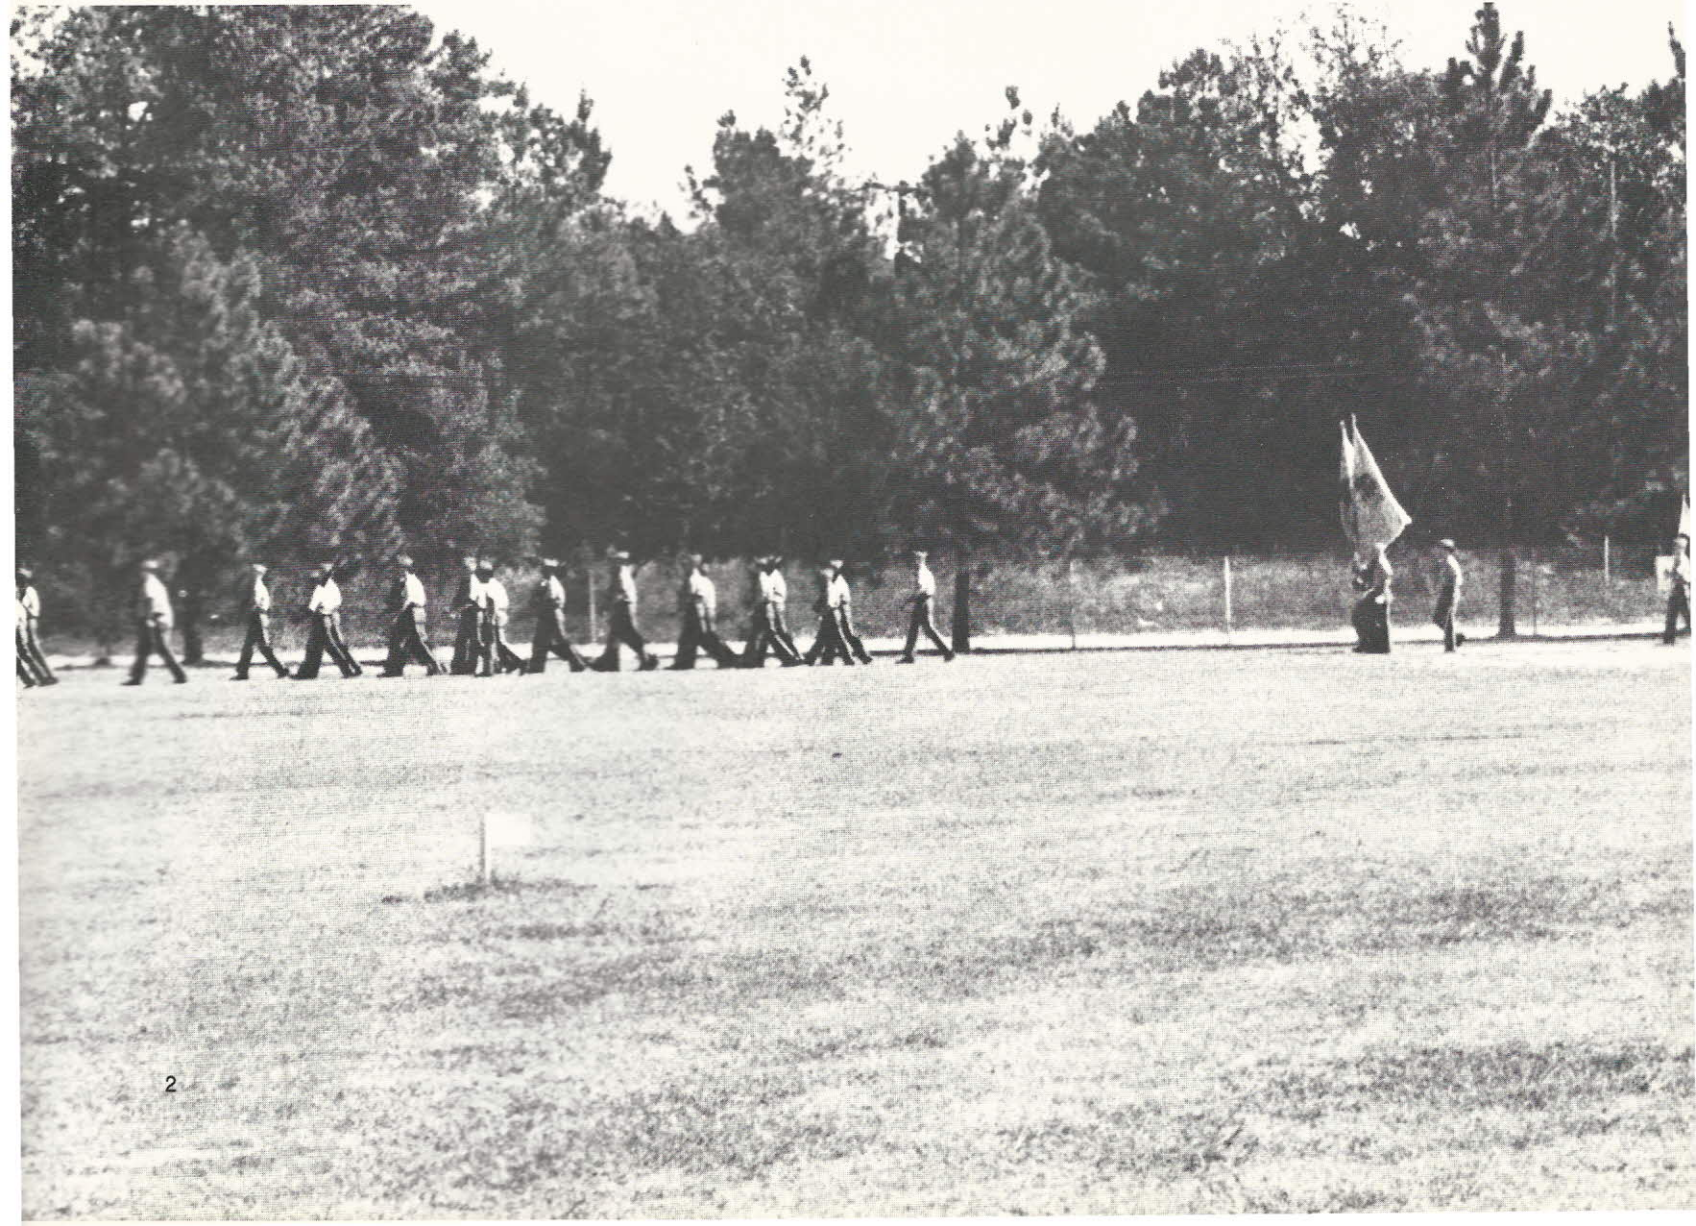

CAMDEN MILITARY ACADEMY

Camden, South Carolina 29020 (US Route 1, North) Phone: (803) 432-6001

THE CORPS MOVES WHAT GETS FORWARD,

"Forward, March" is the command for the battalion to move. Regulated and structured by many commands, the corps runs by them and without them total chaos might very well result. Cadets stand or sit at "attention" and "present arms" in salute. They "carry on" through the day and enjoy times "at ease." But "Forward, March" gets them moving.

Here lives revolve around a rigidly structured military schedule. Cadets rise and rest knowing that. Response to commands, after constant use in daily living, in drill, and in ceremonies, becomes instinctive. Useful and necessary as these commands are to a cadet now, they will not be forgotten after his time at Camden Military Academy ends. He stores them deep in his mind forever. Though they may develop significance and connotations quite different from the meaning they had while a student, they trigger memories of the life-style, the honor, and the everlasting friendships developed here. As a student leaves Camden Military Academy to march forward and to carry on into life, he will remain a cadet in his soul.

STUDENT LIFE

Officers give their subordinates "at ease," an order to be quiet or to relax. Cadets take advantage of their valuable free time, often laid back in their rooms as cadets Radi Clytus, Mike Scott, and Dave Ramsey are here.

Oommm's and Ozo

On June 15, 1987, CMA's library journeyed across Woodward Field's apron to its new, central location.

CMA FAMILY GATHERS

"Oommm's" resonated around the world from New Age disciples and from mocking scoffers last August 16 to bring on an era of peace and harmony. Whether or not the three-planet, new moon lineup marked the end of the "materialistic" world, members of the globally dispersed CMA family began to gather—often nervously because of airlines safety scares—to march forward into another year.

In late summer, Iran-Contra affair figure Oliver North and presidential hopeful Gary Hart were fading before media focus, although North's devoted secretary Fawn Hall and Hart's almost local (Columbia) party girl Donna Rice continued to capitalize on the limelight of their notoriety. Jim and Tammy Bakker for a time held media attention, then abruptly quit PTL and South Carolina. Bakker's paramour Jessica Hahn, more press resilient than he, almost certainly continues to stare barebreasted from pages of Playboy in barracks recreational reading stacks. Of greater historical import, at a UN sponsored convocation, 24 countries signed a milestone accord, the Montreal Protocol, promising to halt production and use of ozone destroying chemicals by 1999 and offering hope for averting potential environmental catastrophe from ozone depletion and from global warming. In the turbulent Middle East, the Iran-Iraq conflict intensified to crisis levels as the United States reflagged Kuwaiti oil tankers and guaranteed their safe passage through international waters of the Persian Gulf.

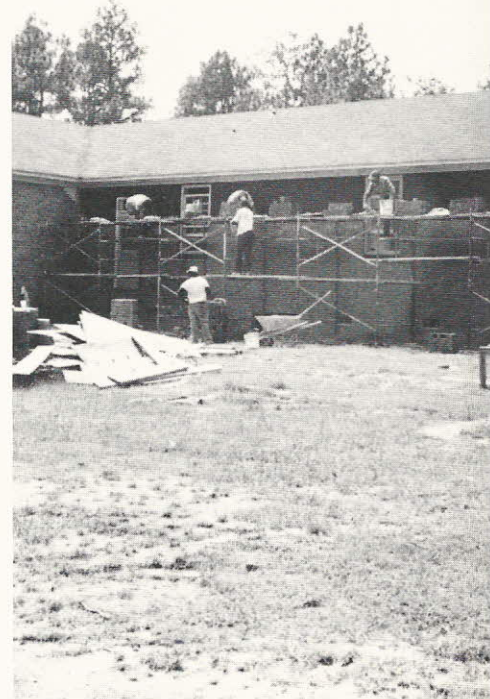

While these events transpired, students and staff, including new Assistant Commandant LTC Harry T. Woodmansee, assembled for the new school year. After two years as Dean of Academic Affairs, Major Burton Gale returned to fulltime classroom teaching and Major Kelly Schrader replaced him as academic dean. A formalized study skills program for all grade levels enriched the curriculum.

School plant improvements happened too. In midsummer the library building rolled across Woodward Field's apron to rest on new foundations in a more central location. Now, fully renovated and with a wing added to house laundry room and barbershop, we can boast another first class school facility.

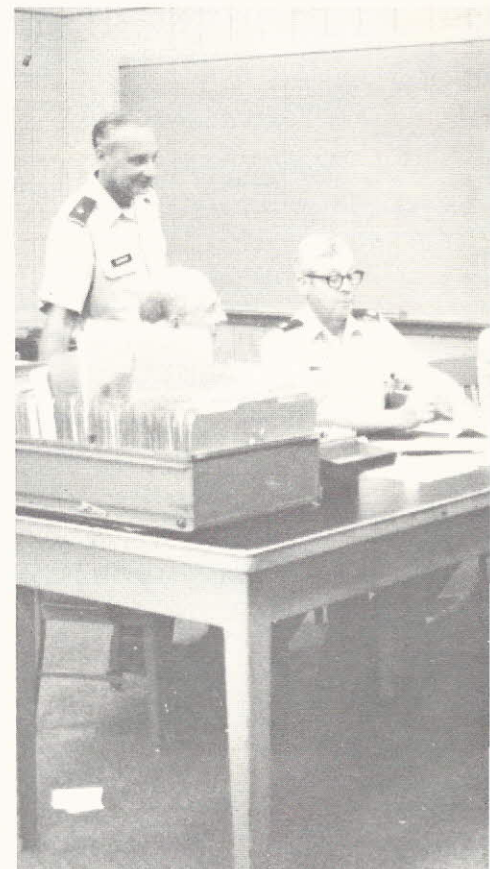

Adding sartorial distinction to the cadet uniform issue are white trousers. This new item provides plenty of sparkle to dress occasions.

As we settled into the school year, Pope John Paul II visited Columbia and at a September 16 Celebration of Citizenship, The Honorable Robert J. Sheheen, Speaker of the South Carolina House of Representatives, addressed the assembled student body on the 200th anniversary of the signing of The Constitution. Cadet LTC Lamar Shaw led the Pledge of Allegiance, spoken to coincide with recitations all across America.

By Black Monday, October 19's stock market implosion, the school year was well underway. These pages record moments in that day-to-day progression, Camden Military Academy marching forward.

Leadership is what it's all about at Camden Military Academy. From battalion commander, through company staffs, down to the squad leader and the last man in line, chain of command and the control it affords make the battalion work. Staff organizations, including Color Guard and Cannon Detail, provide precision and a spit 'n polish quality which makes parades and ceremonies extra special. These individuals, working as teams, are among the sharpest cadets in the corps.

Pride Precision and Control

Armory Staff: Ashley Saulnier, MSG Marvin McCullough, Noel Johnson, Cordt Trumpy, Tom McKee, Scott Haskell, Lynn Tucker, John O'Neil.

Arms and Records

Cadets keep the corps running. Armory staff maintains M1903 rifles, insures accurate inventory, and issues weapons for drill practice and for parades. Company clerks tally merits and demerits and enter reports on individual Commandant records. Accuracy is essential for even a marginal error could affect a cadet's leave or furlough eligibility or whether or not he must serve confinements.

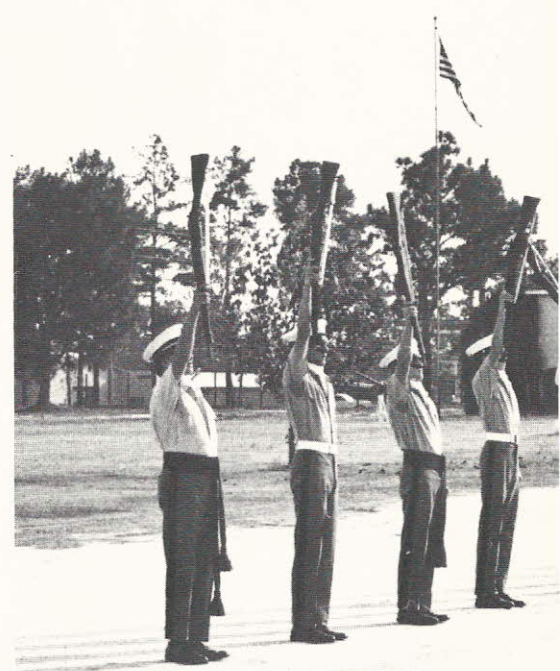

James F. Risher Guard members dazzle spectators as they perform precision drill routines for special events both on and off campus. Charles R. White Guard members, newboys or underclassmen, aspire to positions on the drill team. They're sharp too.

Service Staffs

determined and dedicated

Cadets provide service where and when it's needed. In the dining hall KP's set up tables before and clean up the facility after each meal. CMA's canteen, Carlisle House, utilizes a student staff to keep the place in good order, social and physical, at all times.

On the military side, laundry staff supports City Laundry and Cleaners of Camden by sending out mounds of dirty laundry on days designated for each company, then distributing the clean later in the week. Lynn Tucker, Battalion Executive Officer, contributes double service to the battalion, heading up both supply services and transportation. Providing quartermaster support and keeping the corps mobile for leave, church, medical appointments, and sports and cultural events, require determined staff members dedicated to job accomplishment.

KP's assembled: Spencer, Lightcap, Mullins, C. Brown, Jordan, Janssen, Dampog, Ramella, Whisenhunt, Gilson (in rear), Rabon, Hayes, JD Montezuma, Keesling, Giraldo, Sanders, Garcia, Daves, Whigham, Erdel (head tilted), Carver.

Tonsorial conformity is the word at CMA. The student handbook specifies: "haircuts— Good grooming is mandatory for cadets and haircuts must meet the following specifications: hair must be one quarter inch above the ears, must not touch the collar, and may not touch the eyebrows. No facial hair (beards, moustaches, etc.) is permitted." New boy Joey Mashburn, tenth grader from Statesville, North Carolina, pictured "after" and "before," still sports a very close cut long after his initiate shearing. A valued member of the color guard, Joey is a sharp cadet.

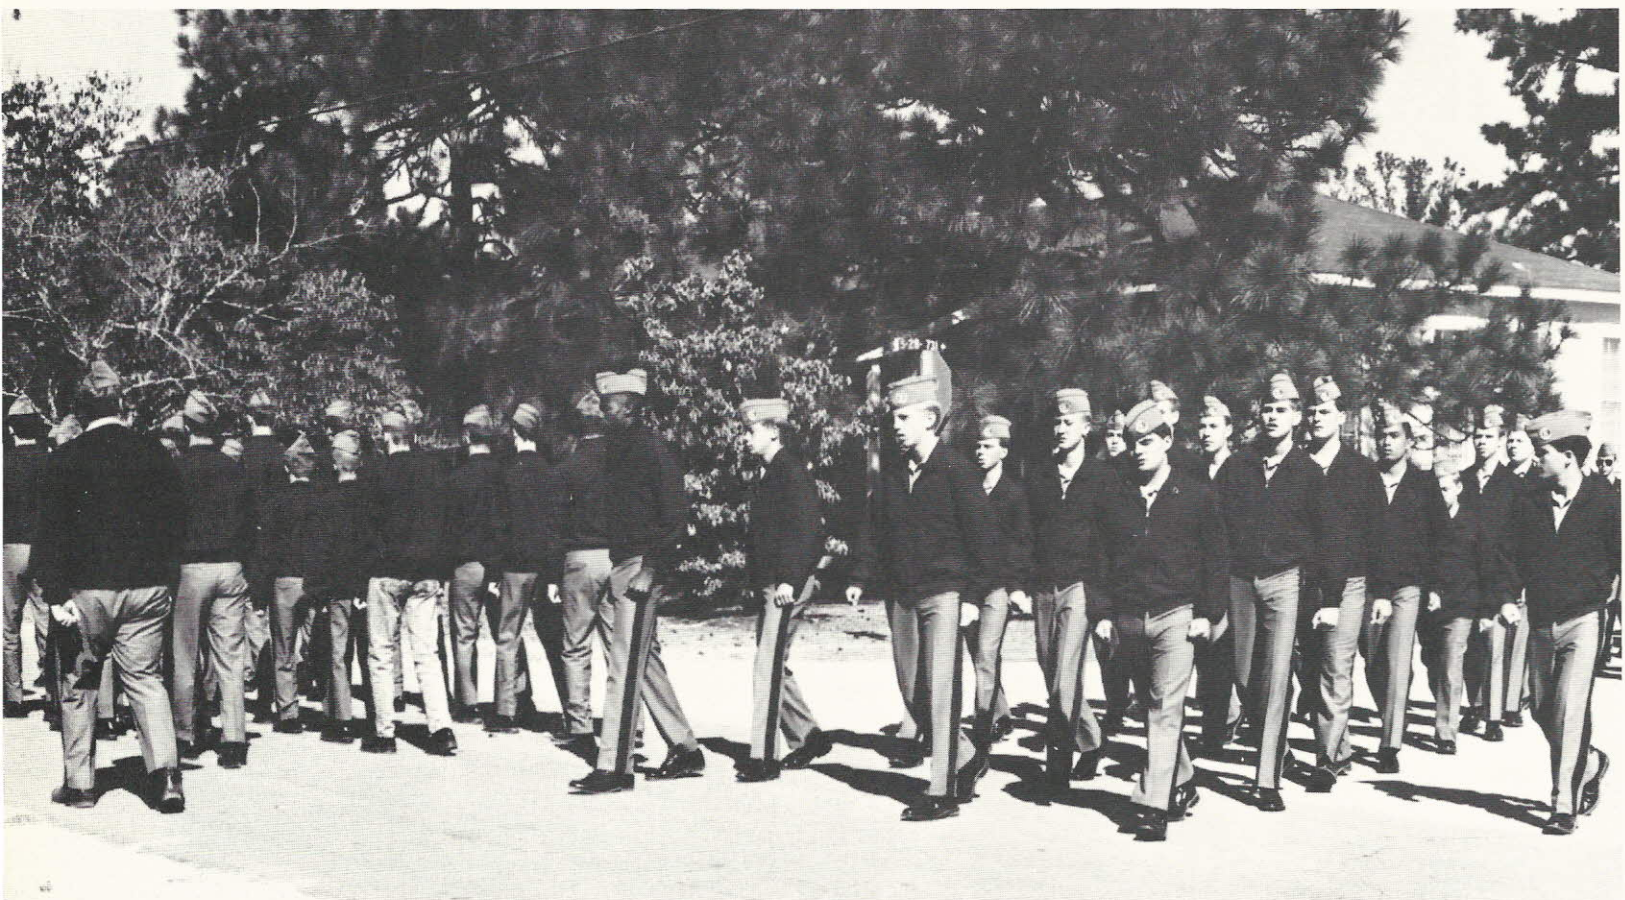

Evil "A"

"Evil 'A'" is a traditional and now most often used appellation for "A" Company. Company member David Yurkiewicz sums up his feeling: "I live in Alpha Company and love it. I wouldn't leave it for anything. Located conveniently to classes, mess hall, football field and gym, first year senior William Prestidge describes his unit: "'A' Company has more company spirit than all the other companies combined." Senior Jon Guerry says, "We try to instill in every person who lives in Alpha Company a sense of belonging and pride."

While reaching for their goal of Honor Company, leaders prove to their men that they are needed and counted on.

“B” Is Baaad!

“We’re cool people,” says Jay Balentine of “B” Company. “Our company is much cooler, quieter, and more relaxed than the hot, loud, and rowdy atmosphere upstairs in Charlie Company.” “Bravo strives for excellence through leadership by setting the example,” says Chris Bishop, commander. According to Mitch Porter, “ ‘B’ Company has exactly enough big chiefs to run the company and enough little indians to fulfill their desires.” He suggests, “Many boys will be converted into men this year.” According to Charles Locklear, “We are all one big family and we work together as a family.” “B” stands tall in the “formation” of life. “B” is baaad!

Powerhouse "C"

"C" Company has an atmosphere all its own. It does its own thing with cause and that cause is to be honor company. "We have respect for the school and teachers. We have a power that nobody else can hold on to. That is why we are called 'Powerhouse,'" says senior John Murphy. "'C' Company lives high on campus, having the only 'high rise' apartments around. Of course, a person of substantial knowledge will know the difference between cadets of 'C' and any other company," advises Stuart King.

Old boy Shannon Thompson describes his dorm as the penthouse highrise of CMA. "Cadets who have lived here before," he states, "always call Charlie Company home." Chris Hendrick, first-year senior, says, "What's so great about my company is that everybody in the company looks out for each other. If anyone needs any help he can always go to his neighbor to get it. 'C' Company is like a big family, in which I consider every single person of the company my brother."

"C" is striving for the goal of Honor Company this year. Stephen Dekle works toward that goal, and considers his company the chief cornerstone of campus life. He goes on to say, "'C' Company promotes the Spartan values of courage, endurance, and stamina through strength training, by capering up and down multiple stairwells daily." Jack McMinn adds, "We have a good time, yet we get serious when it really counts." Jerry Sheally concludes, "The 'C' is for Charlie or Cadets, cadets who form a family to achieve the highest goal they can achieve as a group, Honor Company!"

Band & Staff

Band and Staff, generally referred to as "Q-Land," is divided into two parts, band members and staff, which includes the battalion staff officers and members of the color guard, cannon detail, and armory and office staffs. Band is a small company, the place uncrowded with carpeted rooms and hallways. "I do love my carpet," says junior Michael Richardson.

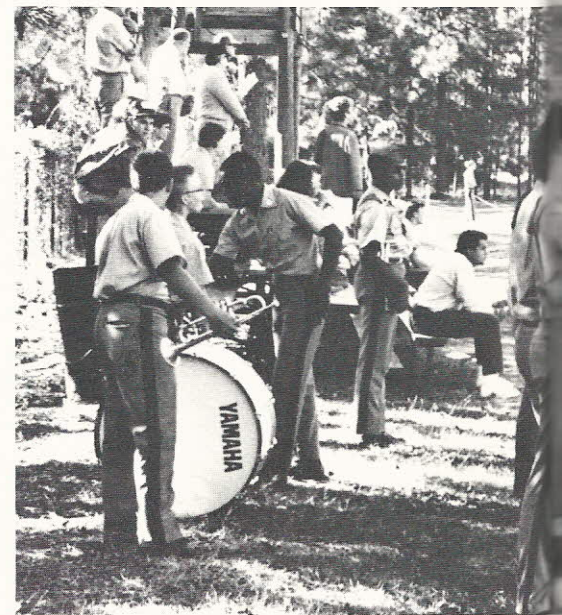

Bermudan Steve Godwin says, "Band Company is a company that makes you feel at home. "Everyone is like a family." "Q-Land" is special and if there were not a band, there would be less excitement in dress parades. Band Company members hold their heads high and let it all flow out.

SPORTS

"Carry on" is an order to keep going, to continue. In sports, cadets give 110% and, even though we may not win every time, we keep going forward and try our best — we carry on. Pictured running on Red Fox Road are Cross Country team members Lee Weaver, Joey Mashburn, Jason Kasemeier, Radi Clytus, Raji Singh, Vincent Minelli, Gregg Baxter, Jerry Sheally, Eric Gadlage, and Barry Chestnut.

CHALK IT UP TO EXPERIENCE

quarterback and backfield defense intact

Despite the loss of 18 starters from CMA's 3-6 team of last year, hopes for the new Spartan season were high. A strong defensive line and new offense were to be the keys for varsity success. CMA opened its season against Bethune. The Wildcats scored early on a long pass and never looked back. Three Spartan starters left the game with injuries in the first quarter as Bethune won 25-0. After being blasted 50-0 by eventual upper state champion Hammond Academy, the Spartans made some changes. They switched from the "run 'n shoot" offense to the veer and started using a 4-4 defense. But the veer never got moving and Wilson Hall overpowered the young defense, 36-0.

After facing two state champion teams, Wilson Hall and Hammond, CMA met Hilton Head Prep. Strengthened by the return of several starters, the Spartans scored early in each half and held the Seahawks from scoring countless times. The final score stood CMA 12 — Hilton Head 3. Danny Hemingway excelled in this game, scoring both TD's. Ben Wright caught two long passes to set up both scores.

The Spartans next faced two North Carolina non-conference teams. Plagued by turnovers, inexperience, and bad luck, CMA fell to both Christ School 32-6 and to Asheville School 31-6. Both Danny Hemingway and Charlie Robinson excelled in these games.

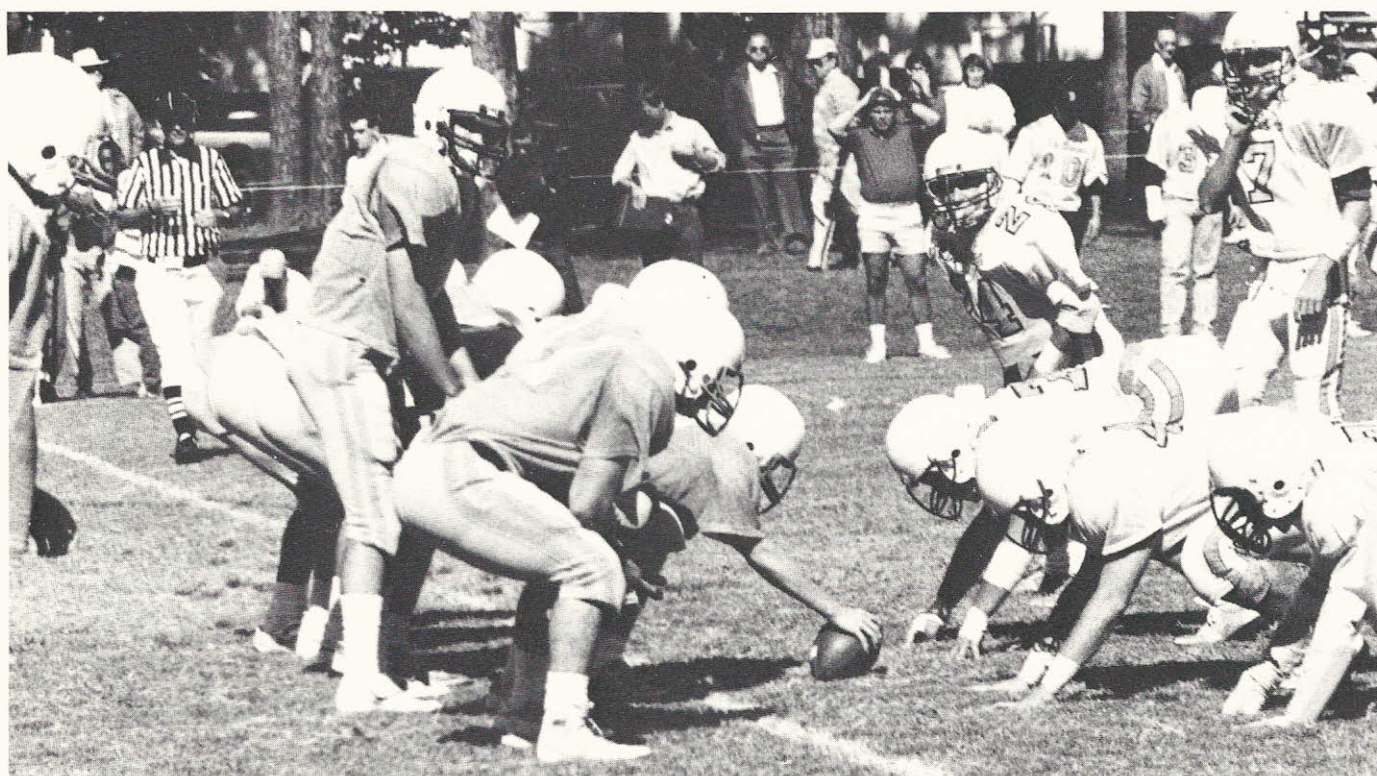

CMA faced archrival Thomas Sumter in their next game. Early in the week the varsity lost their quarterback, Hemingway, for the game. A starter at defensive end last year, Les Brown was persuaded to help CMA for one game, but nothing went the Spartan's way. Murphy's Law prevailed. On an electrifying kickoff return by Brown, the last TS man managed to knock the ball loose, setting up a Thomas Sumter TD. CMA lost 40-0.

Conference foe Heathwood Hall, deadlocked in the first quarter, exploded for 19 points in the second, to beat the Spartans 33-0. In the final game of the season, CMA faced Clio in a fight-marred contest. After scoring a touchdown late in the second quarter, Clio led 6-0 at the half. Midway through the third quarter, a Clio defensive end sacked Hemingway, causing a fumble which set up a Clio score. With Hemingway on his way to the hospital, all-purpose two-way starter Mitch Porter took over at quarterback. His first pass was good to Robinson for 60 yards. Four plays later Porter scored and the Spartans were back in the game. A kickoff return for a touchdown widened the gap, but CMA never gave up. Perry returned the last kickoff 40 yards, then seconds later ran another 30 yards on a trick play. The final score was Clio 22 — CMA 6.

With a final record of 1-8, the Spartans can chalk this past year up to experience. Bright spots for CMA were at quarterback and defensive backfield, both of which will be intact next year. Thirteen players with starting experience return next year.

PLAYING HARD

gaining experience

JV and 7th and 8th grade football teams had 1-5-1 and 0-5 records respectively. Standouts for the 7th and 8th grade gridders were Damon Burris, Mike Gerber, Jonathan Ostrowski, Wes Mott, Will Rutledge, and Eric Story. The JV team had several outstanding players. Against Thomas Sumter, Mike Huff ran for a TD and Jeff Belk caught a two-point conversion pass, enabling the young Spartans to tie the Generals. Then they traveled to Heathwood Hall for their last game of the season. For the past three years the CMA JV team has won its last game and this squad wanted to carry on the tradition.

Led by running back and linebacker "Smiley" Strickland's two touchdowns, the Spartans upset the Highlanders 12 to 8.

Although not as successful in the win column as they would like to have been, both teams played hard and gained a lot of experience.

Coming home, cyclists work out in preparation for biathlon competition.

The harriers enjoyed a very good year, a 6-2 record. In the season opener against Heathwood Hall on their turf, the Spartan Cross Country men took four of the first six places. Later the cadets garnered five of the first seven places against Chesterfield High School and, in a return meet, four of the five top spots. Hammond Academy was CMA's nemesis, 26-29 in a first encounter and, in the second, the same squad creamed the Spartans 22-36. The season, however, ended on a high note with the Spartans running away from Heathwood Hall, 19-36.

The team formed a close bond with their new coach, Director of Admissions Major Richard McClendon, whose enthusiasm generated the spark that made the team light it up at meets. New boy Jason Kasemeier and Radi Clytus led the team most of the season, with Raji Singh and Lee Weaver running side-by-side. David Ramsey, lost toward season's end to injury, fought with determination. Sophomore Joey Mashburn, who consistently came home in the top five, will play a key role in years to come.

Several members of the team decided to keep up their training after the regular season and formed a cycling team, staying fit through the winter months in preparation for biathlon and bike racing competition. The Spartan squad is a force to reckon with.

THEY'RE OFF!

Seniors Les Brown, Steve Carroll, Roger Kirby, Jack McMinn, and Ben Wright led the Spartans through the court season with 19 wins. Ten of the 14 losses were by 10 points or less, decided in the games' last minutes.

Steve Carroll, six-foot five-inch leading scorer, made All-Conference in both the North and the South Carolina leagues. After averaging 29 points per contest in a three-game week, The State recognized Steve as player of the week. Steve and Les Brown were both named First Team All-Conference in the Carolina Athletic Association. Les and Steve finished the season with over 500 points each and Roger Kirby tallied over 300. In addition, a milestone event was Coach Eric Boland's 100th game win at CMA.

Throughout the grueling season, Steve Carroll's relentless scoring, Roger Kirby's deadly aim from three-point range, and Les "Dr. Dunk" Brown's slamming ability amazed and excited the fans. During the long, hard schedule, CMA beat Spartanburg Day for the first time in four years on their home turf. A night to remember was the Spartans' denial of the Heathwood Hall coach's 600th win, widely touted by the media before gametime as a sure thing, with TV crew and cameras on standby to record the non-event.

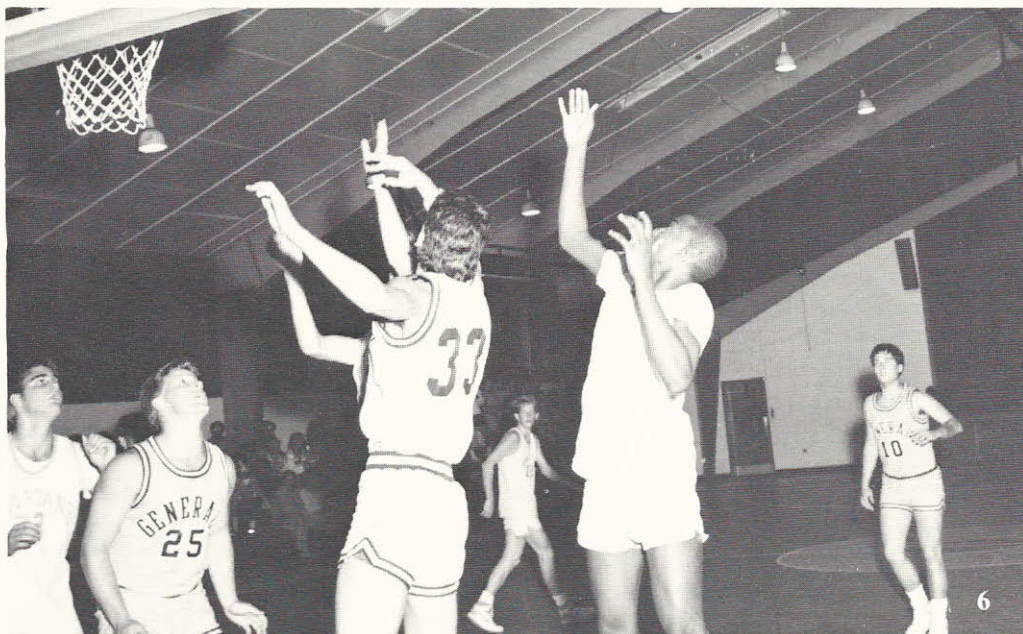

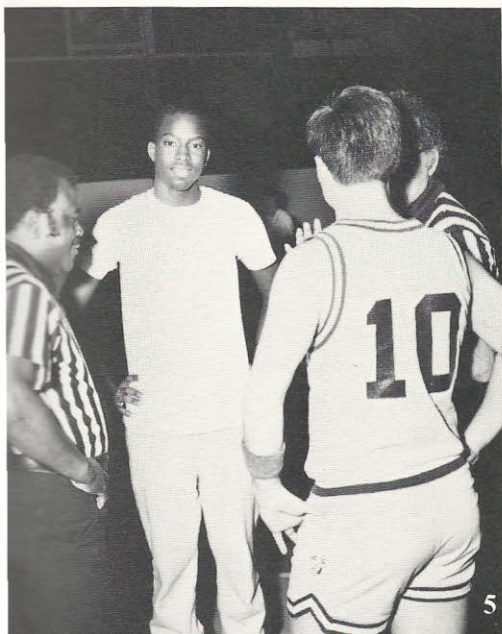

For the future, juniors Mike Aaron, Carl Gantt, Fritz Von Kolnitz, and late-season-arrival sophomore Henry Taylor possess plenty of potential to keep the Spartan hoopsters on the roll. For now, it's time to savor a season for the record books which Coach Eric Boland and his team chalked up.

DRIVING TO WIN

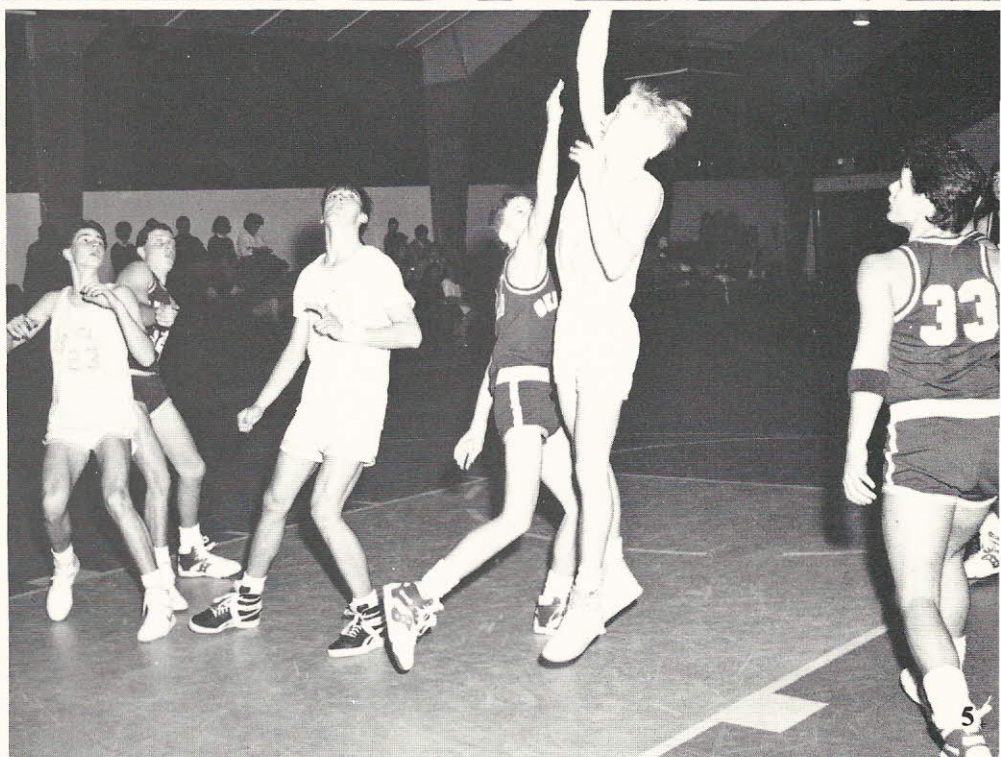

Intensity in competition on the court as well as in practice marked an impressive 9-2 record JV basketball season. Both losses were to Hammond Academy. The drive and the desire to win that the JV Spartans displayed on defense, and the unselfishness that the team played with offensively, coupled with the effort of young Coach Herb McElvain, allowed CMA the successful season that we experienced.

Shooting guards Ian Eastman, Carl Gantt, Ted Hughes, and WC Peeler, all contributed significantly to securing this season's wins. The front court, comprised of Don Accordini, Bryan Cameron, and Chip Godwin, who provided excellent shooting and rebounding, sparked the Spartans' team effort to win, ending the season here at home with a victory over Cardinal Newman. 45-40

Matmen grapple for the Sporting only two seniors per match on the mat, CMA grapplers posted a losing record that said too little of the team it really was. Camden Military Academy's wrestling team, coached by Captain Tom Hesson, worked hard all season to train and to teach its group of inexperienced cadets the basics of wrestling.

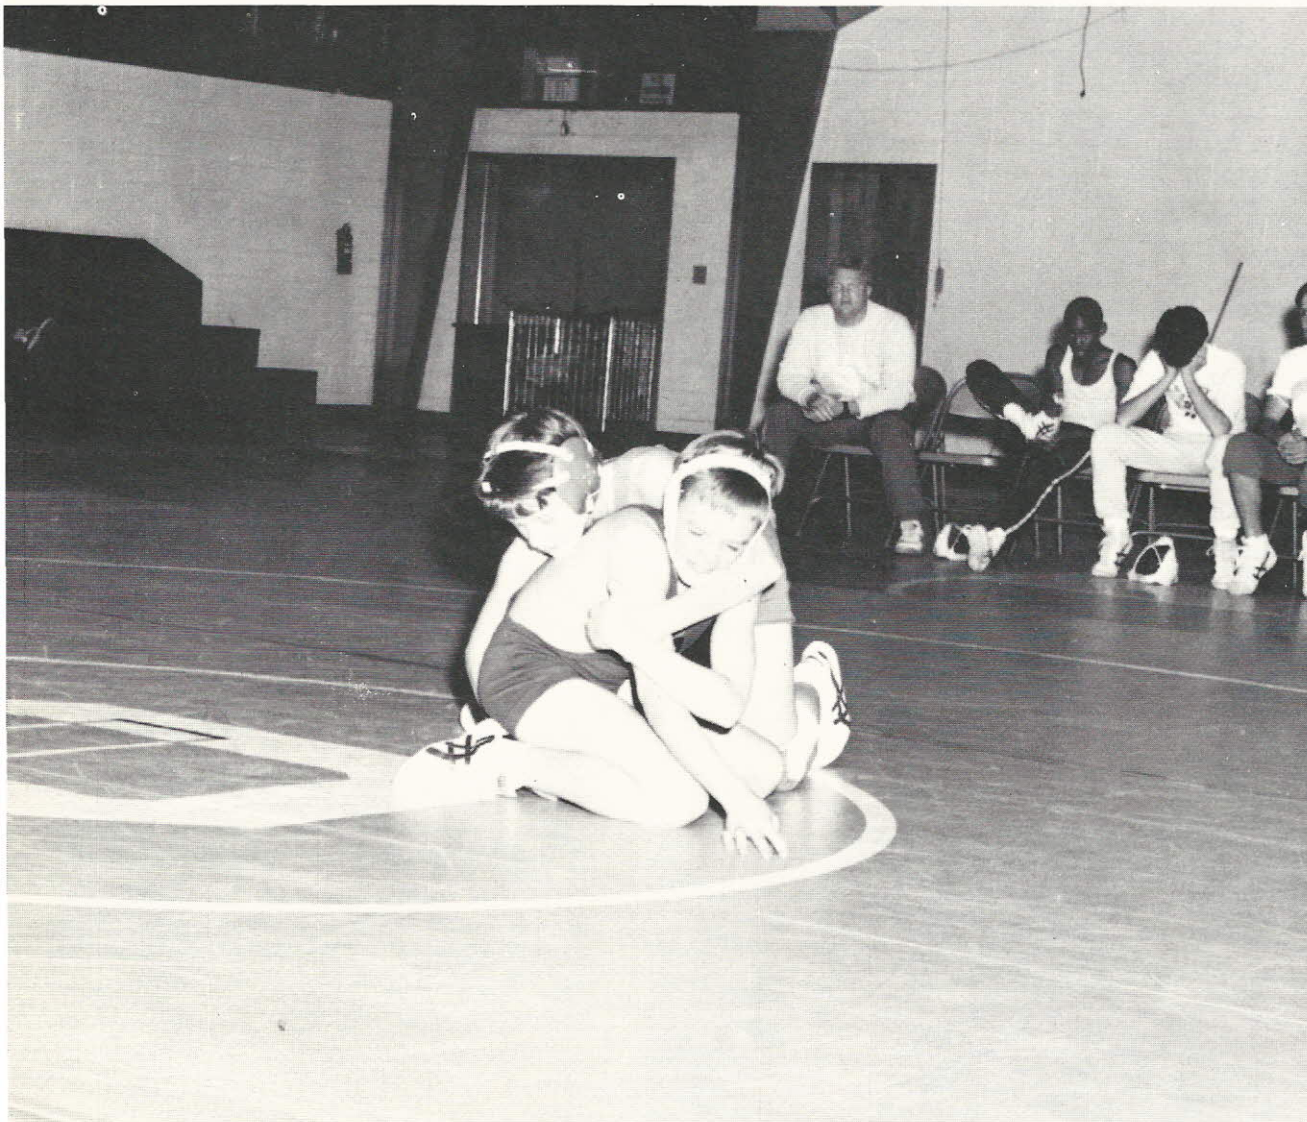

After strenuous everyday practices and the hard work applied in maintaining a healthy competitive weight, and after developing camaraderie that only a sport this physical can provide, the team was set back eight of twelve times in close matches against much larger schools. Standout was senior Charlie Robinson, undefeated the whole season.

Shooting and Marksmanship is an every day affair for Rifle Team members. LTC Harry Woodmansee's sharpshooters, extremely motivated, strive to improve their scores from prone, standing, and kneeling positions. Both postal and shoulder-to-shoulder matches are part of rifle team competition.

Numbers of cadets are serious about bodybuilding. They work out daily under student staff supervision and organization. Results are apparent.

Tuesday and Thursday afternoons are dedicated to physical training for the entire corps. Calisthenics and running provide the physical balance to classroom intellectual exercise.

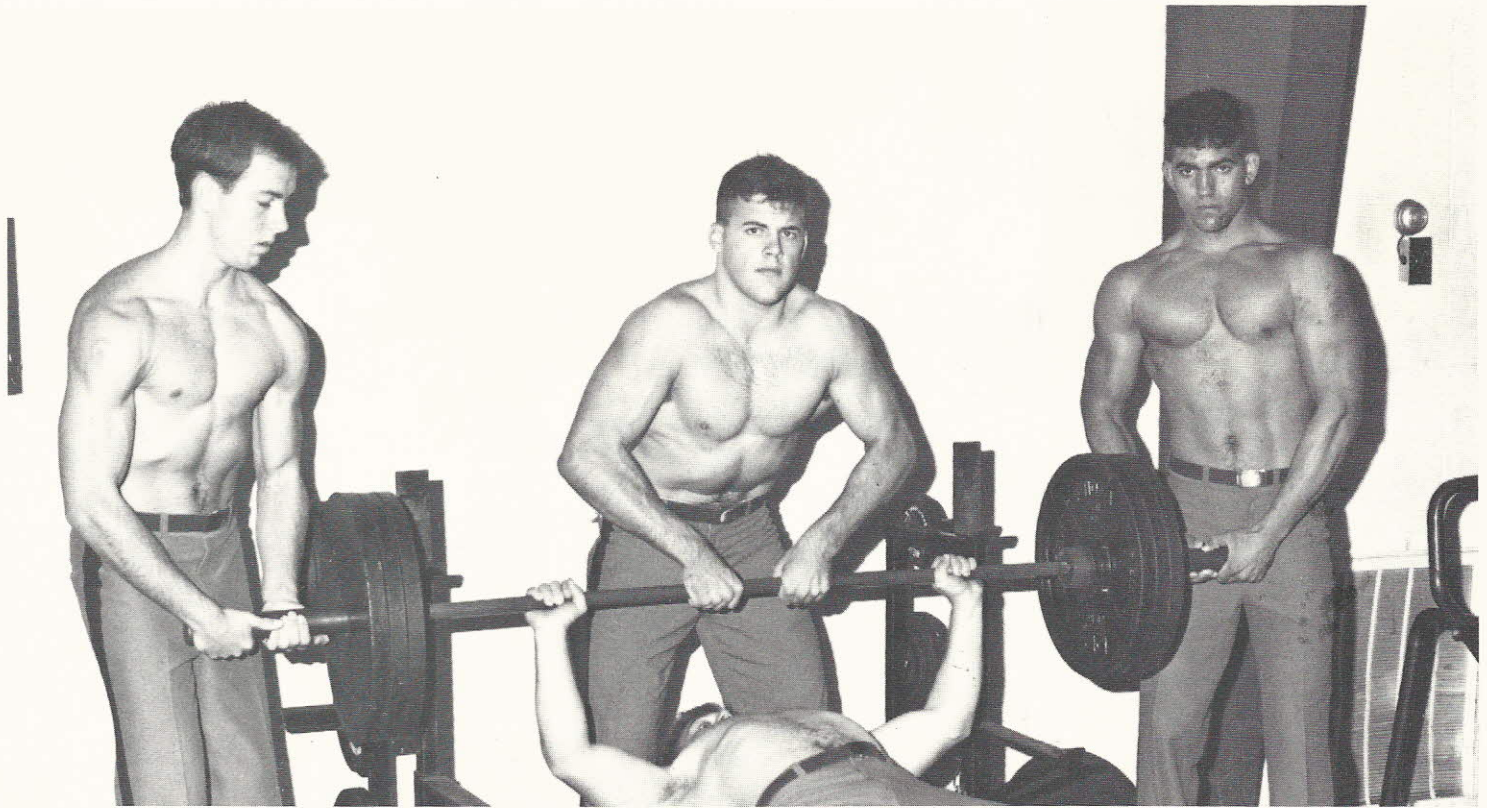

Rifle Team members: Joey Geist, Carlton Walker, Mike Sciulli, Jay Thurston, Stephen Dekle, Lee Schwilm.

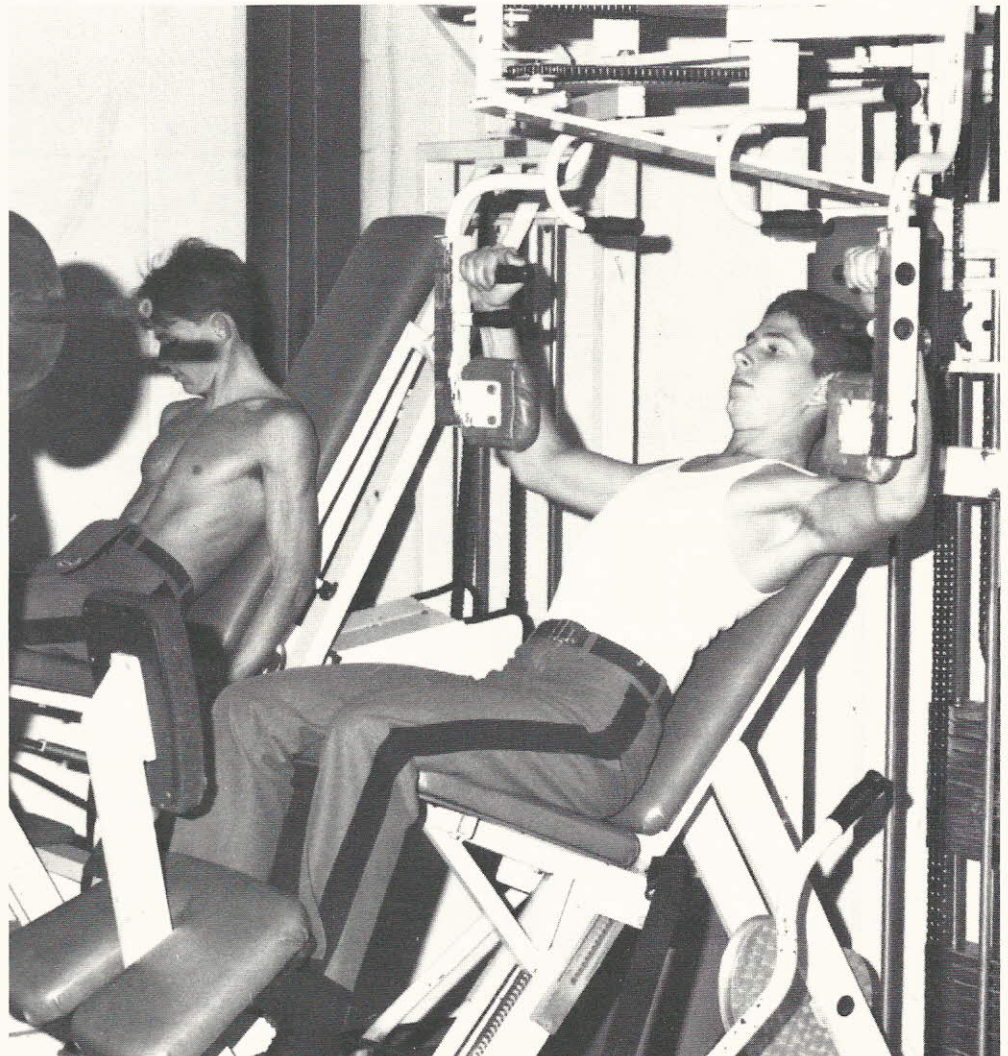

It's a long way around the parade field, but running keeps the corps in shape.

Staying in Shape

Jeremy Greer, Greg Adams and Charles Locklear assist Danny Parker who is about to lift.

Jim Denton and Jon Guerry, making their muscles grow.

COMPARATIVE?

Seniors select the best, picking their peers who exemplify those qualities which identify the men with the "most," each superlative.

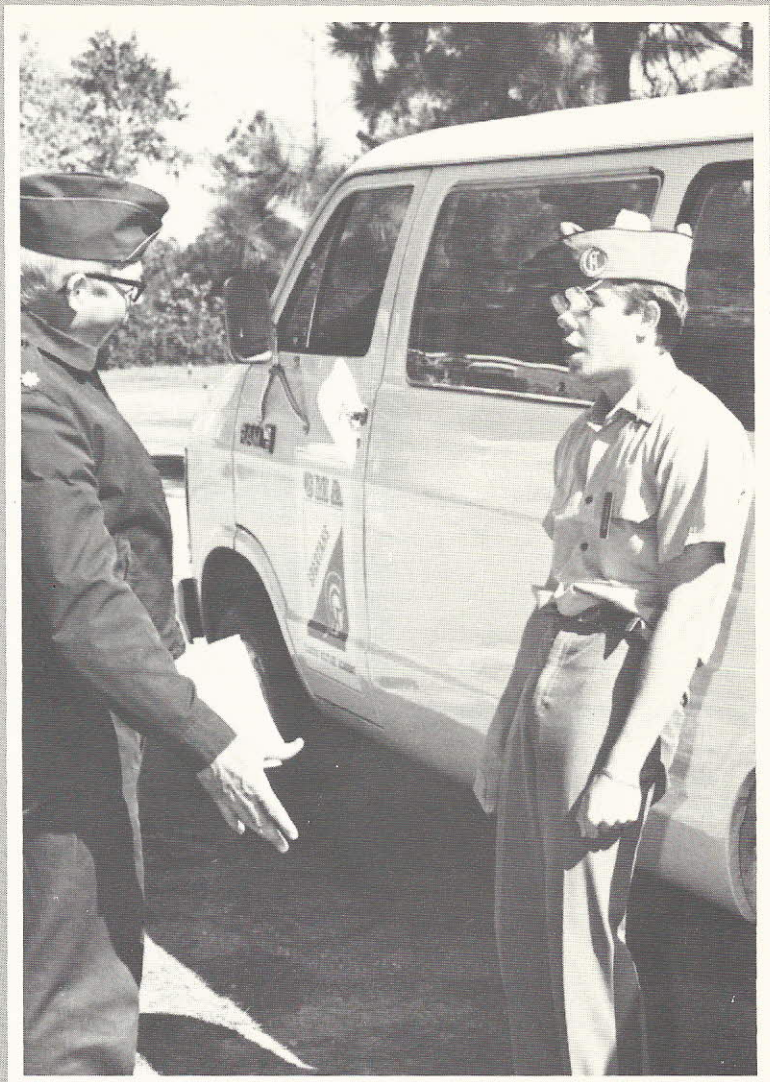

Fortunes told: Pictured as in a crystal ball is "Most Likely To Succeed" Dave Ramsey. Mitch Stephens (below), "Class Casanova," casts a discerning eye toward calendar contours.

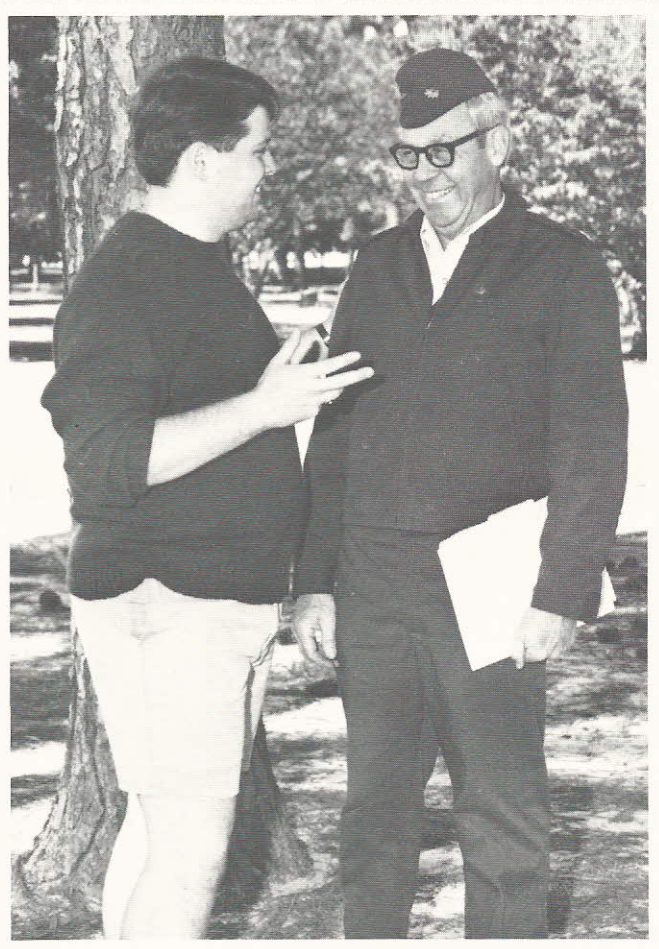

David Ramsey, voted "Most Studious," employs a study skills strategy, napping upright during studyhall. Jay Balentine (below) exudes magnetic charm which marks his designation as "Best Personality," amusing even the redoubtable Major Gale here.

"Class Clown" Shannon Thompson experiences one more special moment in time, courtesy of mild Major Gale, while having another enjoyable day at CMA. "Most Military" Chris Bishop (below) crouches deep in the bowels of "B" Company, in combat mode for CMA Pest Control Wars '88.

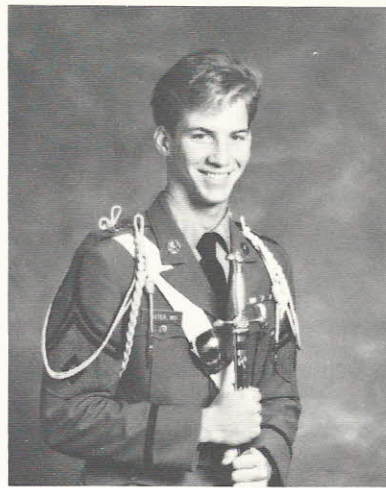

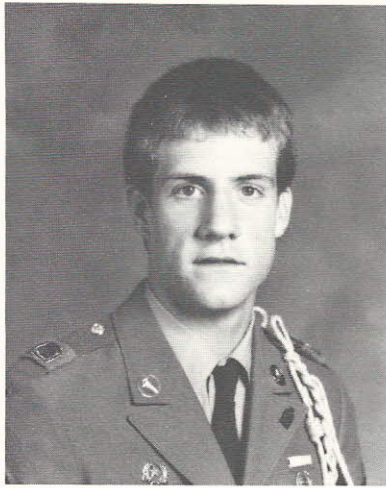

No, Superlative!

WE ARE THE PEOPLE

We are the school.

Academic buildings, barracks, parade grounds, sports facilities and much more comprise the campus of Camden Military Academy, but it is people that give it life and heart. Individuals of different backgrounds and from all over the United States and many foreign countries came together here to work, to play, and to make each academic year successful. Through everyday association and cooperation, students and faculty bond together to form one group personality, one which is highly complex. Each and every cadet, faculty and staff member contributes to it.

CMA people range from newboys, a mixed batch of often scared kids at the beginning of the year, to self-confident upperclassmen, secure in their place, with already formed friendships which will endure throughout their lives. In place at the start of each year are faculty and staff who provide a wealth of background and experience to stimulate intellectual and social growth. And just as there are always people behind the scenes, as in moviemaking—the ones who make the movie work—the same is true here. Dedicated service staffs maintain and repair things, prepare food, and keep the place running. It's all done together.

We are the people; we are the school.

CLUBS AND ACADEMICS

"Attention" is standing tall, facing front, looking best and being best. Cadet officers, pictured proud, represent the whole corps of cadets. SQ3R's out. SPRS is in.

Survey, question, read, recite, review. So it was last year, but today it's skim-scan, preread, read, summarize. As a major academic innovation this year, students work initially in English classes to improve their learning capacities through a formalized study skills program produced by Sensa Educational Systems, Inc. of Houston, Texas. Application is throughout course work.

Also new is a biweekly Dean's List, implemented by new Academic Dean Major Kelly Schrader, which recognizes academic achievements of students whose grades are 90 and above in every course. A real boon to the academic program is the completely rehabilitated library, enlarged and featuring a spacious audio-visual center.

An extension of the classroom is club membership and activity. CMA, of course, recognizes academic excellence, but education extends beyond classroom learning activity. Extra-curricular opportunities range from cultural enrichment through Fine Arts Club participation to recognition of intermural sports lettermen through Block "C" Club membership.

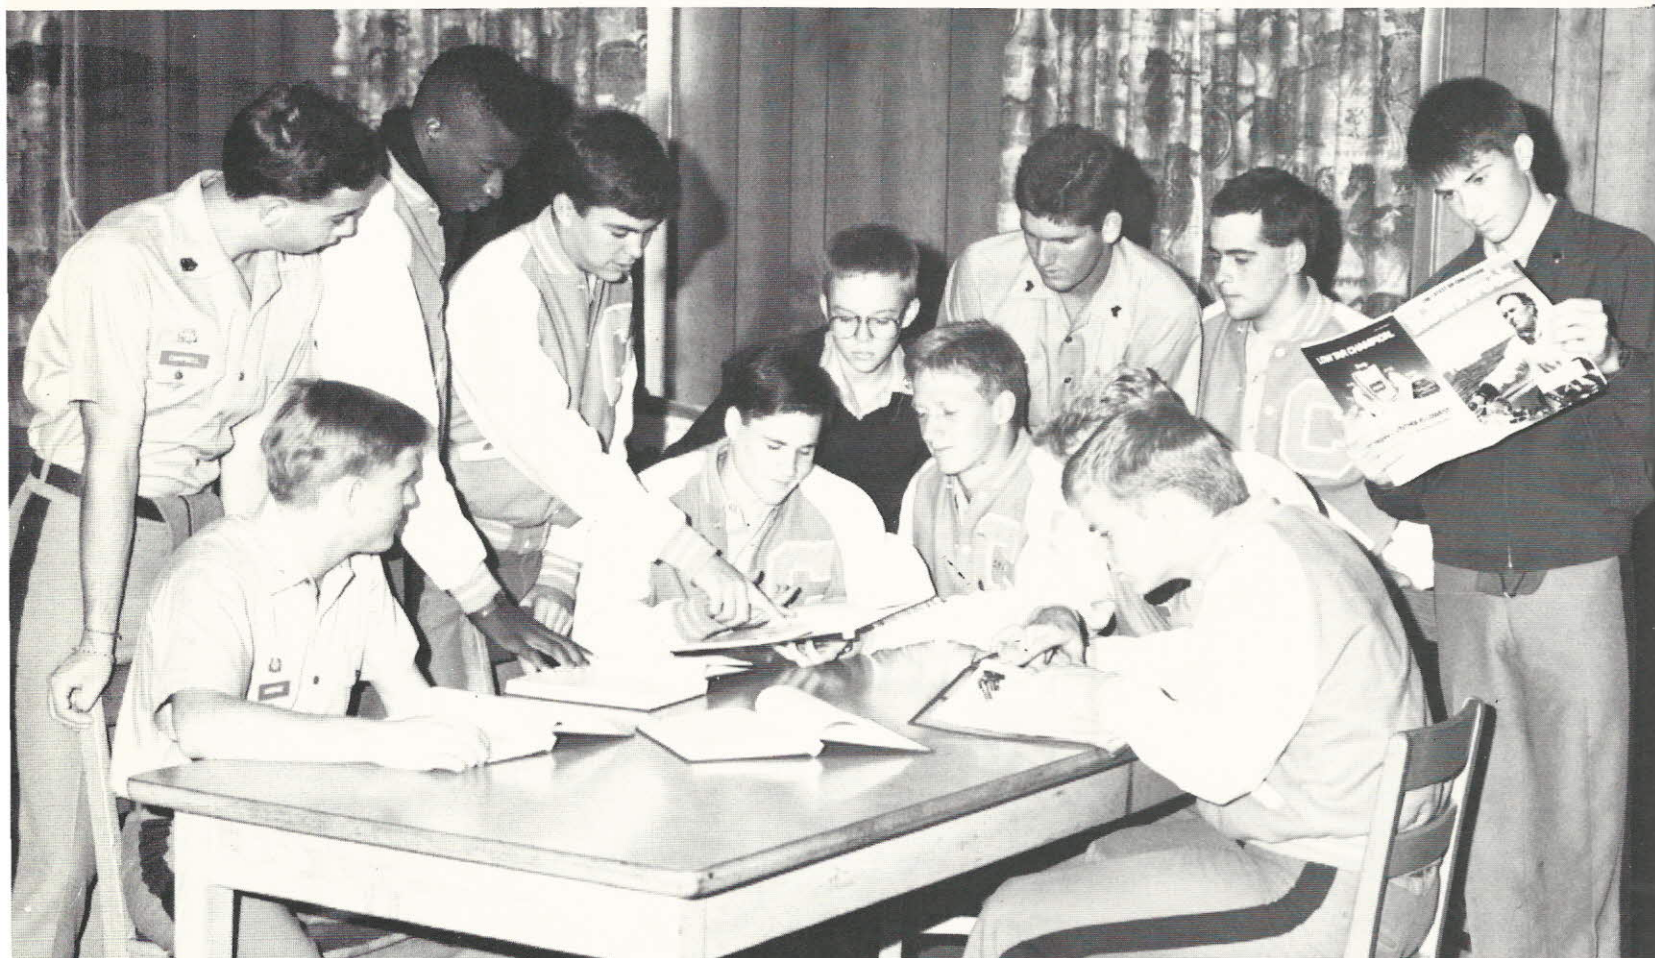

Perhaps most prestigious is Delta Kappa Sigma honor society, an elite group of juniors and seniors dedicated to cultural activity and scholastic achievement. Each member's selection results from faculty approval after the individual has established strict academic, military, and behavior standards. With Captain Lachicotte Zemp as adviser, a significant contribution to the community is DKS's semiannual publication of Cadet, a literary magazine which promotes creative achievement in literature and in art.

Under guidance of Captain Scott Sloan, the Debate Team stays well-informed on controversial issues in our world today. Debaters' ability to respond quickly and articulately has, through regional competition, won them membership in the National Forensics League.

Academic Team members are serious-minded about intellectual competition. Under direction of Captain Glenn Bemisderfer, the team test their knowledge in competitions such as the Winthrop Challenge, Model United Nations, and the Science Bowl. The team grows and learns through these competitions and participation improves the minds of members.

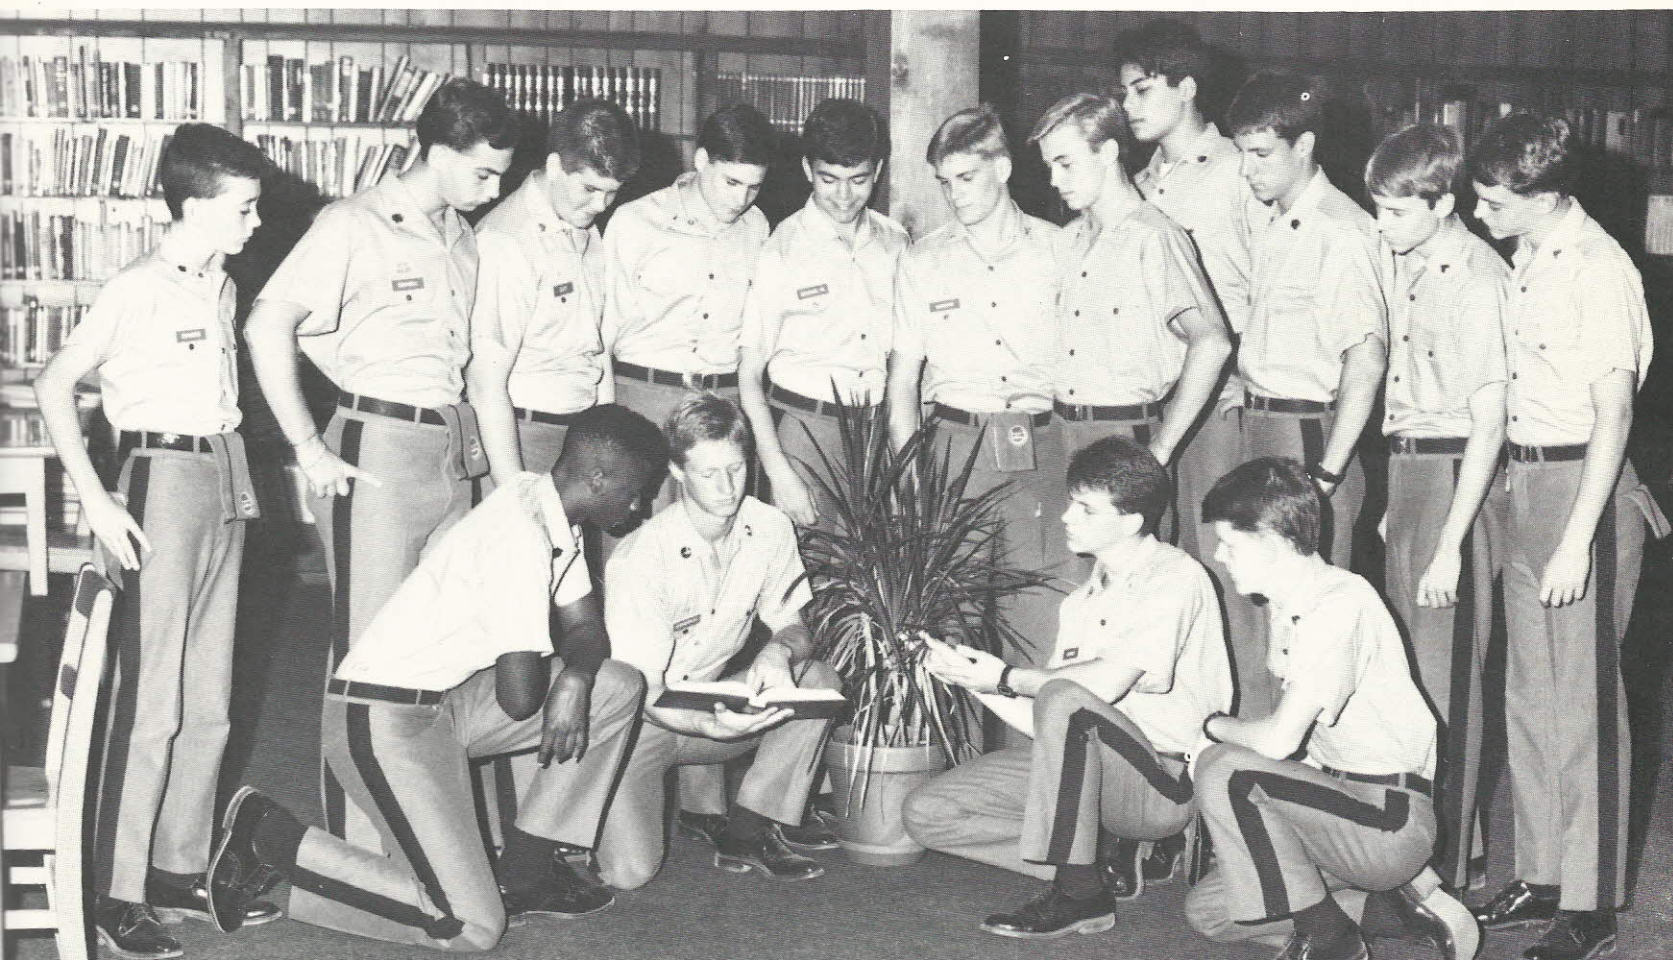

MSG Marvin McCullough instructs Leadership Education and Training (LET), first-year JR ROTC class here.

Standing are: Alex Escudero, Justin Campbell, Mike Scott, Will Rice, Philip Bethune, Rob Whitmire, Lamar Shaw, Alan Dampog, Mike Aaron, Lee Schwilm, Nick Palassis.

International

Cadets are from many parts of the world and, although they integrate quickly and fully into CMA activity, the informal grouping of the International Club, advised by Captain Dale Randolph, establishes identity for members. Pictured (right) are (seated) Alberto and John Montezuma, Colombians resident in Singapore; (standing) Andres Valdano, Ecuador, Oliver Garcia, Switzerland; Damon Saunders, Bermuda; Joey Geist, Spain; Steve Godwin, Bermuda; Pedro Giraldo, Colombia; Luis Janssen, Brazil; Justin McAnaney, Taiwan; Julio De La Guardia, Panama.

More local in scope, Doug Davis and his date Brittany Markoff of Ft. Mill, South Carolina, take time out from expressing themselves on the dance floor at the fall hop, Visitors Day eve, Halloween, (left). Dance Committee (below), advised by LTC James Watson, sets the stage for school dances — decorating, working during the event, and clean-up. Whether booking bands, greeting cadets and guests at the door, or serving refreshments, lots of work makes for special nights to remember. Committee members are: (seated) William Pennell, Tommy Brown, Mike Oswald, Todd Ramella; (kneeling) Sterling Cargill, Eric Gadlage, Julio De La Guardia; (standing) Lamar Shaw, Will Rice, Mike Scott, Steve Carroll, Radi Clytus, Philip Bethune, John Murphy.

On Visitors Day, Sunday, November 1, Captain Herb McElvain (center right) assures Mr. and Mrs. Paul Latture that Brian is doing fine in World History.

It's an education here beyond the CMA campus. Philip Bethune and other cadet officers manned the status boards to post race results at the world famous Colonial Cup International Steeplechase at Springdale Racecourse (bottom right). Participating cadet officers watched the Englishbred Inlander beat the Frenchbred Ormus who carried colors for Sweden, December 5, 1987.

In Character

Lettermen and Flyboys

Kneeling are Aero Club members Dana Lunsford and Mike McCoy, standing, Juan Montezuma and Steve Godwin.

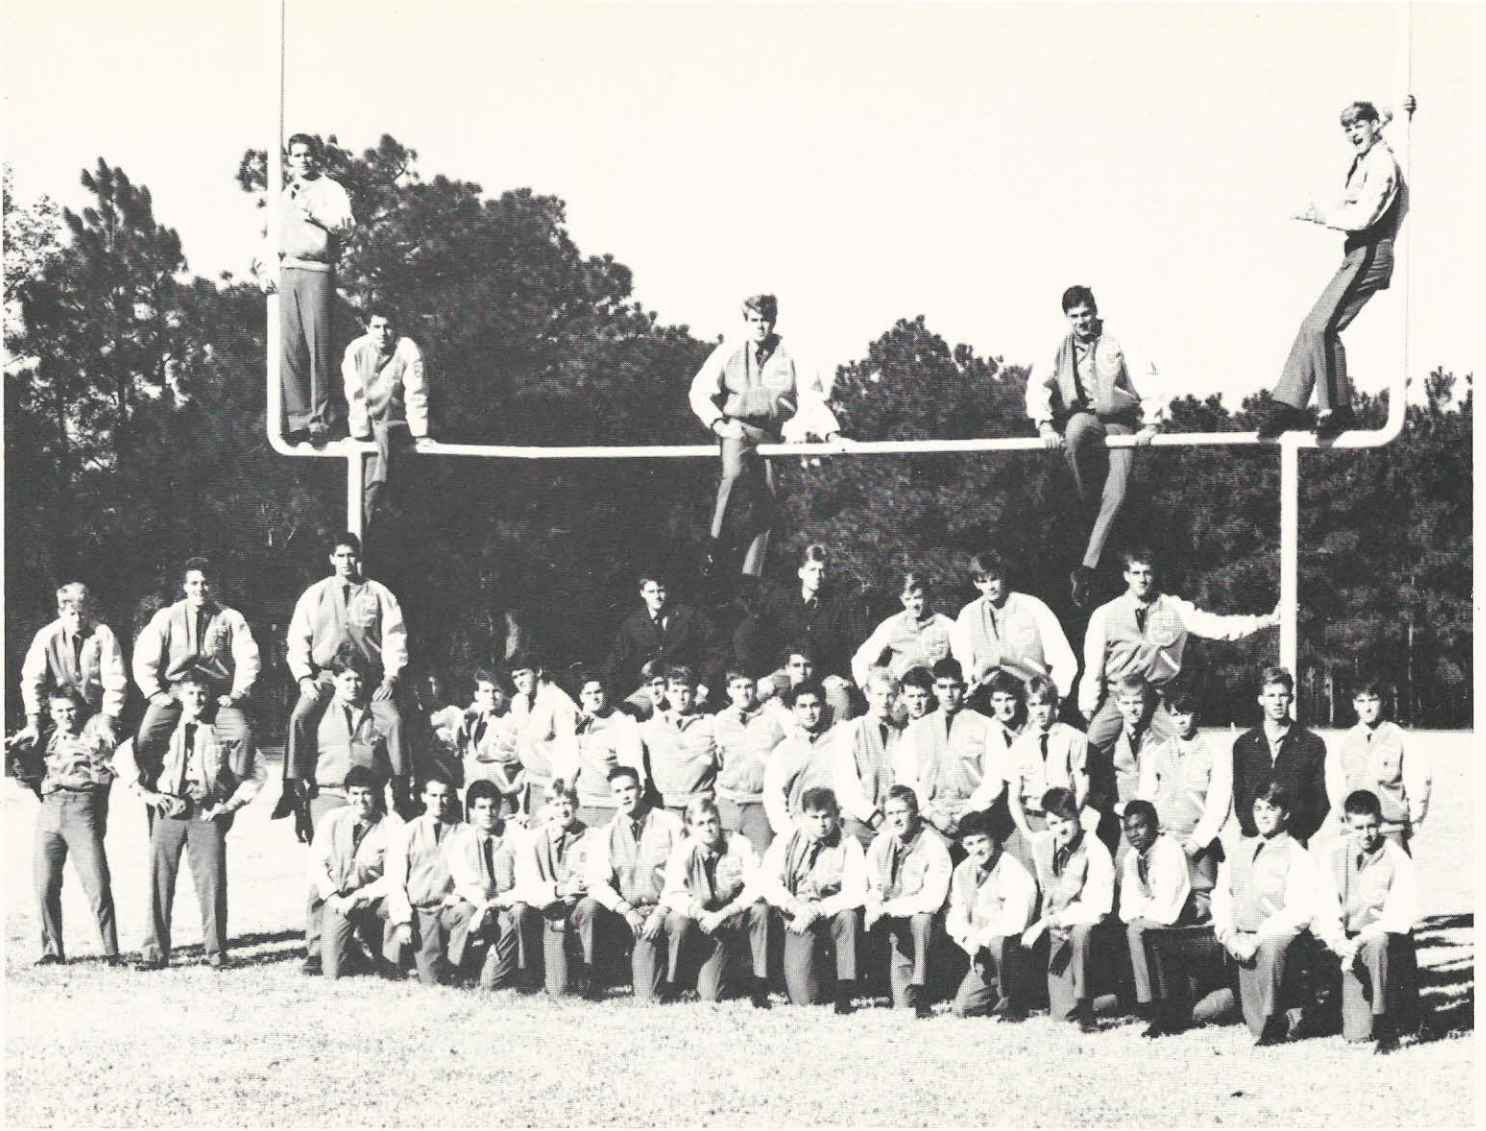

A prestigious organization, Block "C" Club members have earned a letter in a varsity sport. These athletes are easily distinguished from others around campus by their CMA letter jackets which signify that they have lettered, in some instances in three or four different sports.

Woodward Field, the Kershaw County airport, adjoins the CMA campus, whetting the interests of cadets who want to fly. Hawk Aviation provides the training and the vehicle to earn pilot licenses. This year a cadet aviation quartet comprises the flyboy contingent, CMA's Aero Club.

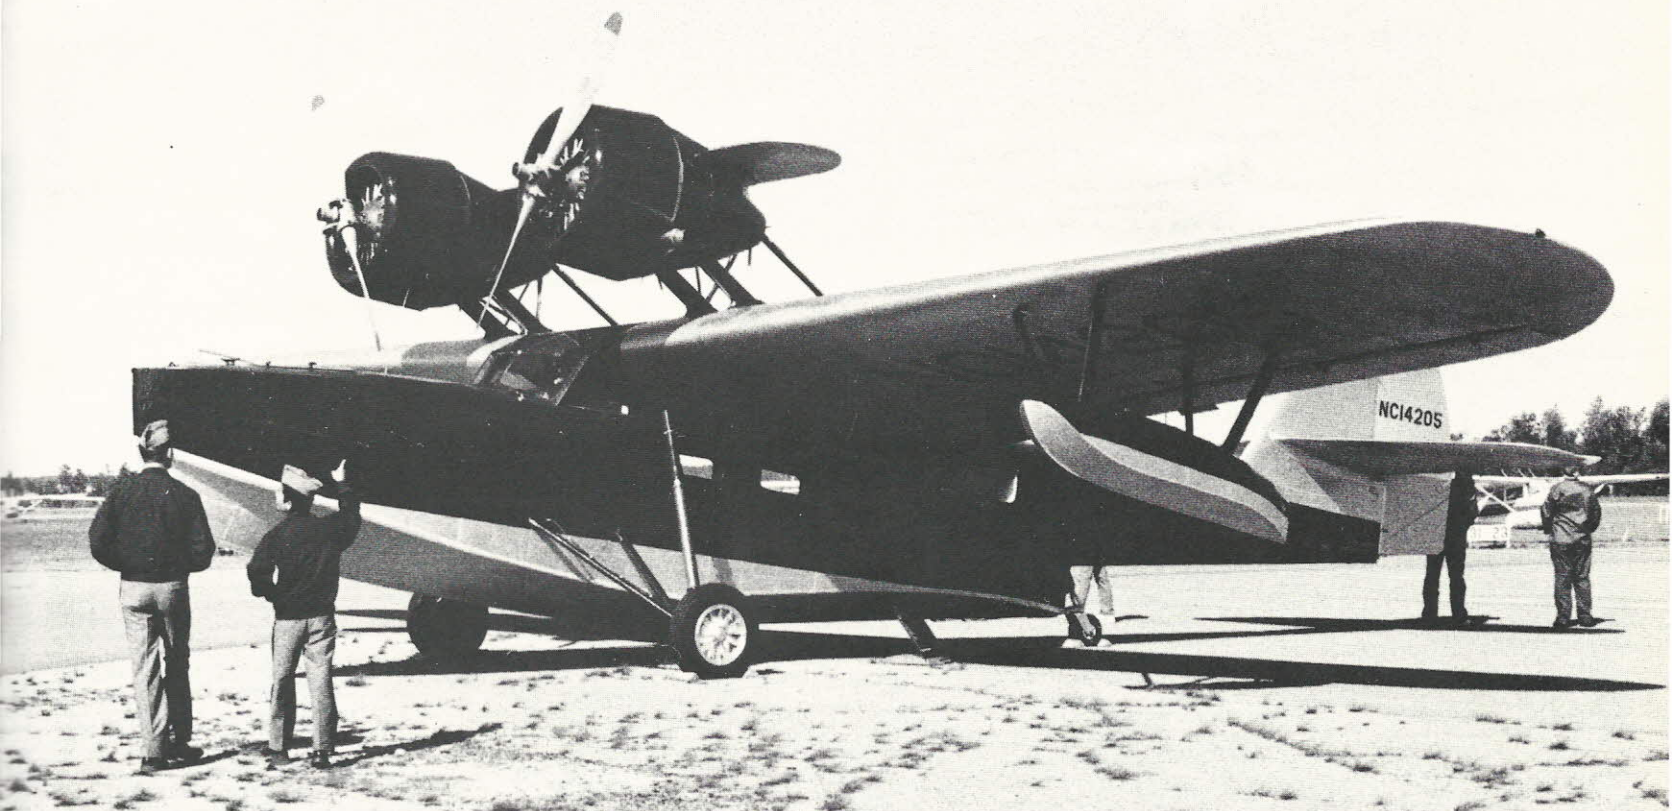

At last autumn's 11th Annual Classics and Antiques Fall Fly-In, 500 aircraft filled the field. A study in contrasts, Builders Transport's sleek Learjets which are hangared at Woodward Field, barely drowned out the roar of vintage reciprocating engines of aircraft circling the area.

Cordt Trumpy and Luis Janssen compare observations on a World War II vintage SNJ Texan.

Lettermen: (kneeling) Bethune, King, Singh, Eastman, Hemingway Lamar Shaw Parker, Charlie Robinson, Stephens, Mitchell, Clytus, Mike Hargett, Walker; (standing) Kirby on Broome, Burgess on Adams, Porter on Barbot, Richardson, Ramsey, Fuson, Rice, Stepp, Huff, De La Guardia, Gadlage, Charles Locklear, Wright, Leet, Baxter, Sheally; (standing, back row) Ulmer on Perry, Marlatt on Carroll, Lee Shaw on Bud Lewis, Garmon on Tommy Brown, Aaron on Bishop; (on goal posts) McMinn, Reinholtz, Thompson, Buie, Thomas.

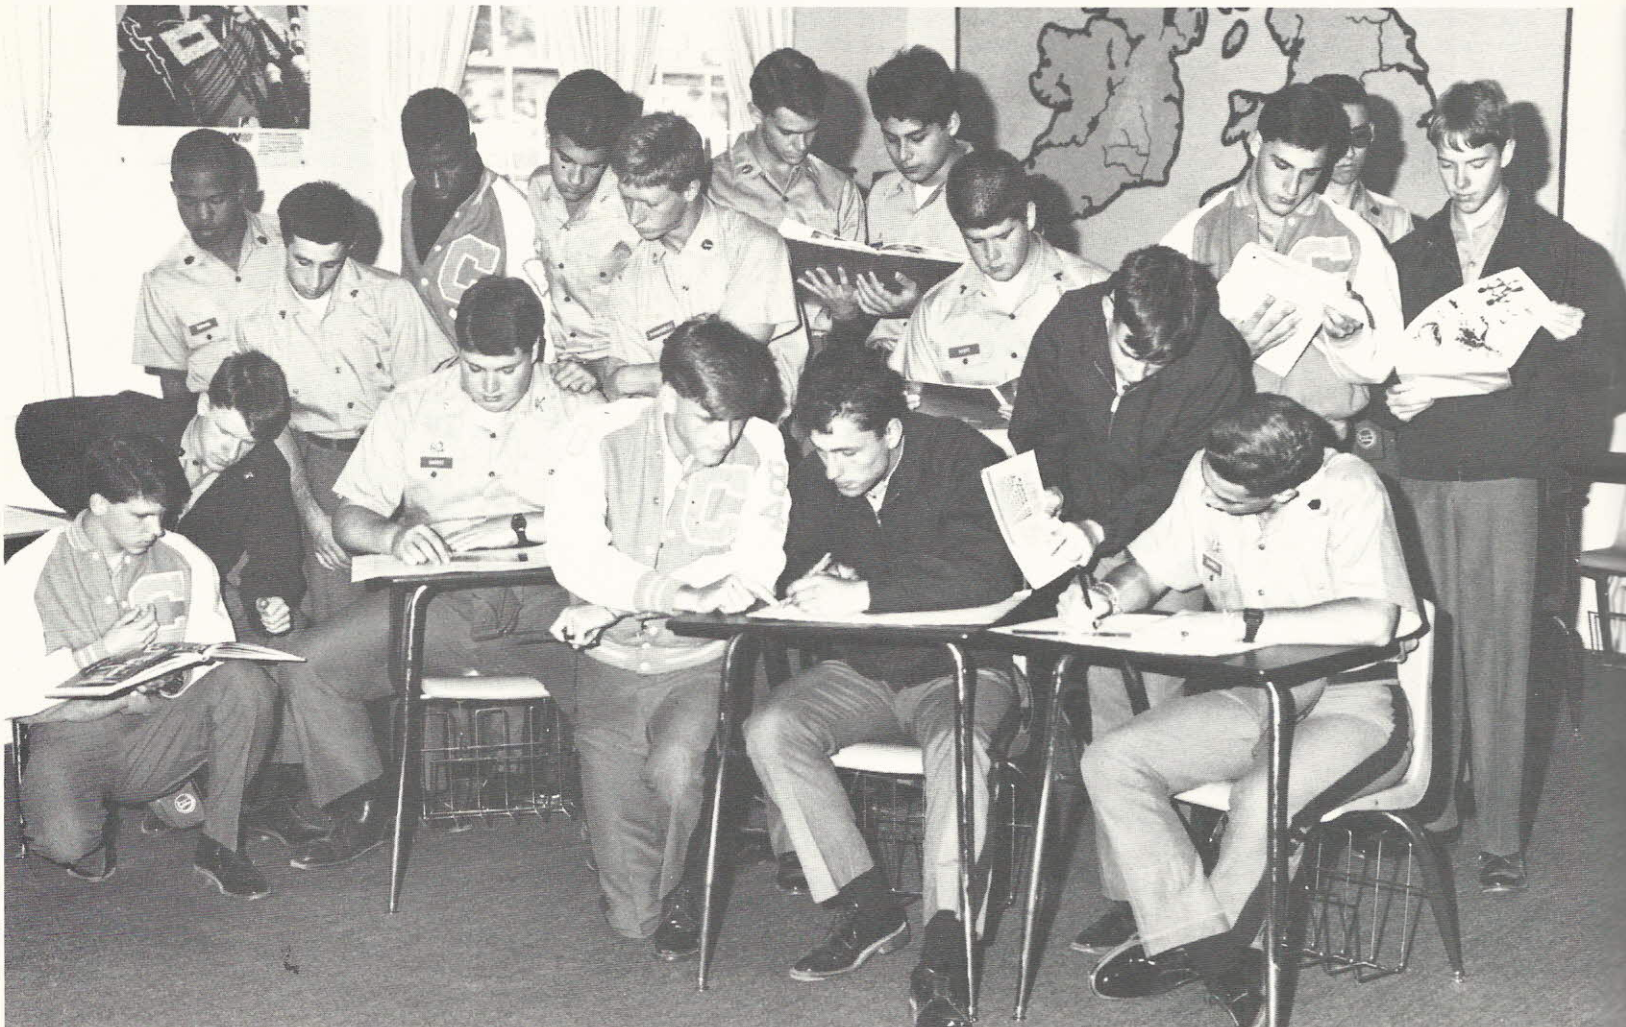

The combination boat and plane Douglas Dolphin makes Luis Janssen point so Cordt Trumpy will miss no detail.

Aesthetes and

Scribes

The Fine Arts Club offers a chance for cadets to enjoy culture in their lives here at CMA. Club activities include visits to museums, art galleries, and historic sites, and attendance at lectures and talks by authorities on differing subjects. Cultural offerings in Columbia, Charlotte, and throughout this immediate geographic area open new worlds for many cadets in their stay here.

Published each Friday, The Adjutant keeps the corps informed on what's happened and what's going to happen at CMA. Publication is an informal process in which independent writers submit articles to Captain Lachicotte Zemp, newspaper adviser. He and his helpers put the paper together, print it, and distribute it after classes Friday afternoons.

Fifty-four scholars and churchmen worked seven years to produce the King James Bible. Although there's little basis for comparison with CMA's yearbook, Excalibur, it too is the work of a committee. Chris Bishop put the people section together, Damon Edmondson snapped the bulk of the candid photos, and senior English classes contributed copy which was edited and produced as committee prose. Major Burton Gale, adviser, prodded senior Honors Englishmen unmercifully and served as catalyst for the operation.

Caroline Mendenhall
Miss Excalibur First Runner-Up

Crystal Cannon
Miss Excalibur Second Runner-up

At this all-male bastion, cadets enjoy universal membership in a society for appreciating feminine pulchritude. Each has a concept of his ultimate ultrafox and any cadet may submit a photograph of his "real world" female ideal for judging in CMA's Miss Excalibur contest.

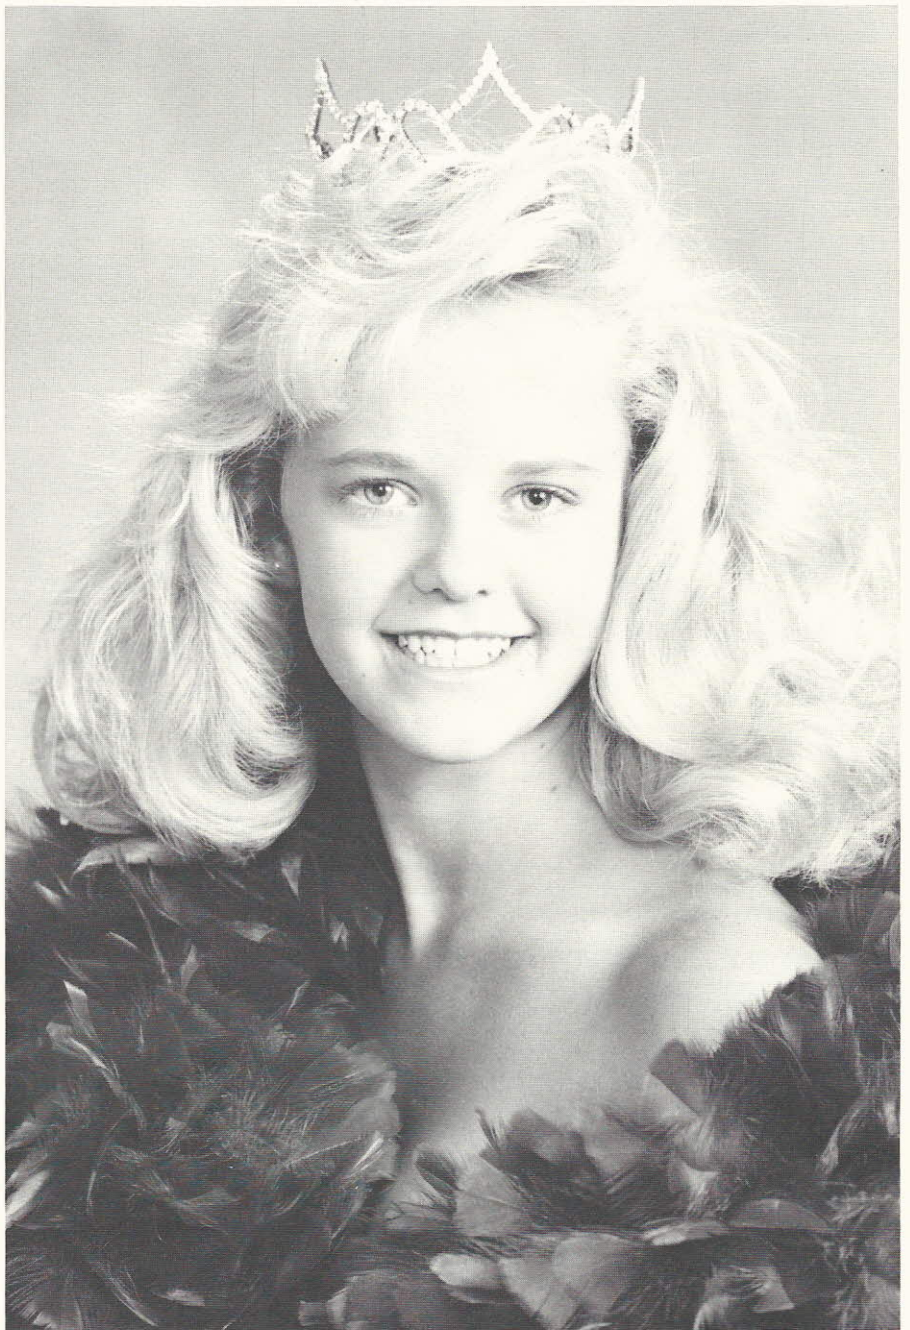

Sherry Thrift Bradshaw, Miss America 1987 First Runner-Up, selected the winner and the first and second runner-up. The judge advised, "I was very flattered by your request that I be the judge of your 'Miss Excalibur' contest. All of the girls were beautiful. I found it very difficult to pick a winner but as all judges must do, I made a decision! I based my selection on how photogenic the girl was, her expression, her eye contact, and her overall appearance. Please convey to all the contestants that beauty is definitely in the eye of the beholder and everyone sees differently. Thank you for allowing me the honor of selecting 'Miss Excalibur.' "

Miss Excalibur 1988 is Jennifer Culbertson of Columbia, South Carolina. Sponsored by Lamar Shaw, this blue-eyed blonde thirteen-year-old attends Lexington Middle School and holds the title of "Little Miss South Carolina 1988."

First runner-up, Caroline Mendenhall is a blue-eyed blonde from Charlotte, North Carolina, who models for Benetton. A tenth grader at Providence Day School, she was "Miss North Carolina Perfect Teen 1987." Stephen Hayes is her sponsor.

From Camden, blue-eyed, blonde-haired Crystal Cannon, sponsored by Carl Reinholtz, is second runner-up. A senior at Camden High, she is a flag girl for CHS's band.

They're beautiful, blue-eyed, and blonde.

Forward, March.

A residual sense of pride, tinged with a feeling of sadness, marks the end of another CMA year. We have laughed together and learned from each other. We have stood together through good times and bad, for we are one corps, a brotherhood. Some of us may have fought the system, others of us strove to excel in it. All of us forged bonds which will link us all our lives.

Seniors begin their forward march into life, only a step away from CMA, but to a very real, less sheltered world. For them May 22nd marks a moment in time that is at once an end and a beginning. For seniors, underclassmen, faculty and staff, "Forward, March" is our directive, marching forward to the future.

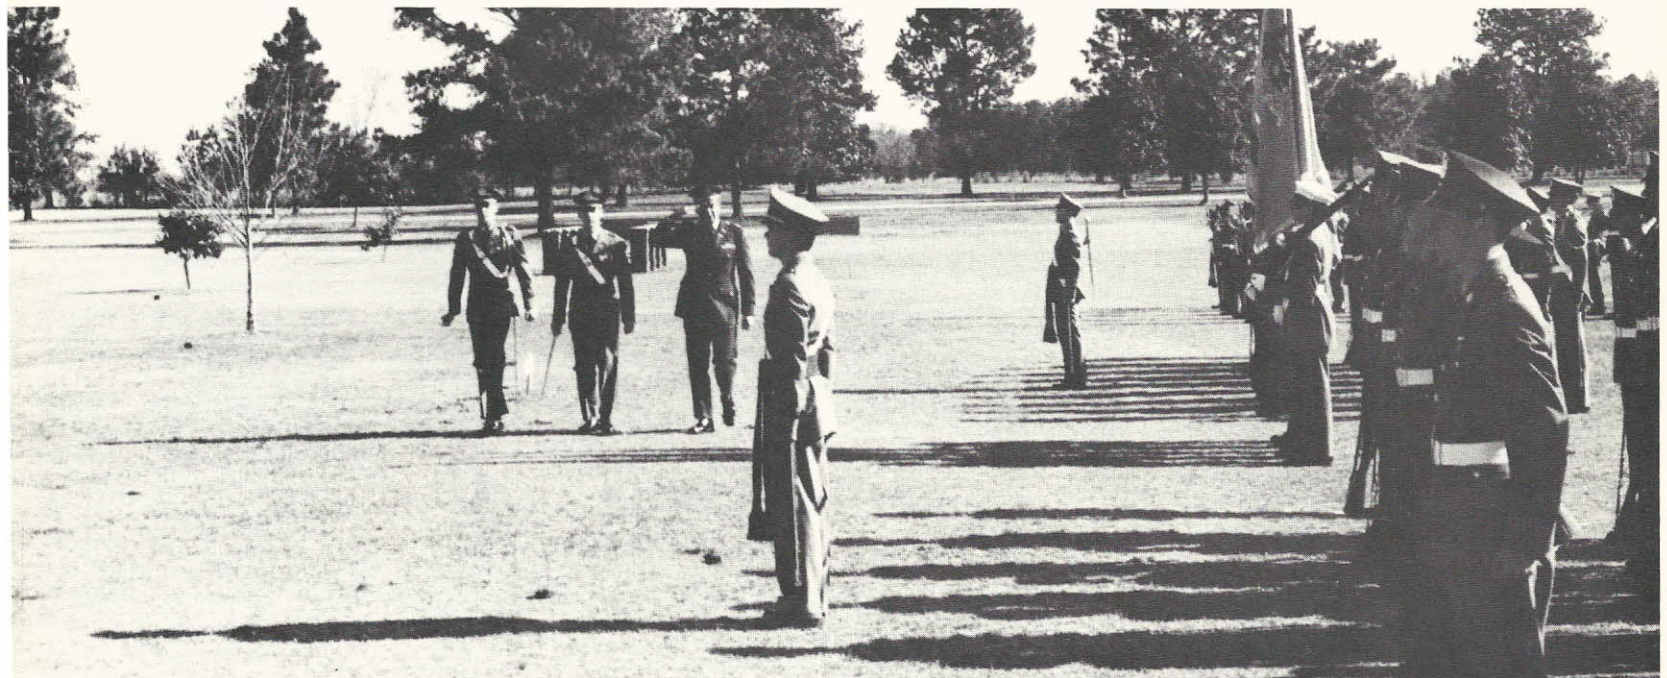

The Corps, marching forward.

All's Well That Ends Well

The world around us sets the tempo and tenor of life at CMA. Unceasing conflict in Central America and in the Middle East, changing dimensions in drug trafficking, presidential political campaigning, burgeoning numbers of the homeless — all affected us. Before spring break, drug infractions cost the academy lost student leadership and some of our closest friends. New administrative procedures and a firm stand against drug use, however, united the corps, and commencement weekend wound up activities of a tight little community, proud of achievements, marching forward, determined to excel next year.

Spring's For Sports

We don't win them all, but lots of cadets participate in lots of sports. Netters had a promising year. Players were young but showed plenty of potential. In the final AA Tournament, Ian Eastman and Jay Hargett played well, working together in doubles and coming close to victory in the semi-finals. The pair lost to Beaufort Academy 6-4, 7-5 having missed the victory by one shot.

In track, Carl Reinholtz used his speed and leaping ability to advantage in the 110 meter and 330 meter hurdles, while Will Mitchell employed raw speed in the 100 meter dash. In field events, Greg Buie, a veteran discus thrower, used technique to win every contest but one and to capture first place in both PAIS and CAA conferences.

After a slow start, golfers finished up strong, a 5 and 2 winning season. David Stepp and Rusty Burgess turned in lowest scores, 78 and 76 respectively.

Defense played tough all season in soccer, with two wins and many close contests on the record books. Season highpoint was a 7-0 romp over Hammond Academy, game perfect and with several booters scoring.

For the Spartan baseball team, the season was a learning experience, a deceiving 9-14 season. Loaded with talent as they were, mental and physical errors cost many close games. Season highlights were an extra inning, 8-7 victory over Beaufort, keyed by Mitch Porter's home run, and a payback win against the Generals of Thomas Sumter Academy. The Spartan defeat of Patterson Day, 22-1, brought the season to a satisfying close.

Marching Forward, And Out

Commencement weekend activities were underway at 0830, Saturday, May 21, with company and individual drill competition. In the gym at 1000, athletic, military, and individual accomplishment award ceremonies followed. Skies were cloudy at four when "A" Company received the coveted streamer for their guidon at the Honor Company parade. The gym came alive again at 9 PM for the commencement dance, a "family" affair for cadets and their dates, families, friends, faculty, and staff. Happy, sad strains of "Auld Lang Syne" expressed it best at the 0900 dress parade for seniors on Sunday. At 1000, commencement exercises were underway as 44 senior cadets marched into the gym to "Pomp and Circumstance," and one hour later marched out to the same tune, as alumni.

Saturday's awards program began with the Cadet Prayer and the Pledge of Allegiance. Recognition for excellence was non-stop, beginning with award of the Retired Officers Association Medal, presented to a third-year JROTC cadet of high moral character, loyalty to the school, and exceptional leadership potential, to senior Chris Bishop. Military Order of the World Wars awards for scholarship and for military leadership went to Damon Edmondson and to Lee Weaver, silver and bronze medals, respectively. The National Sojourners Medal for outstanding leadership potential, demonstrated ideals of Americanism, and high academic achievement went to Philip Bethune. Will Rice, for outstanding JROTC achievement and academic excellence as a member of the junior class, received the Order of the Daedalus Award. For outstanding ability and achievement, dependability, and high moral character, Jack McMinn was recipient of the Daughters of the American Revolution Medal. Sons of the American Revolution Medal for all-around excellence and leadership in the JROTC program was Les Brown's. Army of the United States of America Medal recipient was Carl Reinholtz. Bob Whitmire received the N. S. Meyer Raeburn Award, a $100 tuition scholarship, for demonstrated outstanding appearance and military bearing during the school year. Department Medal recipient was Justin Campbell who recorded the fewest number of demerits this year and no TBW's. Lynn Tucker earned the Commandant's Medal, awarded to the most outstanding cadet in the school other than the battalion commander.

Superior Cadet Awards for overall excellence and leadership in the JROTC program were: LET I, M. Balducci; LET II, CA Dewey; LET III, L. Brown; LET IV, LE Shaw. Best Drilled Individual Medals were awarded to Greg Baxter, Ashley Saulnier, and Chris Hendrick, first, second, and third, respectively. Best Drilled Company was "B."

Earning E. Haines Gregg Awards were: for marksmanship, Jay Thurston; for musical accomplishment, Carl Snipes; and for sportsmanship, Mitch Porter. Robert Lucas won through peer selection the John Philip Sousa Award in Band. The Science Medal went to Chris Bishop. Recognized as Erskine Fellows were Angelo Sciulli and Will Mitchell. Will, in addition, was a Boys State selectee. In Debate, Damon Edmondson earned Coach's Award and William Pennell was Most Improved.

Scholar-Athlete recognition went to Philip Bethune and Athlete of the year was Les Brown. In Football, Most Valuable Offensive Lineman was Danny Parker; Defensive, Mitch Porter. Coach's Award went to Greg Adams and Lamar Shaw was Most Improved Player. In Basketball, Most Improved was Jack McMinn; Most Valuable Offensive, Steve Carroll; Defensive, Les Brown. Coach's Award was to Tommy Brown. In Baseball, Jack McMinn was Most Valuable and Henry Taylor, Most Improved. Matt Parrott received the Coach's Award. Most Valuable in Soccer was Daan Witkamp; Best Offense, Ben Wright; Best Defense, Chris Nakos; Most Improved, Lonnie Broome; and Stuart King earned Coach's Award. In Track, Most Valuable was Greg Buie; Most Improved, Jeremy Greer. Carl Reinholtz won the Coach's Award. Most Valuable in Golf was David Stepp; Most Improved, Rusty Burgess. Coach's Award went to William Pennell. In Rifle, Most Valuable was Scott Haskell. Coach's Award went to Stephen Dekle. Lamar Shaw was Most Valuable Drill Team member, Will Rice, Most Improved. Rusty Burgess received the Coach's Award. In Wrestling, Mark Pressley earned Coach's Award; Mike Gerber, Most Improved; Charlie Robinson, Most Valuable.

Carlisle House Tournament results were: Foosball Champion, Chris Beasley, Rob Strickland, second; Checkers Champion, James Jones, second, Donald Accordini; Chess Champion, Michael Worsham, Rick Haselden, second; Pool Champion, Rusty Burgess, second, Steve Robinson; Ping Pong Champion, Steve Carroll, David Stepp, second.

Rev. Dr. Paul M. Pridgen, Jr., Pastor of the First Baptist Church of North Charleston and a 1946 graduate of Carlisle Military School, was commencement speaker at 1000 ceremonies on Sunday. Will Rice acted as cadet lieutenant colonel and Marshals were Justin Campbell, Dana Lunsford, Patrick McGraw, Will Mitchell, David Stepp, and Jay Thurston.

Recognized for highest class averages were Eric Story, 7th Grade; William Mott, 8th Grade; Michael Balducci, 9th Grade; Michael Boiter, 10th Grade; William Rice, 11th Grade; and David Ramsey, 12th Grade. Second highest senior was Russell Burgess and Philip Bethune was third. Garnering the coveted James F. Risher Award, a peer selection to decide the senior most nearly exemplifying the ideal cadet, was Charles Robinson.

Taps sounded, seniors marched forward and out, and underclassmen, dismissed uproariously, signalled "school's out."
