

Welcome To My Life

Routines Routines Routines Routines Routines

Despite the boring and uneventful days that routines ultimately ushered students into, routines were still essential to the student's lives. The smooth transition from the relaxed "down time" after school to the tedious school hours could only be accredited to organized and structured routines. Whether it was a certain time that the student had to be at their locker or a sequence of events that had to be completed, students seldom strayed from their daily routines. While some routines seemed ancient others were developed simply to help with the, possibly, stressful and frantic high school years. Senior Glen Jarell's routine was developed upon reaching High School. "I haven't added onto my routine, [Actually] I'm just picking up on it," Glen said. Whether the routines were fresh in existence or years old, routines proved to be important and constructive in the lives of everyone.

-Edward Buggel and Epifania Taylor

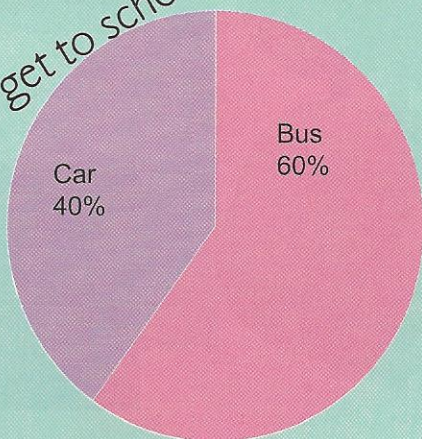

Sophomore Lloyd Robinson tried to find his overdue homework. "I usually go to my locker about 3 times a day," Lloyd said.

Finally getting to school on time, senior Marcus Tippins moved out of the everyday late club. "I had to get to school late, but now that I drive I don't have to be tardy anymore," Marcus said.

How do you get to school?

Studying for his upcoming history test, Senior Byran Washington looks over his notes in the library. "I always study for a test in the library that way I can get help if I need it," Byran said.

