

My Computer Love is thetruth.com

Computer technology is growing more and more everyday and as the days pass computers become more complex but at the same time more versatile. Computers have the ability to store and execute programs which is the ability to manipulate data according to a list of instructions. In classes such as computer science and web page design, students learn the basics of computers and how to use its programs for everyday life. "Computers have greatly influenced my life, it connects me to my friends and family," senior Epifania Taylor said.

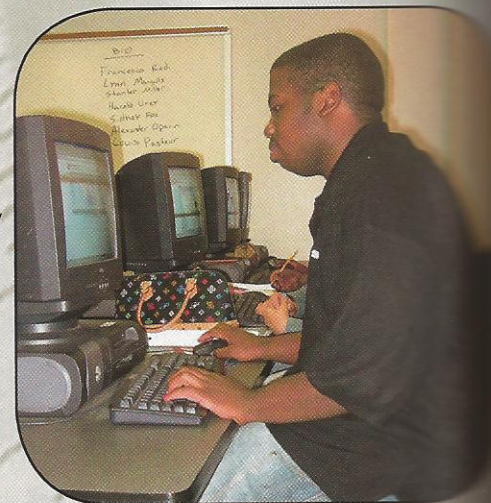

-Shacohn Brown

Working on an assignment in web page design, senior Sade' Black works avidly to get it completed. "Most of the time I use the computer to surf the net," senior Sade' Black said.

Creating an email for math class senior Jessica Williams listens attentively to the instructions given by Mr. Mambou. "Computers help me to keep in touch with my friends through myspace," Jessica said.

Taking a break from math class Seelfis White takes time out to check his e mail. "Computers help me to connect to the world, it's another form of communication," senior Seelfis White said.

