The Fellowship of the Ring

For the past two years, Seniors have participated in the Ceremony of Rings. Before the assembled Corps of Cadets, the Faculty and the Staff, each Senior receives the ring of Camden Military Academy, a symbol of his achievement, a token of one of his life's important milestones. By making this moment a public celebration, the school recognizes and honors the individual accomplishment of each graduating cadet.

But the ring is more than a sign of individual achievement: it is also a symbol of unity and continuity. Those who put on the ring for the first time may not realize it, but they are entering into a fellowship of alumni that stretches back into the past and will continue far into the future. Each Senior joins a select group bound by a common tradition and a common experience of brotherhood.

As Mr. Hugh Griffith, the Past President of the Camden — Carlisle Alumni Association, reminded us in last year's ceremony, the Fellowship of the Ring harkens back to J.R.R. Tolkien's great trilogy in which "the ring binds together in fellowship the creatures, great and small, of Middle Earth to fight against all dark things that are evil and dishonorable. Likewise, as alumni of this school, we are all, great and small, bound together in a similar fellowship."

Seniors, wear your rings with pride and, as you go out from Camden Military Academy, remember that you are not alone. You are members of an honorable fellowship: the Fellowship of the Ring.

You can't say we hadn't been warned. Everyone knew it was coming. But no one expected it to be quite this bad. A hurricane at CMA? Bah hah!

Roberts, Serpas and friends look around in disbelief.

Hugo Strikes!

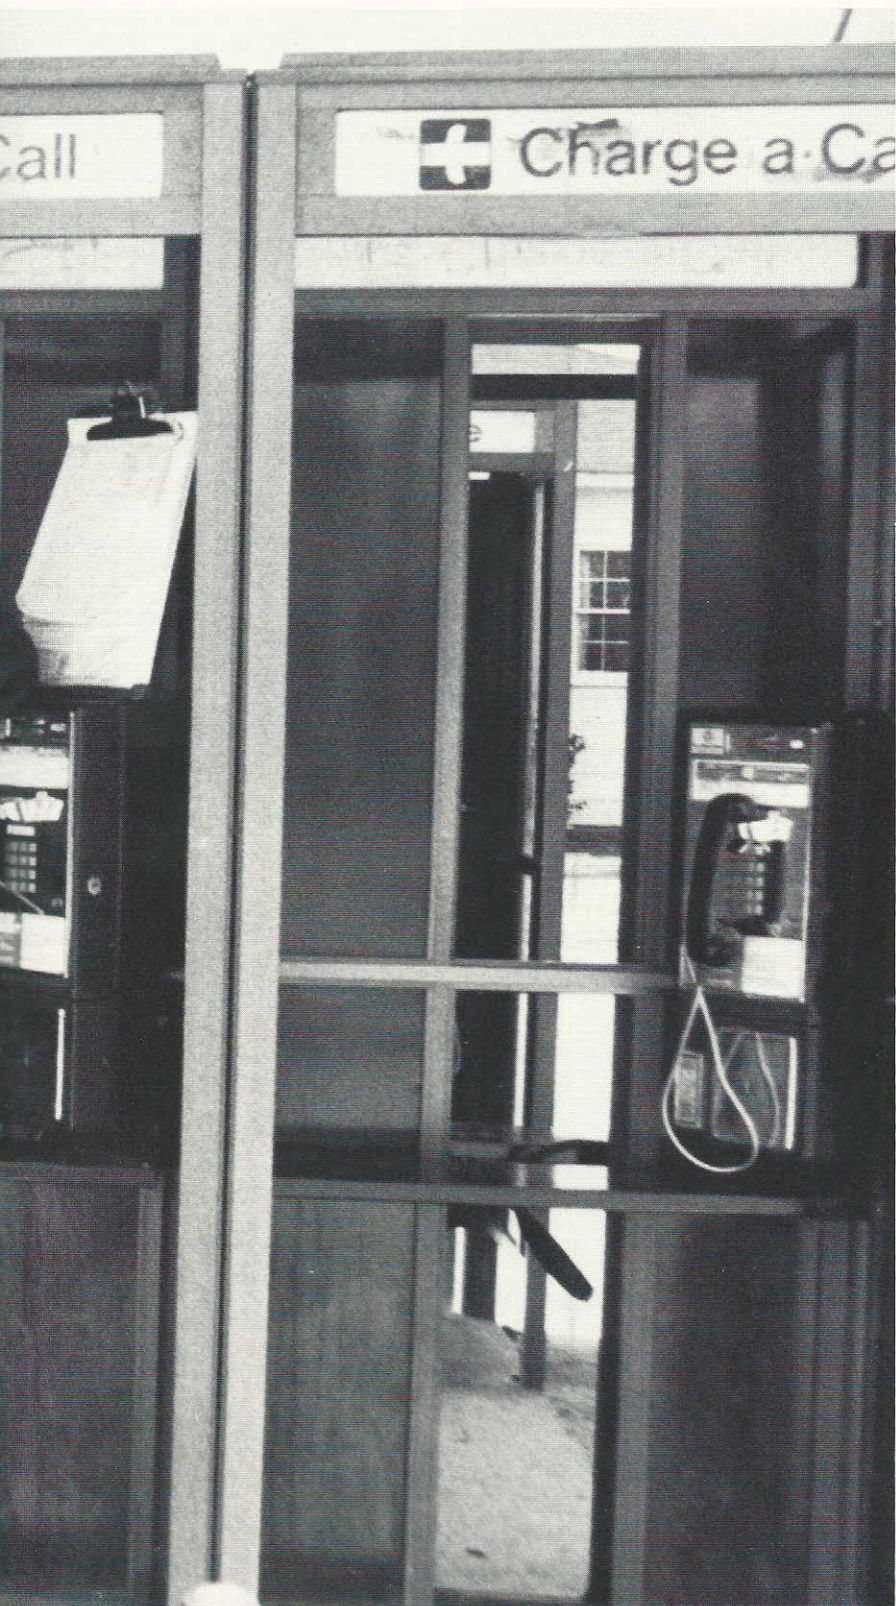

But around midnight the wind began to blow. A window blew out in C Company. The front door blew off at A Company. Most of us did not sleep much after that. And the next morning . . .

The damage to trees was extensive, but no one was injured and damage to buildings was slight.

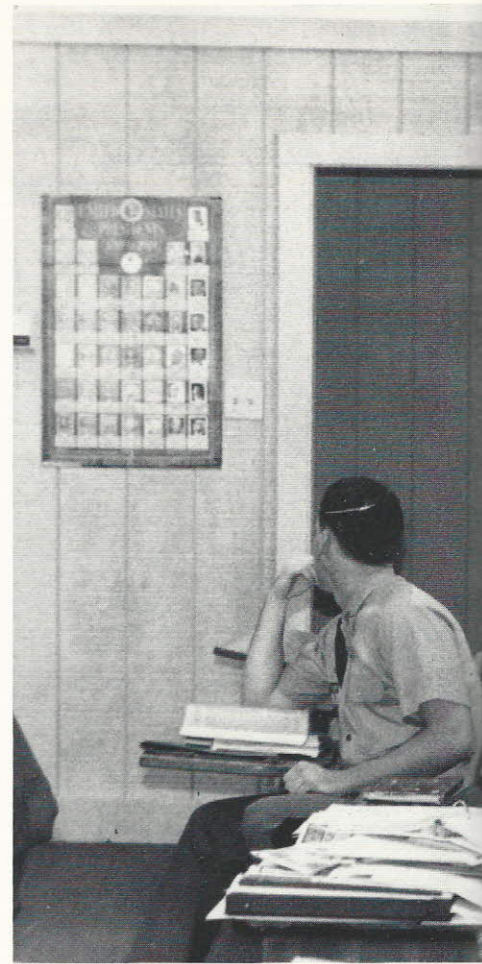

Despite Hugo, life goes on: classes, drill, study hall, trips to the corner store, calls home. One day blends into the next; the weeks roll by. Furloughs punctuate the flow of time. Christmas appears as a dot on the horizon, approaches, looms, and passes. Spring Break seems eons away, and yet it, too, slips by. Soccer, baseball, warm sunny afternoons that linger past supper and beckon to us through the open windows of study hall. And then: exams, graduation weekend, the general order. Where did the year go?

Sports are an important part of life at CMA. Many of life's most difficult lessons may be learned through athletic competition: discipline, cooperation, the effort necessary to do a job well, the importance of accepting both victory and defeat graciously. Athletes test their personal limits, give their best for a common cause, share the pride of their accomplishments with others. Here proud parents escort their sons onto the field before the contest against Asheville School. Mr. and Mrs. Price flank their son David while Mrs. Broome, one of CMA's most enthusiastic fans, accompanies her son Lonnie. Others wait their turn. The Spartans defeated Asheville 34-14.

Spartans Bring Home Championship

After last year's 3 — 5 season, this year's Spartan team knew that their goal was to bring home the conference title. And that's just what they did. After a slow start, the Spartans had a season that was nothing short of spectacular.

The team went into their first game, against Hammond Academy, with high spirits and a thirst to win but lost 21 to 7. The cadets' second game, against Heathwood Hall, also ended in defeat, with a final score of 21 to 0.

The Spartans were sure that their third game, against arch rival Thomas Sumter, would be the one to get them on track. The Generals took a large early lead, but by the second half the Spartans had caught up, and it seemed that this might be CMA's first victory. In the last minutes of the game, however, Thomas Sumter pulled ahead to win 35 to 28.

Victory at last was waiting when the Spartans met the Cyclones of Porter-Gaud for the fourth game of the season. CMA jumped out to a 6-0 lead on David Allen's 76-yard pass to Sam Bryant. The Cyclones responded with 10 unanswered points and things were looking bad when David Price picked up a fumble and carried it 46 yards in a game-winning return.

The following week CMA traveled to meet the Asheville School Dukes. The Spartans went into the game with renewed confidence and the need for another win. The Dukes played tough and went for a 2-point conversion to tie the game. In the final quarter an important tackle by Rob Strickland stopped Asheville short and gave the Spartans the victory 14-12.

On October 21, the Spartans faced Christ School. The game was CMA all the way. Two pass interceptions by Price, both returned for touchdowns, shut down Christ School with a final score of 20-0 and gave the Spartans the conference championship.

On the first play of the next game, played at home against Hilton Head, Sam Bryant went 73 yards to help the Spartans build a 27-6 halftime lead. Lonnie Broome rushed 132 yards, while CMA's defense held Hilton Head to a minus 11 yard total. The final score was 48-6.

Asheville School came to CMA for a return match during Visitors Day weekend. After a poor first half, the Spartans stormed back to wrestle a 34-14 win.

The last game of the season brought trouble to CMA. Three of Sloan School's defensive linemen weighed over 270 pounds — a piece, but even so, the Spartans did a tremendous job against the Sloan powerhouse. From the opening kickoff, CMA proceeded to march 60 yards to score on a one-yard plunge by Lonnie Broome. On their second possession, Sloan allowed a pass to be picked off by Price, who ran 65 yards to score. Sloan avoided a shutout with a 60-yard touchdown late in the game to bring the final score to 14-8.

With a 6-3 record and a conference championship, this had to be one of the best seasons CMA has seen in a long time.

Spartan JV's and 7/8 Graders

The JV football team, under Coach Andy Barlow, had a lot of fun this season: no wins, but a good season nevertheless. The team was inexperienced and unused to playing together, but as the year progressed, they learned more and more about the finer points of the game and the importance of teamwork. The 0-5 season record — against Hammond, Heathwood, Thomas Sumter, and Christ School — disguises many valuable experiences and enjoyable moments. After all, how bad can a season be that ends with a 97-yard run on the fourth down with three seconds left to play? That's what happened at Christ School when Starks, Byerly, and Skinner moved the ball down the field for the most spectacular touchdown of the year.

The 7/8th Graders, with their 1-4 record, also had a good season, better by one than last year. Thanks to Coaches Dellinger and McElvain, the team was highly motivated and worked hard all season. The coaches had them on the practice field four afternoons a week, getting them ready for the next game. Every game saw the team getting better and better on offense and defense. Not a bad year.

Cross-Country Team Fares Well

The Camden Military Academy Cross country Team got off to a bumpy start this year, but fared well in the end. The Spartans definitely deserve a big round of applause for this one, for they certainly beat the odds. Motivation and determination made up for their loss of practice over the summer when all the other teams were making daily 5-7 mile runs. Team Coach Maj. David Lepage says, "It's always hard when our guys come in on a hot, late August day after a busy summer with little practice and we have to start all over again. The other guys run all year and never back down."

The team runs on a 3.1 mile course and competes against such teams as Asheville School, Heathwood Hall, Hammond Academy, Christ School and many others. Steve Rogers, one of the team members, stated, "What really gets us are the away meets at Asheville and others in the mountains of North Carolina. With every day practice in Camden, we're just not used to all those rolling green hills."

Despite the drawbacks, the fighting Spartans took it all the way to the end, winning 3rd in the Conference. Team star Dan Rowe states, "I hated that this was my first and only year of Cross Country for CMA. However, I do plan to continue my efforts at University of North Carolina at Wilmington. I wish the best to future Spartan runners." The team hated to bring the season to a close, but were immensely pleased with the results.

The team this year consisted of 7 runners. They are: B.J. Lathan, Ian Osborne, Dan Rowe, David Scheffsky, Matt Stokes, Carlton Walker, Steve Rogers and Manager Allen Watford.

With lots of inexperienced wrestlers and a new coach, the Spartan Wrestlers had plenty to learn. But they were quick and strong and eager to win — and the performance got better and better as the season progressed. Coach Andy Barlow, who wrestled four years at The Citadel, commented, “The team is young, but it has a lot of natural talent and skill.” Tom Butler, one of the Varsity wrestlers, pointed out that he learned a great deal during the course of the year and began winning more matches as the season went on. The manager, Rob Merritt, observed that the team had a lot of heart and character. A groundwork has been laid; the potential is there.

Varsity Nets CAA Championship

For the second season in a row, Coach Eric Boland's Varsity Spartans won the Carolina Athletic Association championship. Playing in an up-tempo style and using a half-court trap and a 1-3-1 defense, the Spartans were a high-scoring unit, with two games reaching the century mark.

Of course, a team depends upon the talents and drive of its individual members, and this year's varsity was blessed with some outstanding players. Steve Plageman, a Postgraduate, showed himself to be a super ball handler and a great shooter. Sam Bryant, another Postgrad, demonstrated both inside and outside shooting ability and distinguished himself under the basket as well. Seniors David Price and Mike Isom provided major sparks to the Spartan effort through their scoring and rebounding talents. The team also made fine use of Junior Chris Way's aggressive defensive playing and his very fine ball handling, while Sophomore Lewis Barnes added his talents as an inside scorer and rebounder, and Sophomore Jeff Gordon added his hustle.

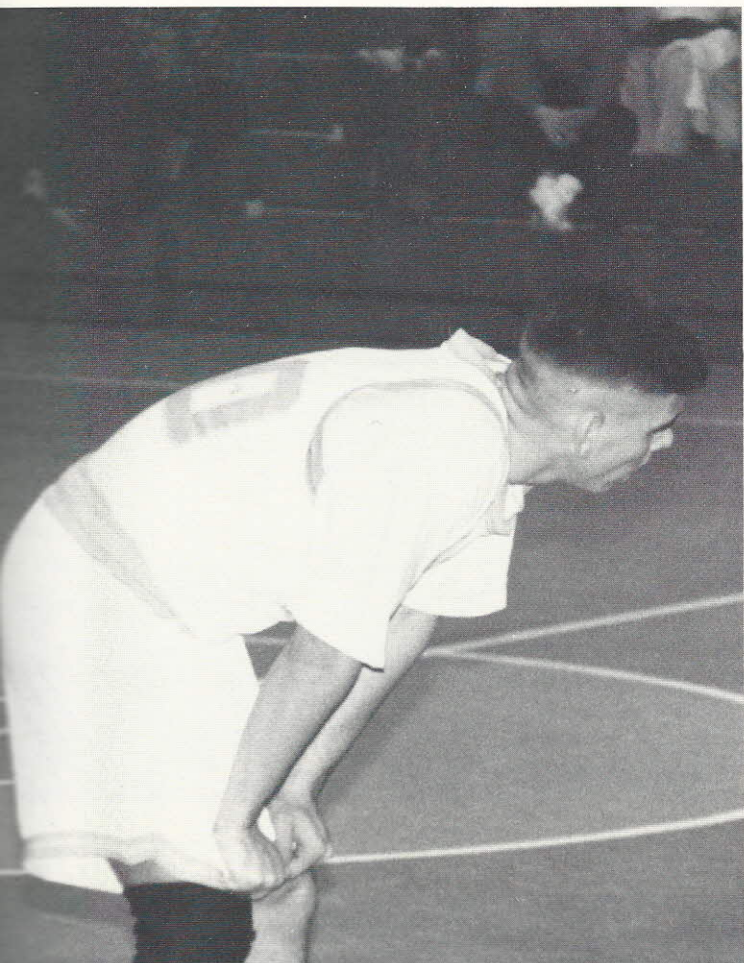

It was a very rewarding season.

JV's Enjoy an 8-1 Season

A pressure defense and a great team attitude helped the JV basketball team bring in an 8-1 record for the season. Players combined their considerable individual talents with outstanding team play to make '89-'90 one of the finest JV seasons ever. In addition, the team continued to improve during the year. "That improvement," according to Coach Herb McElvain, "was what made me most proud of this team." The JV Spartans avenged their only loss of the season — to Heathwood Hall — by beating them by 15 points on the Spartans' home floor.

Discussing his individual players, Coach McElvain praised Sophomore David Allen for his great versatility. Allen scored well both inside and outside, was good on defense and was a fine rebounder. Sophomore Ted Byerly was "the best shooter on the team," in addition to showing amazing anticipation on defense. Sophomore Steve Kirvan has "unlimited potential," according to the coach. He was great on offense and a good rebounder. Sophomore Robby Hagins was "the most improved player of the season," said McElvain. He was a good shooter and had an excellent attitude.

Freshman John Mauffray showed "tremendous potential" as an outside shooter. Doug McDonald, also a Freshman, was "a rugged inside player" and an outstanding rebounder. Freshman Erik Dove not only had a great attitude, but demonstrated that "he is a very gifted athlete" as well. Freshman Phillip Drum showed a fine attitude and added to the team his "considerable shooting ability."

It looks as if '90-'91 could be a good season for Varsity and J alike.

Teacher of the Year

The Key Club instituted this year the James T. Dallas Award for Excellence in Teaching. Named in honor of Col. Dallas for his 32 years of service to the school, the club selected as its first recipient Major Burton Gale.

Major Gale has impressed the minds and helped shape the characters of hundreds of cadets during his distinguished career as teacher of English at CMA. His approach to teaching combines a no-nonsense insistence upon attention to the task at hand with a gift for making language and literature alive and important for his students. He always demands the best from everyone he teaches just as he always gives his best to them.

He is one of those rare teachers who live in the memories of their students long after they have left school and even for the rest of their lives.

No cadet escapes it. From reveille to taps, our existence is regulated by, saturated with, military rules, customs, courtesies. Some love it, some hate it, most accept it as a part of their lives. But slowly, gradually, a feeling grows: a developing sense of confidence and accomplishment. The tough discipline and unreasonable demands begin to pay off. There begins to develop within us — for some of us in spite of ourselves — a feeling of pride.

Ask any cadet of A Company what one word sums up "Evil A" and the most likely word to come out of his mouth will be "brotherhood." Although Alpha Company has the best location on campus because it is situated near so many activity spots, that fact alone does not necessarily make it the best company on campus. Continuing leadership and strong bonds between company members, however, have brought Alpha Company through three consecutive Honor Company victories. High ceilings, big rooms, and carpeted floors also contribute to Evil A's better state of living.

Bravo Company: Battling Back

"Bad Ass Bravo!" When Company Commander Beau Markolf dismisses the boys from B Company, it can be heard all over campus. Yes, Bravo Company is bad through and through, and as the Company Commander puts it, "We don't take anything, from anyone, anywhere!" One can feel the sense of unity just by walking down the hall on a busy day. The cadets are close, very close. SFC Watford states, "A group without unity is not a group; it's just a bunch of individuals trying to survive!" But in B Company, unity there is. Once the Company has made a decision, everyone sticks by it. Bravo Company has come a long way and seems to do nothing but improve. The academics, personal appearance, and general welfare have done nothing but climb.

Maybe the cadets in Bravo Company don't walk on carpets or have high ceilings: they don't need them. All they need is each other. Cadet Sanders says, "The 'B' stands for brotherhood and that's the power source of the company." Brad Nichols laughs, "We didn't come here for carpets or an easy life; we came for self-discipline and to straighten out our lives, and that's what is being achieved here."

It may not be heaven or paradise, but it's home to a lot of faithful cadets. Big Bad Bravo rules!

Charlie Company

This year, under the leadership of Mike Isom, Michael Balducci, Hutter Ragland and Sam Bryant, along with Tactical Officer LTC Mowe, Charlie Company has made long strides toward success and Honor Company. Commonly known as "Powerhouse," C Company is filled with friendship and a feeling of unity. The cadets work together to achieve their goals and to make C Company the best company on campus. As Brian Coleman says, "C Company is one big family. We all look out for each other." The boys respect their leaders, and everyone is working hard for another chance at Honor Company. According to Randy Nicholas, "C Company has the best leadership on campus."

Although in the past there have been some hard times for C Company, the cadets still go on, pulling together. As a result, morale is high. Skeet Stolte says, "With a little work, we will win Honor Company for sure."

But working hard to achieve an important goal is not the only benefit of living in C Company. As Chip Roberts states it, "I've made a lot of good friends in Charlie Company. The friendships make it the best company on campus."

Band/Staff: Playing a New Tune

Band Company, the musicians of CMA, have seen a lot of change in the past year. Academics are up, problems are down, and the music sounds better every day. Under the experienced leadership of Col. Woodmansee and Cadet Matt Stokes, the band has taken heed of their talents and played their way to the top. Cadet Joel Gibbons adds, "We make the best of what we have and stick together regardless of our differences."

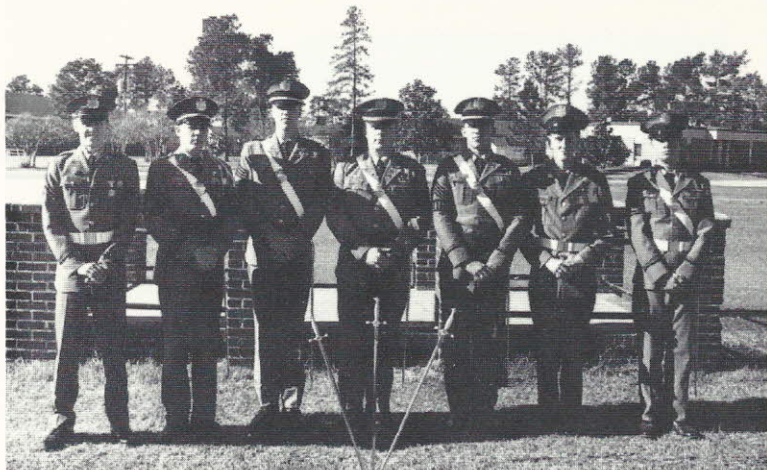

Band Company also makes dress parades interesting to listen to as well as watch. Chris Witherspoon explains, "We add a certain pizzazz that boosts the morale of the corps." Cpt. Vernon Clamp, instructor and conductor, reflects, "The guys have put forth remarkable effort and have reaped the rewards." Senior cadet, Steve Rogers, sums it up, "I've been in the Band since arriving at CMA four years ago. I wouldn't have it any other way."

The Battalion Staff shares Thompson Barracks with the Band and oversees the day-to-day operations of the Battalion. Supervising everything from supplies and cadets' records to formations, the Battalion Staff is comprised of the leaders of the Battalion and provides the solutions to many problems. As the Adjutant, Damon Edmondson, put it, "It's a tough job, but somebody has to do it!" And as the Supply Officer, H.R. Goff, says, "We work hard, but we have our share of fun." And that sums up the Staff, a bunch of hard workers and good friends.

Cadets at CMA learn and grow in many different ways. Although the classroom and the military regimen are intended as the primary means of development, other important avenues also lead to understanding and maturity. The little spare time that cadets have left after they have fulfilled the basic demands of school life is usually filled with additional opportunities for growth. Clubs and other organized activities add to the variety of experiences open to the young man who wants to get involved.

A Chance to Compete

The Academic and Debate Teams provide cadets opportunities to ply their knowledge, mental acuity, and speaking skills against students from other schools in the area. Each year the two teams sally forth to meets around the Carolinas to compete in a variety of contests. The Academic Team represents CMA at the Winthrop College Model UN, the Presbyterian College Science Olympics, and at a series of Quiz Bowls. The Debate Team fields competitors in several events, including extemporaneous speaking, the Lincoln-Douglas Debates, improvisation, and oral interpretation. These activities sharpen cadets' skills and interest in academic and intellectual endeavors.

Academic Team Members: Robbie Mosier, McDaniel, Rowe, Edmondson, Adviser Major Gale, Stokes, and Rogers.

Debate Team: (Seated) Lange, Adviser Captain Sloan, Robbie Mosier, (Standing) Stokes, Rogers, Goff, Rowe, Edmondson, Eader, Osborne, Balducci.

A Chance to Grow

Junior Leadership is a group of students representing each of Kershaw County's high schools. The students meet several times a year to promote greater understanding and cooperation among the schools. Delta Kappa Sigma is CMA's Honor Society. Comprised of Juniors and Seniors selected by the faculty for their leadership, scholarship, character, and service, members represent the finest traditions of the CMA cadet corps. The Fellowship of Christian Athletes combines the ideals of sportsmanship and religious faith. Under the direction of Captain Barlow, FCA has had an active year highlighted by a meaningful weekend retreat.

A Chance to Learn

The Adjutant and the Excalibur began the year with new advisers and mostly inexperienced staffs. The challenges have been both exciting and frustrating. The most difficult (read impossible) task: Meeting deadlines. The two most frequent comments: "So that's how you do it!" ... and ... "Just wait til next year!"

The Key Club: A Chance to Serve

The Key Club, sponsored by Kiwanis, was chartered at CMA two years ago. Through the strong leadership offered by Kiwanis and the excellent program of activities, the Key Club has become a dynamic force at CMA and in the community. The group has sponsored a campus blood drive each year, has provided litter patrol for the section of highway in front of the campus, and has helped out in numerous other community projects. In addition, cadets have attended national and international conferences sponsored by the organization. This year Cadet Gary Spencer is serving as Lieutenant Governor of Key Club's multistate region to which CMA belongs.

Mr. Gene McCaskill of Camden has been instrumental in getting CMA's Key Club off to a strong start and keeping it involved in local affairs.

Cadet Gary Spencer is installed as Lieutenant Governor at the Key Club's Greensboro conference.

A Chance to Share

Each year CMA attracts students from other countries. Although the number is down a little this year, these students, as usual, have contributed a great deal to campus life and to our American cadets' understanding and appreciation of other languages, dialects, and cultures.

The Fine Arts Club provides a monthly program of speakers, musicians, and artists to instruct and entertain its members. Open to all cadets, the club does much to stimulate interest in the arts. The group also makes occasional trips to visit concerts, museums, and other events and sites of interest.

International Club members Alejandro Vega of Costa Rica, Jose Partida of Mexico, Demian Tucker and Sean Sealey of Bermuda.

Sean Sealey joins Sam Bryant, Jeff Gordon, and friend to help clean up the hurricane mess.

A Chance to Work

There is a lot to do around here and cadets take their share of the burden. The school operates on the premise that we all learn by doing. As we learn we can gradually assume more and more responsibility. Of course, the military provides many of these tasks, but there are other jobs as well that help make life at CMA run more efficiently and smoothly. Driving cadets to and from town, maintaining and supervising the weight room, planning and decorating for the school dances — these are several of the important routine functions that cadets play a major role in. Others include selecting and showing movies for the AV Room, distributing laundry, and supervising several of the activities during the twice-weekly Activity Period.

Bus Drivers: Carlton Walker, Chip Roberts, and Bret Burnikel.

Koonce, Shoemaker, and Stolte wonder how long this torture is going to last during one of the more popular Activity sessions.

Dance Committee: (Front) Vega, Latture, Markolf, Whisenhunt. (Rear) Col. Watson, Spencer, Flanagan, McDaniel, Eader.

Weight Room Staff: Stokes, Eader, Hayes, Markolf.

Just foolin' around . . .

What's up, Captain Sloan?

Little Gary out for a spin.

Hey, Tracy! The photographer's gone — you can get up now.

Could that be BJ?

You can't work all the time!

Peek-a-boo!

Partridge, Howard, Puhl, Day, Bruce, Barnes, Upchurch ham it up.

The Fellowship of the Ring

The Road goes ever on and on Down from the door where it began.
Now far ahead the Road has gone,
And I must follow, if I can,
Pursuing it with eager feet.
Until it joins some larger way
Where many paths and errands meet.
And whither then? I cannot say.

— from J.R.R. Tolkien,
The Fellowship of the Ring

Track

The Spartans fielded one of its strongest track teams in several years. Exceptional performances were turned in by David Price, who was beat to the finish line only once in the sprints; Sam Bryant who was undefeated in the long jump and triple jump; and Steve Plageman, who soared to a height of 6' 4" in the high jump. Rob Strickland was a consistent winner in the shot put and discus. At season's end, Price and Strickland represented CMA in the NC Independent Schools State Meet, where David placed first in both the 100- and 200-meter sprint and Rob captured second in the shot put.

Scheffsky and Flanagan stretch out before practice.
