

Dancin' in the Moonlight

"I think the students had more fun at this prom than any other prom," Ms. Edwards said.

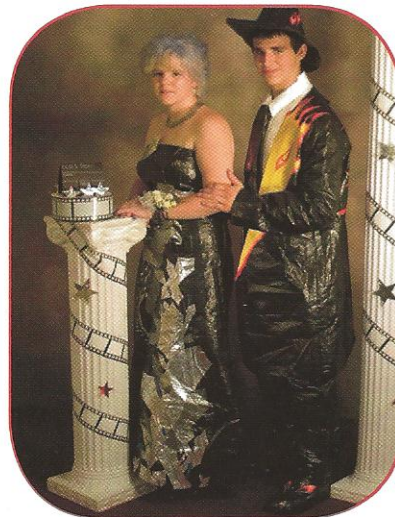

Students enjoyed a night of pure romance while they danced on the red carpet of Colleton County High. Hours were spent for this night that would never be forgotten. Most danced to the music of their choice, while others sat and cuddled with their significant other. The beautiful runway colors of the dates attire made a true Hollywood appearance which made the night a true unforgettable experience. This prom marked another chapter in these students memories.

"Prom this year was a handful to get ready for, but we had a lot of fun," 2006 graduate Novie Ulmer said.

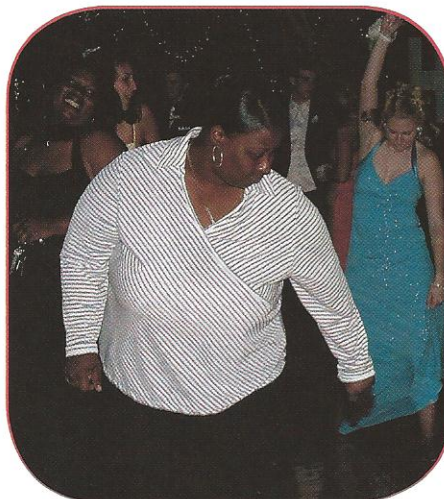

"I enjoyed prom this year. It was nice," senior Jeremy Hodges said.

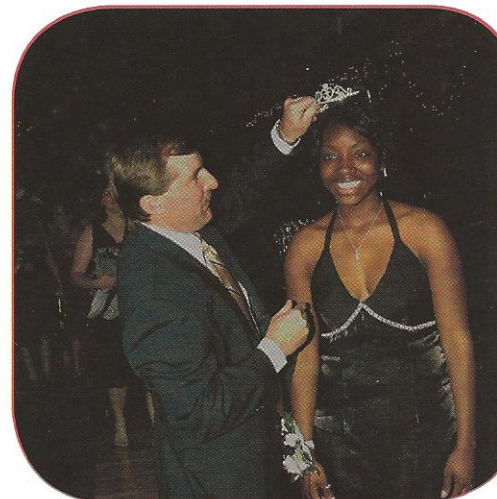

Wearing homemade prom outfits, senior Amanda Hill and former student Michael Bevins posed for their picture. Amanda made the outfits out of Duct Tape.

"I love to dance and that's what made me enjoy my prom so much," senior Kevin Mcubbins said.

"Prom was hot and a little boring," junior Ashley Chickering said.

Ms. Bennet does her two step while enjoying the prom's atmosphere "I enjoy the prom every year," Ms. Bennet said.

Principal Cliff Warren crowned junior Jaquana Terry as Prom Princess. "I am so happy my friends voted for me. I am thankful for their support," senior Jaquana Terry said.
