Life school story

Homecoming at CMA always begins with a parade. Here the Corps of Cadets repeats the drill movements and maneuvers practiced since the days they were established by Baron Von Steuben more than two hundred years ago at Valley Forge, Pennsylvania. Parents watch with pride as their sons in uniform move in unison, glimmering in the sun. The old graduates whisper and reminisce amongst themselves, marveling at the pageantry of their unchanged tradition. After passing in review, the Corps marches off the parade field and onto the football field, where the Spartan Football Team awaits.
